RENEWED HOPES SHATTERED AND THE LIFE OF POPE LEO STILL HANGS IN BALANCE

Doctors Dare Not Say How Long the Period of Agonizing Suspense Will Continue.

END OF LONG CAREER IS SURELY APPROACHING

Dr. Mazzoni Ridicules His Critics, Many of Whom Are Obscure Persons---Another Operation Not Decided Upon.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Rome, July 10, 6:10 a. m.—It is reported that when, shortly after sunrise this morning, Dr. Lapponi went to see the pope he found him with his hands together in the attitude of prayer. On the doctor inquiring whether he required anything the pope replied:

"Today finishes a week since I was taken ill. I am thanking God for having given me strength to still pray to Him."

Rome, July 10, 4 a. m.—The injections given first by Dr. Mazzoni and then by Dr. Lapponi have had in part the desired effect, as the pope has succeeded in getting some sleep, although his slumber was not entirely tranquil. The patient's diet has been somewhat lightened and is mainly limited to meat broth and toast.

Rome, July 10, 2 a. m.—At 12:15 this morning it was declared that the pope's condition had not changed since the issue of the bulletin at 7:20 last evening.

Rome, July 10, 2 a. m.—Another day of alternate hopes and fears has passed and Pope Leo's life still hangs in the balance. Beginning with renewed hopes the day closed with the scales tending slowly, but surely, downwards. How long this agonizing period of suspense will last not even the attending doctors dare to say.

No night bulletin was issued, but at 12:15 this morning it was learned from Dr. Mazzoni that the condition of the pontiff had not changed since the issue of the evening bulletin at 7:30 o'clock, and at which hour Dr. Lapponi had declared his fear that there was no hope, but that the end might not come during this night.

At midnight a report coming from the Vatican itself gained currency that Dr. Mazzoni had again operated on the pope and extracted serum which had again gathered in the pleural cavity.

No Operation Performed.

The representative of the Associated Press immediately went to the illustrious surgeon and found him at his home at 1:30 this morning. Dr. Mazzoni said:

"It is untrue that a new operation has been performed. I was with the pope from 11 p. m. until after midnight and found his general condition stationary, no change having taken place since this afternoon, when the consultation with Dr. Rossini was held. To strengthen the patient's heart and help the circulation of the blood I injected camphor and caffeine, after which the pope, who seemed somewhat relieved, said he remembered being treated with raspail water on a camphor basis when he was nuncio at Brussels, 60 years ago."

To a question, Dr. Mazzoni replied:

"I really cannot say whether the serum in the pleural cavity has increased since the consultation this afternoon, as I did not examine his holiness for such a purpose. It must be understood that the pope is too frail to be handled like other people.

Criticisms Are Ridiculed.

"Besides, his thorax, through old age, has become bent in such a way that the right side, where pneumonia was first detected, curves out in a very pronounced manner, while the left side curves in. In tomorrow's visit attention will be especially centered on the progress in the secretion of serum. Then a decision will be taken as to whether a new operation is necessary."

Dr. Mazzoni ended by ridiculing the criticisms, objections and advice which he said people, most of whom are famous only for never having been heard of, allow themselves to advance even from abroad, many of these persons having only seen the pope in photographs. The greatest accusation is that pleurisy was not discovered in time. He continued:

"I visited the pope for the first time on Sunday. On Monday evening I discovered the fluid and on Tuesday removed it. Any student of medicine knows that sometimes weeks pass before the presence of serum is detected. I myself once had pleurisy which the doctor only discovered 15 days after I was taken ill."

Bright Hopes Disappeared.

The condition of Pope Leo at times yesterday morning seemed so favorable that the hopeful Dr. Mazzoni and the more conservative Dr. Lapponi united in expressing the belief that there was some slight prospect of recovery, but within a few hours these brighter prospects disappeared before the most alarming conclusions reached after the lengthy consultation of the doctors.

The earlier hopes had been inspired largely by the pontiff's outward evidence of vigor, as he was able to rise, walk and command all his faculties, but the later consultation disclosed that these outward evidences of strength were entirely deceptive, as the real danger consisted in the gradual internal progress of the insidious disease.

The mere fact of the consultation, in itself, gave rise to the gloomiest forebodings. Indeed, this was the first actual consultation, as the previous frequent meetings of the doctors were not regarded as formal consultations. Today, however, Dr. Rossoni, the distinguished specialist of the Bacelli school, was called into a consultation lasting two hours, during which every phase of the patient's case was minutely gone over.

Condition Very Grave.

The conclusions announced showed that liquid is again rapidly gathering in the pleural cavity and that the pope's general condition is very grave.

Following the issuance of this bulletin the doctors freely expressed their personal convictions regarding the extreme gravity of the case. Dr. Lapponi said, without qualification, that the patient's condition was beyond hope. He did not expect a final collapse tonight, but rather a gradual sinking until the end came. How long the sufferer may last the doctors will not venture any prediction. Ordinary calculations, they say, fail to apply to this extraordinary case. One of them remarked today:

"Here is a man almost 100 years old retaining all his mental and most of his physical faculties and bravely combatting the approach of death. Although the conditions change from hour to hour, the essential conditions of mental alertness and physical vigor, continue unbroken. Never yet has there been the slightest lpapse into incoherency."

Volponi's Death Kept from Pope.

The tragic death of Monsignor Volponi was carefully kept from the pope throughout the day. It was at first feared that it would be necessary to inform the pope in order that Monsignor Volponi's successor to the office of secretary of the consistory might be nominated, but after discussion by the vatican authorities it was decided that the precedents admitted of a nomination of a secretary without the intervention of the pope.

The chief importance of the position is felt at the time of a conclave, so that if it is considered essential to fill Monsignor Volponi's place, Cardinal Camerlenge will designate a secretary of the consistory. This procedure will permit of the news of Monsignor Volponi's death being withheld from the pope indefinitely.

When the amelioration in the condition of the pope presented such favorable symptoms this morning, Pope Leo decided after Cardinal Rampolla to receive also all the other cardinals living in Rome, to the number of about 25 as a special mark of his gratification at the part they took in his illness. A special notice was sent them, calling them to the vatican. In fact, Cardinals Oreglia, Gotti and Della Volpe were received and had a short conversation with his holiness, but soon after the dangerous condition of the patient developed, compelling Dr. Lapponi to stop the other receptions.

Consented to Consultation.

When a consultation was decided upon, Dr. Rossini, being already in the antechamber, Dr. Lapponi cautiously informed the pope that he had thought it better to ask the opinion and advice of another physician in view of the phases of the disease being so variable. He added that nothing grave was the matter, but that Dr. Mazzoni and he, through conscientious scruples, wished to interrogate their colleague, Dr. Rossini.

The pope, who by that time had again fallen into a state of prostration from which he had been free for 36 hours, but whose intellect remained perfectly

Cardinal Ferrari May Be Next Pope

ROME, July 9.—(Special Cable.)—In well-informed Vatican circles it is whispered that Cardinal Ferrari, archbishop of Milan, will probably be elected pope at the conclave. Several members of the sacred college are desirous of electing a pope who will be in harmony with the modern tendencies of the Christian world. Cardinal Ferrari is a man of humble origin, who has risen to eminence through his own merit. He would, it is believed, be best qualified for the papal throne, and his election would furnish a solution for the various social questions with which the next pope must deal.

LAST HOPE ABANDONED FOR POPE'S RECOVERY

Dr. Rossoni, His New Physician, Says Medical Science Can Only Afford Temporary Relief and That Death Is Near.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]
(Copyright, 1903, by New York Herald Co.)

Rome, July 9.—I have just interviewed Dr. Rossoni regarding the critical condition of the pope, whom he examined today. The doctor said:

"The terrible impression the pope's condition made upon me was perhaps due to the fact that this was my first visit to his holiness.

"I believe it is not possible to retain hope whatever, though the pope may live a few more hours or even days.

"As to the crisis which occurred this afternoon, I do not like it. Prof. Mazzoni believes it was due to the exertion made by the pope in the morning, when he insisted on talking almost incessantly. I believe, on the other hand, that it is due to the malady itself. This, in my opinion, is exudatory pleurisy, and in this complaint effusion always recurs.

"Another operation will perhaps be undertaken tomorrow to draw off the liquid which has again collected, but it will be performed with the view of merely prolonging the pope's life for a day or two, and without any hope of the patient's recovery. However, it cannot yet be said whether the operation will take place, for Pope Leo's weakness may be so great as to render it inadvisable."

THREE DOCTORS DECLARE POPE'S CONDITION GRAVE

Official Bulletin Shows That Patient's Symptoms Are Generally Depressing.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

ROME, July 9.—7:30 p. m.—The following bulletin has been issued:

"The general condition of the illustrious patient having become depressed, a consultation was held at 4 o'clock with the participation of Prof. Rossini. From objective examination, it appears that the liquid is again rapidly gathering in the pleura. The sounds of the heart are weak, without any symptoms of valvular lesion. The pulse is easily compressible, and it has 90 pulsations instead of 65, which is normal. The breathing is superficial and at long intervals. The kidneys are not performing their regular functions. The state of his holiness is considered grave.

A Baltimore Husband Offers Strange Explanation of the Killing of His Helpmeet.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BALTIMORE, July 9.—Josephine Manoley of No. 762 West Hamburg street was shot about 2 o'clock this morning by her husband, Frank Manoley, while she was sleeping beside him in bed. Four bullets were fired at the woman, all of them taking effect.

The sound of the shooting in such a quiet neighborhood and at that hour of the morning brought policemen and a few neighbors to the house, who found Manoley in the room with his wife, who, mortally wounded, was breathing her last. Before anything could be done for her the woman was dead.

Manoley told officials that he dreamed a burglar had entered his home and was holding a knife over his head, when he reached for his pistol during his sleep and fired the four bullets, taking effect in his wife's head. Manoley is 26 years of age and runs a planing machine in a lumber mill. He has two children, a girl about 5 years of age and a boy about 3 months.

ENGLAND'S KING COURTS AMERICA

Edward VII Declares Himself in Favor of Closer Relations.

MONROE DOCTRINE UPHELD

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, July 9.—In formally welcoming the American naval officers to England tonight, King Edward took occasion to make an emphatic declaration in favor of closer relations between the United States and Great Britain. His majesty did not speak of an alliance, or even of an understanding, but the impression was clear from his remarks that he desired that the two nations more together in the interests of the peace of the world.

Some of the king's ministers also took advantage of the occasion to impress on the American officers their cordial approval of the Monroe doctrine and their desire that it be supported by American influence in a way which would place it above all criticism.

The royal welcome was extended to the American officers at Buckingham palace, where, at 8:30 commenced the dinner given in their honor by King Edward. The table was decorated by marechal neil roses, and gold plate brought from Windsor was used. The king commanded the most distinguished of the empire to attend and 56 guests were present. On the king's right sat Ambassador Choate and on his left Rear Admiral Cotton.

The king was dressed in the uniform of an admiral of the British fleet. On the conclusion of the dinner his majesty, in a tactful speech, expressed gratification at the acceptance of his invitation and cordially welcomed Rear Admiral Cotton and his squadron to England. He asserted that what he said expressed the sentiment not only of himself, but of the whole British people, and he proposed a toast to President Roosevelt, for whom his majesty said he entertained the highest consideration and admiration.

Ambassador Choate responded, and in an eloquent speech echoed the wish of the king for the maintenance and promotion of more cordial relations between the two great English-speaking nations.

The king further emphasized his gratification by writing at the table a message to President Roosevelt in which he stated that it had given him the greatest pleasure to welcome the American squadron. King Edward's cordiality made a great impression on the American officers who left the function convinced of the desire on the part of Great Britain to maintain the closest relations with the American republic.

ROPE IS READY FOR MURDERER

Officer Bierer of Greensburg Shot Down in Cold Blood.

SLAYER IS CAPTURED

Thousand Men Crowd Around County Jail Awaiting Arrival of Sheriff With Prisoner.

CAPTIVE TAKEN TO LATROBE

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Greensburg, Pa., July 9.—One thousand men gathered at the Greensburg jail tonight, many of them declaring that they would lynch Charles Cruber, who today killed Henry Foster Bierer of this city, if an attempt was made to bring him to the prison. On a telegraph pole in front of the jail was a rope ready for the execution.

The indignant citizens gathered at the jail when the report reached Greensburg that Cruber had been caught tonight near Jamison's No. 1 coke works after an all-day chase. He was captured after three of the sheriff's posse shot at him, but their bullets went wild. Seeing that he was surrounded Cruber gave up.

Men in the sheriff's posse wanted a lynching right on the spot, but Sheriff Trescher and District Attorney Cunningham were able to quiet the bloodthirsty men. While the discussion of whether or not he should be hanged to the very tree in which he was found hiding was going on Cruber was the coolest man in the crowd. He stood defiantly and listened to the conversation, showing not the slightest evidence of fear.

When the sheriff and Mr. Cunningham had prevented the lynching, news reached the party that there was trouble in Greensburg. Mrs. Trescher telephoned her husband that a great crowd was surrounding the jail and that violence would be done the prisoner if there was an attempt made to bring him to Greensburg early in the evening.

Captive Taken to Latrobe.

He was captured at 8 o'clock and a drive of an hour and a half would have landed Cruber in the county seat. It was decided to take him to Latrobe, where he is to be held until it is safe to bring him here. He will arrive early in the morning.

The killing of Bierer was cowardly. "Darby" Bierer, as he was familiarly known in Greensburg, was a constable for Squire J. F. Beatty. He was 45 years old and had lived here all of his life. All Greensburg knew him. He had not an enemy in the town. He did not know the meaning of fear and was never known to have carried a revolver, although he was warned that Cruber is a desperate character. He went after him this morning unarmed and unassisted.

He had a warrant for the arrest of Cruber on a charge of surety of peace. Bierer found his man at Jamison No. 1. Cruber asked for an opportunity to eat his breakfast. This was granted, as was permission to the prisoner to get his coat. Good-natured Bierer allowed Cruber to go behind him while securing the coat.

Three shots were heard. The bullet causing death entered the head just behind the left ear. Leaving his victim unconscious Cruber rushed out of the house with a revolver in his hand. The murder occurred at 8 this morning and it was 8 o'clock tonight before the manhunt was brought to a successful close.

Cruber Had Bad Record.

Cruber is a newcomer in the county and the manner of his introduction here was not to his credit. He was sent to the penitentiary several years ago for some crime in Allegheny county. While in prison he made the acquaintance of Peter Mattern, who was serving a term from this county. Mattern had belonged to a band of thieves operating in the Ligonier valley. He was put in jail here and one night hit William McCready, the keeper, over the head with an iron bar. Taking the keys from the warden, Mattern effected a general jail delivery. He fled to the Connellsville coke region. Here he had two of his front teeth extracted in the hope of assisting in a disguise. Mattern was recognized, however, and given a long term in Riverside.

Cruber, whose home is in Coshocton, O., was sent to the penitentiary from Pittsburgh. The terms of the two criminals expired about the same time and Mattern invited Cruber to Westmoreland. Somewhere they picked up a third man, who claims to be Fred Cruber. The trio went to the No. 1 coal works of the Jamison company, about five miles from town. The Crubers were known there as Kruger.

The trio caused a good deal of trouble in the community. About two weeks ago Charles Cruber was arrested for stealing a sledge hammer from the company, but was allowed his freedom upon the payment of a fine and the return of the property. The three men lived together in a portion of one of the company's double houses.

Disliked Peaceful Neighbor.

Across a narrow yard is the residence of Lewis Ollos. To this peaceful Italian the three men took a dislike. They shot at him three times Friday night and then put a stick of dynamite under his coal house and destroyed it.

Ollos made information against the three men before Justice Beatty, charg-

ELEVATED WON AFTER A FIGHT

Common Council Passed P. R. R. Ordinance on Second Reading.

TWO MEMBERS GO OUT

Tracks to Be Removed from Liberty Avenue Within a Reasonable Period.

PROVISION MADE FOR TAXING

Common Council's Action On Duquesne Way Ordinance

The long fight in common council last night over the Duquesne way franchise, resulted in very few amendments being added, and the ordinance is now in such shape that when it is finally passed the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will accept it and go ahead with the great improvement it contemplates. The following is the gist of the amendments:

The railroad cannot put supporting columns on the sidewalks or in streets on which it owns the property at which it crosses the streets.

The railroad company is subject to any general franchise tax that may be levied on other railroad corporations.

The tracks must be removed from Liberty avenue in two years.

The railroad company must use a non-smoke producing fuel.

After an exciting special session lasting until midnight, common council last night passed the P[enn]sylvania railroad Duquesne way fr[anchise] bill on second reading, defeating [the] advocates of compensation and [those] who desired that any other railroad be permitted to use the tracks on paying the Pennsylvania rent.

The chair was frequently appealed from by Councilman William H. Stevenson and an often sustained by council; charges of unfairness and gag law were made by Mr. Stevenson and his friends, and two of them dramatically left the council chamber after asserting that the city was in the grip of the Pennsylvania railroad.

It was a long fight and was warmly fought all along the line. The advocates of the ordinance as it was originally presented with some amendments safeguarding the city's interests, were victorious at all stages of the game, but every step of their progress toward victory was disputed.

Tracks to Be Removed.

They were not permitted to secure the speedy removal of the tracks from Liberty street without being compelled to discuss knotty points of parliamentary law, to submit to many rising votes and innumerable roll calls.

The leaders of that element of the citizens that wishes to have the nuisance-destroying tracks removed from Liberty avenue, were Alex G. Leslie, Christian Beckert, Jr., D. F. Crawford and William Brand, who were ably seconded by the temporary chairman, Daniel J. Bole. The leaders of the opposition, who failed in their endeavors to put restrictions on the franchise, were William H. Stevenson, Joseph C. Wasson, William C. Reitz and Dr. James P. Shaw. Both sides displayed acumen and energy, but the popularity of the ordinance was indicated by the vote on nearly every restriction sought to be placed upon the franchise.

Election of Temporary Chairman.

The fight began at the start, when it was found that neither President Charles S. Crawford nor President pro. tem Gebhart Sahner was present. The clerk of common council called the meeting to order and asked for nominations for temporary chairman. Mr. Stevenson nominated Dr. George W. McNeil and Mr. Crawford nominated Daniel J. Bole, Mr. Bole being elected by a large majority.

When the roll was called it developed that the following members were absent: Charles S. Crawford, John P. Baldauf, Frank W. Doniel, Harry A. Lamb, Gebhart Sahner, Jacob Schuck, Dr. James P. Shaw, I. W. Shearer and J. K. Wymard. Later Baldauf, Sahner, Shaw, Shearer and Wymard appeared and took part in the meeting.

Then Mr. Beckert made a motion recalling the ordinance to take up the ordinance known as bill 122, file 642. Mr. Crawford moved that it be recalled from committee and Mr. Stevenson instantly moved that the measure be laid on the table.

Plans Are Too Late.

The latter motion was lost, and while Mr. Stevenson, after a long debate succeeded in having the railroad company instructed to furnish every member of councils with detailed plans, yet as the ordinance passed second reading and no amendments can be offered on the third, the detailed plans will serve no particular purpose. When, during this discussion, Mr. Leslie said the city was fully protected because the work of building the elevated tracks had to be done under the supervision of the director of the department of public works. Mr. Stevenson said: "We don't want an agent of the Pennsylvania railroad to have jurisdiction over these plans."

On motion of Mr. Leslie it was agreed that the previous question should be taken on at 11:15 p. m., and although Mr. Shaw was amazed at Mr. Leslie and said it was an effort to choke off debate, and Mr.

SHE DEFEATED TWO OF THE MEN

An Attempt to Change By-Laws of the Educational Association Failed.

MISS HALEY THE CHAMPION

Successfully Defended Old Law Against Presidents Eliot and Butler—New Officers Are Elected for the Coming Term.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

BOSTON, July 9.—The proceedings at the National Educational association convention today were the most important of the week. Interest centered in the annual business meeting at which developed the only real sensation of the convention. After the election of officers an attempt was made by President Butler of Columbia, supported by President Eliot of Harvard, to amend the by-laws so that members of the nominating committee might be named by the president instead of by the state delegates.

This was strenuously opposed by Miss Margaret A. Haley of Chicago, who made such a forcible plea in favor of state representation that she succeeded in carrying the meeting and routing the two well-known college presidents.

The usual sessions of the different departments were held during the morning, while a large majority of the 30,000 visiting delegates spent the afternoon in sightseeing, excursions being made to many of the nearby towns of historic interest, such as Concord, Lexington, Plymouth, Provincetown, Cambridge, Salem and Marble Head.

President Charles W. Eliot presided at the business meeting. Treasurer William M. Davidson reported total receipts of $30,746, and disbursements of $30,400. The report of the trustees showed the permanent fund to be $108,000; investments $107,200, of which $90,000 is in first mortgages on real estate and $18,000 in Illinois bonds and mortgages. The report was unanimously accepted.

Following the report of the trustees, came the election of officers, which resulted as follows: The secretary being authorized to cast one ballot for the long list presented by the nominating committee:

President, John Williston Cook, DeKalb, Ill.; treasurer, McHenry Rhoades, Kentucky; first vice president, Charles W. Eliot, Massachusetts.

The sensation of the evening was the spirited difference of opinion between President Eliot of Harvard and President Butler of Columbia, on the one side, and Miss Margaret A. Haley of Chicago, on the other, over a proposed amendment to the by-laws, giving the selection of the nominating committee now lodged with the state delegates, to the president. Miss Haley opposed the proposed change and was victorious after a lively forensic battle, in which the two college presidents and a number of the delegates joined. Miss Haley contended that the proposed amendment was nothing less than a move for investing the power of government in the male members of the associations. Both President Eliot and President Butler insisted that under the existing conditions the states are not getting the proper representation on the committee on nominations.

The meeting of the general session in the evening dealt with municipal questions, three addresses being made, as follows:

"The Teaching of Civics and Good Citizenship in the Public Schools," by R. W. G. Welling, New York city; "The Justification of City Expenditure on Parks and Parkways, Material for Public Education," by Nathan Matthews, Jr., Boston, and "The Nature Study Movement," by L. H. Bailey, professor of general and experimental horticulture, Cornell university.

The convention will practically close tomorrow, although the visitors kept up their registration today and the list tonight was over 30,000.

POLICE IN CONTROL.

Militia Ordered to Withdraw from Evansville—More Funerals Yesterday.

EVANSVILLE, IND., July 9.—After talking with Gov. Durbin over the telephone this afternoon, Brig.-Gen. McKee ordered all troops, excepting one company, to return home. The city will be left in charge of the police department. Seven funerals were held today. All were conducted quietly. The ministers in one or two cases prayed for the city and county administrations and said in their addresses that this was not a time for criticism, but for sympathy with the friends of the dead.

Two more of the wounded are pronounced to be in a critical condition. Adam Browski and John Bea are sinking and if they die the list of fatalities will be increased to 12. The grand jury is taking testimony on Monday night's shooting. Several prominent citizens were examined concerning any knowledge they might have of the looting of the gun stores by the mob.

OFFICERS WERE ELECTED

National Educational Association Chooses Its Executives for the Ensuing Year.

BOSTON, July 9.—The National Educational society today elected J. W. Cook of Illinois, president, M. C. Henry Rhoads of Kentucky, treasurer, and 75 vice presidents, of whom Charles W. Eliot of Harvard university is the first.

As most of the department work was finished the greater part of the day was devoted to excursions, some for pleasure, others for geological and other educational purposes.

The national council held a memorial session this morning at which tributes were paid to J. L. M. Curry, President W. M. Bradshear and Dr. E. E. White. The council also adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the board of directors be requested to appropriate the sum of $750 or so much thereof as may be necessary in order to defray the expenses of the work of the sub-committee of three on a proposed investigation of the facts of contemporary educational experience."

Chief Irwin to Get $250 Reward.

Chief of Police Harry Irwin of Wilkinsburg, accompanied by Sheriff J. Corkaday of Harrison county, W. Va., yesterday took to Clarksburg, W. Va., J. E. Allen, who is wanted there for false pretense. Allen was captured by Chief Irwin Monday in Wilkinsburg. Glediden, Offutt & Co., contractors of Clarksburg, allege that Allen, when in their employ as a foreman, padded the payrolls to the extent of $125. For capturing Allen Chief Irwin will receive $250 reward.

Disappeared With a Bank Roll.

J. H. Wright of Primrose, Washington county, was in McKees Rocks yesterday in search of his brother-in-law, Chauncey Briggs, who has been missing from Primrose for 14 weeks. Briggs left home with $1,600 in cash for East Liverpool, where he intended establishing himself in the liquor business. He was first traced to Pittsburgh, and from there to McKees Rocks. Wright thinks Briggs met with foul play.

PRESIDENT GOES ON RIVER CRUISE

With Mrs. Roosevelt He Boards Sylph for Trip up the Hudson.

SOCIAL VISIT TO A FRIEND

They Will Return to Their Oyster Bay Home Tonight—Notwithstanding the Heat President Plays Tennis With His Boys.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

OYSTER BAY, L. I., July 9.—Without the least warning the United States steamship Sylph, with President and Mrs. Roosevelt aboard, hove anchor at nine o'clock tonight and left Oyster Bay. Much mystery is thrown about the trip. The ship, it is said, will anchor somewhere above Poughkeepsie on the Hudson at six o'clock tomorrow morning. The president and Mrs. Roosevelt will visit and take luncheon at the house of a friend, whose name is not disclosed. The Sylph will be back in Oyster Bay and the president at Sagamore Hill tomorrow by midnight. For some unexplained reasons the plans for the trip were kept profoundly secret.

Although the mercury was playing tag with the century mark this afternoon at Sagamore Hill, the president played several fast sets of tennis with his boys.

President Roosevelt was much gratified today to receive from Secretary Moody a denial of the report that over 100 American bluejackets had deserted from the European fleet. Rear Admiral Cotton pronounced the statement a fake.

Gov. Murray Crane of Massachusetts, who departed from Oyster Bay this morning will doubtless be extremely active in the next campaign, but it is extremly doubtful that he will have full management of the eastern campaign.

Although invitations are coming in almost every day for the president to attend county fairs few of them will be accepted. The president intends to make the most of his vacation, for with the campaign on next summer he will get little rest.

The president has decided that the matter of the Jewish petition must be finally disposed of before any further effort is made to compose the issues arising out of the Manchurian situation. Therefore, it is now said, that nothing is likely to be done in regard to Manchuria until next September, by which time, according to the last Russion engagement, the evacuation of Manchuria by Russion troops, save railroad guards, should be complete.

It is understood that the Russian government has set up as one reason for not sanctioning the opening of new ports in Manchuria the necessity of allowing her first to complete the evacuation of Manchuria, and although the reasoning is rather obscure on that point, it is understood that our government is willing to wait until September before making the next move.

FIVE KILLED BY FAST TRAIN

Four Others Seriously Hurt in a Crossing Disaster Near Cincinnati.

MULES FRIGHTENED BY WHISTLE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CINCINNATI, July 9.—A westbound Pennsylvania train struck a wagon containing nine people at a crossing eight miles east of this city tonight, killing five and seriously injuring four of its occupants. Robert Copenhaven, with his wife and two children, aged 8 and 2 years respectively, were driving from Red Comb Junction to Madisonville. A daughter of a neighbor and four of their boarders, William Booth, Charles Johnson, William Foole and another man, whose name was not learned, accompanied them.

They did not see the train, which was coming at high speed. When the engineer saw them he blew his whistle, but it was too late to stop the train. The mules, on hearing the whistle, stopped and could not be moved. The animals were across the track and escaped unhurt while the wagon was wrecked and all the occupants either killed or injured.

The train brought the victims to this city. The dead were taken to the morgue and the injured to the hospital. Robert Copenhaven and one of his children, the neighbors' daughter, named Grace, William Foole and William Booth were killed. Mrs. Copenhaven and the unknown man were fatally injured. Charles Johnson and the 2-year-old child of Copenhaven may recover.

ARRESTED FOR GRIEF

John Carr Lamented Wife's Death at Hospital So Loudly That Police Were Called.

"Had I kept her in my little home I would have had her yet," moaned John Carr, an aged man, at No. 7 police station yesterday, where he had been taken on account of his loud lamenting at the South Side hospital.

The grief was caused by the death of his wife. Suffering from heat and exhaustion she was taken to that institution yesterday afternoon, and died half an hour after being admitted. Carr seemed to be deranged by her death, and became so loud in his demonstrations that a call was sent for the patrol wagon.

To Magistrate Joseph H. Vitchenstain he said he had only been sorry. He was released a couple of hours later and was turned over to relatives. The Carr home is at the south end of the South Twenty-second street bridge.

FOUND VOLCANO TRACES.

State Geologist Makes Interesting Discoveries in York County.

YORK, PA., July 9.—(Special.)—For the first time in the geological researches of this state, traces of volcanoes have been discovered in several of the counties lying immediately west of the Susquehanna river. Col. Henry C. Demming, state geologist, is the discoverer.

In York county, where Colonel Demming has been for a week, he has found the volcanic mineral trachyte, showing beyond a doubt that active volcanoes were once in that section. In Cumberland and Snyder counties he found minerals of volcanic origin, while from three different farms in Mifflin county he took many specimens of volcanic breccia.

Hanlan to Leave Columbia.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Edward Hanlan, who coached Columbia university's racing crews for a number of years, will retire from his position September 15. The alumni of the university at a meeting held at the college tonight unanimously recommended Jasper T. Goodwin, Columbia '78, for the place of rowing coach.

Shenango Valley Hospital Requires Services of Two Resident Doctors

Dr. W. C. Kissinger. Dr. Charles B. Cook.

NEW CASTLE, PA., July 9.—(Special.)—Dr. W. C. Kissinger of Sharon and Dr. Charles B. Cook of Pittsburgh are now the resident physicians of the Shenango Valley hospital of this city, having just assumed that important duty. This is the first time in the history of the institution that two resident physicians have been necessary. With the large addition now being erected, which will permit the Shenango Valley hospital to accommodate at least 100 patients, the work has become too arduous for a single resident physician. The Shenango Valley hospital receives both medical and surgical cases from the entire territory hereabouts.

ing surety of the peace. Mattern and Fred Cruber were arrested Saturday, but Charles Cruber was not gotten then. This morning Constable Bierer reached the coal works shortly before 9 o'clock. Cruber occupied the two rooms on the first floor, the rear one as a kitchen and the front one as a sleeping apartment. When Bierer walked in the back door, Mrs. Fennick, who lives in the other half of the house, could hear this conversation, as the partition is very thin:

"I have a warrant for you, and will have to take you to Greensburg," said the constable to Cruber.

"I am just getting my breakfast," replied the prisoner, "can't I eat it?"

"Yes; go ahead," said Bierer.

There was a silence for a few minutes, then Mrs. Fennick heard a noise like that of a chair being pushed back, and recognized Cruber saying:

"My coat is in the front room, and I would like to get it."

Constable Bierer told him to get the garment. Within a minute Mrs. Fennick heard three shots. She caught her baby and fled from the house. When she reached the street, Cruber was just rushing out of the side gate. He had a coat over his arm and a revolver in his hand. The man disappeared in the direction of the tipple.

Murderer Uses Strategy.

The conversation overheard by Mrs. Fennick and the remark Cruber made last night, will be the strongest pieces of evidence in the possession of the prosecution. Cruber had a keg of beer at his home last night and while drinking with an Italian said: "If they come out here to arrest me, I will kill them."

The supposition is that Bierer surprised Cruber this morning. While eating, he figured out the plan of going for this coat as an excuse to get into the room where his revolver was lying. From the position in which Bierer's body was lying he must have sat down in the chair Cruber vacated and turned his back on the prisoner. This gave Cruber an easy opportunity to deal out death.

The news of the shooting was quickly reported to Supt. Richard Jamison at the office of the works. Bierer was carried there. He was unconscious when found and although he lived until 1:20 this afternoon, he did not regain consciousness. He died in the Greensburg hospital. Bierer was married, but had not lived with his wife for some time. She is supposed to reside in Allegheny.

Superintendent Jamison, who fought through the Philippine campaign with the Tenth regiment, at once started to work to capture Cruber. He sent his own men on the train and then notified District Attorney Cunningham and Sheriff Trescher. The sheriff, Mr. Cunningham, Assistant District Attorney Ralph Hurst, Squire Beatty, Detective Thomas Matthias of the Pennsylvania railroad force, Chief of Police Hutchinson, Officer Martin and Constable Washabaugh started from here. Chief of Police Sterling, Officer McWhorter and Constable Fred Schasney of Latrobe all went to join in the chase.

Jamison Arms the Posse.

Jamison distributed all the guns and ammunition in the store among a posse of about 30 men. There are two patches of woods in the vicinity of the works. Cruber sought cover in the one nearest to his home. This place was searched thoroughly during the afternoon, but he was overlooked.

The posse then beat the bushes for a radius of a mile and a half about the works. Late in the afternoon there was a report that he had been seen to enter an abandoned coal mine. The Latrobe officers followed this clue.

While Sheriff Trescher and Mr. Cunningham were at the company offices arranging for a further search, Charles Dominick rushed in with the information that he had seen Cruber running for the cover of the second woods on the farm of E. K. Bierer, a brother of the dead man, who is a conductor on the Pennsylvania. The wood covers about 20 acres, and is a mile northeast of Jamison.

Superintendent Jamison loaded his big delivery wagon with men. Each person had a firearm of some kind. The officers rode out in buggies. The place was reached shortly before 8 o'clock. The woodland was searched, but the man not found. A council of war was held. At the suggestion of Superintendent Jamison it was decided to place pickets on all sides of the wood and keep them there until morning, as it was thought Cruber was hiding in the brush.

Leaving Lewis Oral, a boy, and Willis n Simmons and Robert Edwards, two colored men, on guard at the spot where the war council was held, the remainder of the posse moved off to the other side of the woods. In a few minutes three shots were heard coming from the direction of the two men and the boy. It developed that the consultation had been held almost underneath the tree where a few minutes later Oral discovered Cruber. The boy tried to shoot, but his revolver would not work. Simmons fired both barrels of his shotgun but did no damage. He was just aiming Edwards' shotgun when Cruber called that he would give up. An Italian, who arrived at that minute, fired at the man in the tree, but the bullet went wild.

Cruber threw his revolver to the ground when the sheriff arrived and came down out of the tree. His weapon was a 38-caliber. He had a supply of cartridges, but wisely figured that he would not last long with 30 men gunning for him. One old man in the posse wanted a lynching and so did some of the others, but they were cooled off. Sheriff Trescher and Detective Mathias took the prisoner to Latrobe.

Cruber is about 30 years old. When the news reached Greensburg of the capture the crowd gathered at the jail. The majority of the people were there out of curiosity, while a few wanted trouble. A man mounted a box and advised the crowd to lynch Cruber if he was brought to jail. A rope was gotten ready on a telegraph pole, but a prison attendant had no trouble getting it. The crowd remained at the jail until about midnight, when it was decided that Trescher did not intend to bring the prisoner to Greensburg. The people then went home.

Mr. Bierer is survived by a wife and one child, his mother, two brothers and a sister. WALTER J. CHRISTY.

NEGRO MURDERER MUST PAY PENALTY OF CRIME

Spencer Man Who Killed Anti-Policy Society Superintendent Sentenced to Death.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 9.—William Spencer, the negro who shot and killed Superintendent Charles MacFarlane of the anti-policy society, on June 15, was found guilty today, of murder in the first degree. His plea of insanity was unavailing. Spencer was indicted immediately after the murder. The jury was out just 55 minutes. Spencer will be electrocuted during the third week in August. Spencer will be taken to Sing Sing tomorrow. There he will be placed in solitary confinement until the week beginning Monday, August 17, when he will be put to death.

While Spencer was waiting in the Tombs for the verdict, he said he would not go to the court room again and that Recorder Goff would never sentence him. An extra guard was placed over him. When he was returned to the jail the jury had agreed on a verdict Spencer was searched. Two men took hold of him and he wriggled from their grasp. There was a struggle, but he was soon overpowered. A large window in the court room, near where he stood, was closed after he had been brought in, and a dozen court officers stood near him while the verdict was being announced and sentence pronounced.

New Freight Station for Swissvale.

The Pennsylvania railroad will begin work July 15 on a new freight station in Swissvale. It will be located at Calumet street, about three-quarters of a mile east of the present building, and will be much larger. The passenger depot may also be moved to the new freight station. If the freight depot is moved the commercial center likely will follow the station. The railroad company claims the owners of property adjoining its present station will not sell sufficient ground to enlarge the station or place more tracks for sidings except at an exorbitant price.

Former Burgess McClure Near Death.

The condition of ex-Burgess James H. McClure of McKeesport at 11 o'clock last night was so critical that the attending physicians said he would hardly live through Friday. An affection in his throat has become so aggravated that it is impossible for him to take nourishment.

MORE SURPRISES IN THE DAHLEM MURDER CASE

Mrs. Dahlem Died from a Gunshot and Husband from a Revolver Bullet.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—A surprise was sprung today at the inquest into the death of Adolph and Sophia Dahlem—the man shot the woman and then himself at their home on Gravel road, in Byberry, on July 4—when it was shown that Mrs. Dahlem died not from a bullet from a revolver, but from the effects of shotgun wounds. The police thought Dahlem shot his wife with the same weapon with which he killed himself.

The jury never attempted to settle the question of priority of death. The shotgun was discovered in a room adjoining that in which the bodies were found. Dr. Wadsworth, the coroner's physician, who performed the autopsies, said in giving his testimony that there were two wounds in the abdomen of the woman. One was in the center and the other higher and to the left. Investigation showed a number of small shot and two pieces of wadding such as are used in rifle shells. He found the man's skull fractured, caused by a bullet, and a wound of the brain. Death in the case of the woman was caused by gunshot wounds of the abdomen, and in that of the man a revolver wound of the brain.

From the evidence the police now think that Dahlem quarreled with his wife and afterwards loaded the shotgun, called her from the table at which she was eating, and shot her. Then, they say, he shot himself with a revolver which he always carried. A truce was agreed to between the attorneys before today's inquest by which both sides agreed not to cross-examine witnesses with reference to the question as to whether the husband or the wife died first.

Killed in a Runaway.

MORGANTOWN, W. VA., July 9.—(Special.)—Thomas Pastorius, well known throughout West Virginia and Western Pennsylvania as a baseball player, was driving his horse this evening when it ran away. He was thrown out and killed instantly. He was aged 32 years. This morning the team of B. S. White ran away and one horse was killed.

Stevenson insisted it was the worst effort at gag law that had ever been made in common council. Mr. Stevenson failed in an appeal from the decision of the chair.

Splitting a Thin Hair.

The language in the prologue to the ordinance, that the "city desires the improvement and the railroad is willing," was knocked out on Mr. Stevenson's motion, and similar language committing the city to the proposition that the removal from Liberty avenue to Duquesne way was for the benefit of the city was also ended. Mr. Stevenson saying that these words were lies. Both factions agreed in not permitting the railroad company to place supports to the overhead work in streets and sidewalks, and amendments were adopted accordingly after a long debate.

Engineer W. R. Browne was heard in defense of an amendment desired by the rivermen and offered by Mr. Stevenson, making the railroad and not the city responsible for any expense caused to the railroad company by any future raising of the bridges, but the amendment was knocked out, and now, if the government should raise the bridges, the city, the rivermen claim, must then stand the expense the railroad company may be put to in changing its elevated structure. After Mr. Wasson lost his point of order, that all the business done was illegal because the ordinance had not been printed as amended, Mr. Stevenson brought in an amendment permitting other railroads to use the tracks.

Other Amendments Defeated.

That was defeated, as was an amendment of Mr. Wasson compelling the railroad company to put in switching facilities for merchants on Duquesne way and Mr. Reitz's amendment charging the railroad company $50,000 a year as compensation for the franchise.

After another amendment offered by Stevenson was lost, Dr. McNeil rose, said he would not stand for such unfairness as had characterized the proceedings and walked out.

"Good by," said Councilman Thomas Delaney.

"The city of Pittsburgh is being throttled by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company," said Mr. Wasson, "and I for one won't stand it." He walked away, too, and Mr. Delaney shouted after him: "Good by."

Mr. Leslie's amendment, making the railroad company liable for any tax placed in future upon other railroad companies, was adopted.

Mr. Stevenson made a last effort to limit the franchise to 50 years, to release the city from all claims for damages caused by the erection of the structure and to secure from the railroad an exemption for the claim of $210,000 with interest owed by the city for the Union station improvement. Then on motion of Mr. Leslie the ordinance passed second reading, the vote being 23 for and four against.

President Was Absent.

When the rivermen had assembled it was discovered that neither President Charles S. Crawford nor Gebhart Sahner, president pro tem., was present.

Immediately after the calling of the roll Chris Beckert, Jr., named D. J. Bole as chairman. Said Joseph C. Wasson raised a point of order that the call had not been read. The clerk did not recognize Mr. Wasson, but W. H. Stevenson nominated George W. Neil, and a vote was taken, which resulted in the selection of Mr. Bole by a vote of 31 to 11. The vote was as follows:

For Mr. Bole—Messrs. Armstrong, Baker, Barr, Beckert, Brand, Cavett, D. F. Crawford, Cross, Delaney, Fitzpatrick, Hogue, Hughes, Jack, Lauler, Leslie, David Lewis, John Lewis, Martin, Moore, McNally, McNeil—24.

For Mr. McNeil—Messrs. Bechner, Bole, Edwards, Reitz, Schad, Shearer, Stevenson, Wasson, West, Willey, Wolfe—11.

The clerk then read the call of the meeting, and Mr. Beckert asked that the Pennsylvania railroad ordinance be taken up.

Points of Order Raised.

Mr. Stevenson attempted to raise a point of order, whereupon D. F. Crawford moved that the ordinance be recalled from the committee.

McNeil here raised a point of order, and the chair decided it was not well taken, whereupon Mr. Stevenson offered an amendment to lay the motion on the table until such time as the company will furnish plans. A roll was called upon Mr. Stevenson's amendment and it was lost by a vote of 31 to 12. The vote was as follows:

Ayes—Messrs. Bechner, Edwards, McNally, Thomas O'Brien, Reitz, Schad, Shaw, Shearer, Stevenson, Wasson, Willey, Wolfe—12.

Noes—Messrs. Armstrong, Baker, Barr, Beckert, Bole, Brand, Brown, Cavett, D. F. Crawford, Cross, Delaney, Fitzpatrick, Hogue, Hughes, Jack, Lauler, Leslie, David Lewis, John Lewis, Martin, Moore, McNally, M. E. O'Brien, Rodgers, Schwarzwaelder, Semmelrock, Sheehan, Sterrett, Walls, West, Zeuger—31.

When it was insisted that a vote be taken upon Mr. Crawford's motion to amend, Mr. McNeil raised the point of order that it was wrong to take up the ordinance without the amendments of the committee on corporations attached.

Refused a Personal Favor.

After some words between members of council, Mr. Brand claimed that Mr. Crawford's motion was before the house, and the chair decided to this effect, whereupon Mr. Wasson asked as a "personal favor" that the ordinance be read, claiming his absence from the city put him in ignorance of its contents. Several members exclaimed that Mr. Wasson would become acquainted with its contents in due time, and the question on Mr. Crawford's motion to recall the ordinance from the committee was loudly called for. The motion was put and was carried by a vote of 28 to 16. The vote was as follows:

Ayes—Messrs. Armstrong, Barker, Beckert, Bole, Brand, Cavett, D. F. Crawford, Cross, Delaney, Fitzpatrick, Hogue, Hughes, Jack, Lauler, Leslie, John Lewis, David Lewis, Martin, Moore, McNally, M. E. O'Brien, Rodgers, Schwarzwaelder, Semmelrock, Sheehan, Sterrett, Walls, Zeuger—28.

Noes—Messrs. Baldauf, Bechner, Brown, Edwards, McNeil, Reitz, Schad, Shaw, Shearer, Stevenson, Wasson, West, Willey, Wolfe—16.

The bill was then taken up section by section.

As soon as the first amendment made by the corporations committee was reached Mr. Stevenson raised the point of order that the bill as read did not agree with the printed bill on the clerk's file. The clerk was reading the amendment. There was a wrangle and Mr. Leslie, to get out of it, offered an amendment as adopted in the committee.

It was the first section of the contract that the clash was over, which set forth that the "city desires and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is willing" to have the route changed, and Mr. Stevenson went after it.

"This whole bill is built on a lie," he said. "The city desires," he quoted. "The city does not desire. Not one man in a hundred asks for this. The Pennsylvania railroad desires. It is all built on a lie that makes the city liable for damages." He offered an amendment providing that the improvement was mutually agreed upon.

City Does Desire It.

Mr. Wolfe said the fact that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company introduced the bill shows that it is the Pennsylvania railroad's desires.

"It is absurd," he said, "to think that the Pennsylvania would do anything just because the city desires it."

Dr. J. P. Sterrett said the city did desire it. The tracks in Liberty avenue are a great nuisance and their removal would bring the city more revenue than $1,000,000 or $50,000 a year would amount to. He talked at some length in support of the bill and grew indignant when Mr. Stevenson called him to order for not talking to the amendment.

Mr. Wasson could not recall any resolution of council asking for this change. He thought it absurd to say that the city desires it.

"Dr. McNeil said he would go half way and give track for track, but not two tracks for one track.

Mr. Leslie maintained that the city did desire the improvement. He gave a brief sketch of the efforts made to get the tracks off Liberty avenue and said it meant hundreds of thousands of dollars to the city.

Mr. Stevenson welcomed Mr. Leslie as an oracle who knew what the city desired, and nobody else does. He said he would agree to make a contract, but he would not agree that Liberty avenue is the only street in Pittsburgh and sacrifice everything else for it. He objected to placing the onus on the city and offered to wager every dollar he possessed that the city solicitor would not approve the bill with this clause in it.

When the vote was taken on the amendment substituting a "mutual contract" for "the city's desires" there was doubt in the chairman's mind. He called for a decision and 22 members stood up and voted aye to 18 who voted no.

Made It a Mutual Contract.

An amendment by Mr. Beckert authorizing the company to run its lines on its own property along Liberty avenue on the site of the Duquesne freight station was carried.

Some discussion followed the reading of the clause referring to the placing of columns. Mr. Crawford thought they should be within the curb lines, and Mr. Stevenson thought that the ordinance should read within the property lines of the company.

Both gentlemen offered amendments to meet their desires, when Mr. Leslie came to the rescue with an amendment which provides that the company shall place all supports within its "own property, where it crosses any lane, street or alley," which was adopted.

Clearances Over Bridges.

Mr. Stevenson offered an amendment providing that the structure shall have a clearance of 755.39 feet above Davis Island dam pool over the Sixth street bridge; 754.00 over the Seventh street bridge, and 755.5 over the Ninth street bridge; also that should there be a desire to change the clearance at any time the cost thereof shall be borne by the railroad company. Mr. Stevenson said that this is necessary for the protection of the river interests, and only required a raise from three to four feet at the points named as compared with the plans prepared.

W. R. Browne, formerly a city engineer and now employed by the river interests, explained the necessity of the change, after which a vote was taken and Mr. Stevenson's amendment was lost by a vote of 20 to 22. The vote was as follows:

Ayes—Messrs. Baldauf, Barker, Bechner, Brown, Crawford, Fitzpatrick, McNeil, M. E. O'Brien, Thomas O'Brien, Reitz, Schearer, Schad, Shaw, Shearer, Stevenson, Walls, Wasson, Willey, Wolfe, Wynard—20.

Noes—Messrs. Armstrong, Beckert, Brand, Cavett, Cross, Delaney, Hogue, Hughes, Lauler, Leslie, John Lewis, David Lewis, Martin, Moore, McNally, Rodgers, Schwarzwaelder, Semmelrock, Sheehan, Sterrett, West, Zeuger—22.

Removal of Old Tracks.

Mr. Beckert offered an amendment providing that within two years after signing the contract the company shall remove the tracks from Liberty avenue, Short street and Third avenue and repave the streets.

Mr. Leslie offered an amendment to include the track leading to the Adams Express building on Liberty avenue and Eleventh street. This was passed.

When the section giving the director of the department of public works supervision of the work was reached Dr. Shaw added a clause providing that the work shall be submitted to city councils for approval. This was agreed to unanimously.

Mr. Wasson raised the point of order that the ordinance was before council illegally. He said it had been amended by council, then sent to the corporations committee, and then taken from that committee. It had never been printed as amended by council, and consequently could not be considered.

Acting President Bole held the point not well taken. Mr. Wasson appealed and Mr. Brand took the chair. Mr. Wasson contended that the bill could not be considered until printed. Mr. Bole's reply was that there had not been time to print, and by a vote of 26 to 9 council sustained him.

Mr. Stevenson introduced an amendment giving any road the right to cross or use the line in part or whole.

Time Arrived to Vote.

Mr. Wolfe was telling how important this was to the merchants when 11:15 o'clock arrived and Mr. Bole stopped him, saying the hour had come to move the previous question.

Mr. Wasson said the previous question could not be moved while an amendment was pending and Mr. Wolfe concluded.

Then Mr. Wasson offered an amendment to the amendment covering rates for switching freights, etc., in order that merchants could not be squeezed, he said.

In support of his amendment Mr. Wasson told of the difficulties shippers experience, after which Mr. Reitz offered an amendment by which the railroad company would be required to pay the city $50,000 a year for the franchise. This amendment was put to a vote and was lost by 14 to 20, as follows:

Ayes—Messrs. Baldauf, Bechner, McNeil, M. E. O'Brien, Thomas O'Brien, Reitz, Sahner, Schad, Shearer, Stevenson, Wasson, Willey, Wolfe.—14.

Noes—Messrs. Armstrong, Barker, Barr, Beckert, Bole, Brand, Brown, Cavett, D. F. Crawford, Cross, Delaney, Fitzpatrick, Hogue, Hughes, Jack, Lauler, Leslie, David Lewis, John Lewis, Martin, Moore, McNally, Rodgers, Schwarzwaelder, Sheehan, Sterrett, West, Wynard, Zeuger—20.

Mr. Wasson's amendment was lost by a vote of 18 for and 25 against.

Chair Was Sustained.

Mr. Stevenson wanted to offer an amendment to one previously offered, but Mr. Brand raised a point of order and the chair decided the point was well taken.

An appeal was taken, and Mr. Bole called Mr. Brand to the chair and Mr. Wasson called attention to the fact that it was Mr. Brand who raised the point of order, but Mr. Bole said it did not make any difference. The chair was sustained by a vote of 20 to 11, and Mr. Stevenson's original amendment was lost. The chair refused to call for the ayes and nays, and the section as it originally stood was approved.

Mr. Stevenson wanted to add a penalty clause to the section providing that noncombustible fuel shall be used, but this was voted down by a vote of 9 for and 39 against.

At this point Mr. McNeil got up, put on his coat and exclaimed:

McNeil Became Angry.

"If any member wants to stay here and stand this unfairness they can stay, but I am going home."

"I rise to a point of order," exclaimed Mr. Brand.

"I don't care. I have stated mine. Good evening, gentlemen," said Mr. McNeil, as he walked out.

Mr. Wasson then walked up the aisle and out the door, and while doing so cried out:

"I'll not stand this thing of a corporation trying to throttle the city. I'll not stand for it."

Mr. Stevenson offered an amendment providing for a 50-year term to the franchise. He wanted to explain it, and Mr. Brand raised a point of order that this was against the notice for the previous question. The chair sustained this. Mr. Stevenson appealed and lost. The amendment was defeated.

Provides for a Tax.

Mr. Leslie offered an amendment providing for the company paying such tax as may be fixed by a general ordinance. This was adopted.

Mr. Stevenson offered an amendment binding the company to release the city from the $240,000 expended in the name of the city by the company in building the Union station. It was lost, and Mr. Bole refused to allow a yea and nay vote to be taken.

Then the bill as amended was voted on on second reading, and passed by the following vote:

Ayes—Messrs. Armstrong, Barker, Beckert, Bole, Brand, Cavett, D. F. Crawford, Cross, Delaney, Fitzpatrick, Hogue, Hughes, Lauler, Leslie, David Lewis, John Lewis, Martin, Moore, McNally, Rodgers, Sahner, Swartzwaelder, Sheehan, Sterrett, Walls and Zeuger—26.

Noes—Messrs. Reitz, Shaw, Stevenson and Wolfe—4.

The 26 votes were just enough to pass the bill. Council adjourned at three minutes after 12 o'clock.

Mrs. Samuel A. Ammon, Mrs. Marcus A. Woodward, Miss Kate McKnight and Miss Buelah Kennard, representing the Daughters of the Revolution, who are interested in the preservation of the Block house, were present in the council chamber from the beginning of the session till the end.

SEVEN SUCCUMB TO AWFUL HEAT

Hottest Day of the Summer Claims Many Victims in This Vicinity.

FOUR PERSONS PROSTRATED

Mercury Reached 92 Degrees During the Afternoon—Great Heat Prevails in the West—Showers Promised for This Evening.

Instead of the cooling showers predicted for this section yesterday by the weather man Pittsburgh residents experienced the hottest day so far this summer. The minimum temperature was 82 degrees and was registered at 8 o'clock in the afternoon. From this hour till 6 o'clock the mercury was stationary and the intense heat of the day caused people to swelter till long after midnight. The long list of fatalities caused by the torrid weather during the past week was increased yesterday by the deaths of seven persons from heat and the prostration of four others.

THE DEAD.

FRANK MENET, aged 40, a mill worker of Duquesne, died during the morning of heat.

JANE HUMPHREY, 8 months old, died during the morning at her home, No. 7131 Idlewild street.

MRS. WINIFRED CARR, aged 58, of South Twenty-second street, died shortly after being taken to the South Side hospital of heat exhaustion.

GEORGE SCHILLER, aged 83, died of heart disease, aggravated by the heat, at his home, rear 1731 Fifth avenue, during the afternoon.

ZELLA L. KIMMEL, 7 months old, died of heat prostration at her home, No. 121 Edmond street, during the morning.

GEORGE NORRIS, aged 22, of Wilmerding, went bathing during the morning in the Monongahela river to escape the heat and was drowned. He was a steel worker.

FRANK MESZARO, aged 30, a laborer, found dead from heat exhaustion in the cellar of his boarding house in Duquesne during the morning.

THE PROSTRATED.

GEORGE ZEIGLER, aged 65, of No. 1102 [illegible] avenue, Duquesne Heights, overcome while sitting in Holiday park, near [illegible].

JAMES OCELIO, an Italian laborer, overcome while working for the Pittsburgh Railways Company in Forbes street, near Brady. Taken to Passavant hospital.

JOHN BEIGOS, aged 25, overcome while walking in Sandusky street, Allegheny, during the afternoon. Taken to the Allegheny General hospital.

NICHOLAS PAPPASI, an Italian, overcome at the Homestead Steel works during the afternoon. Taken to Mercy hospital and is not expected to recover.

Meszaro returned to his boarding house about noon, suffering greatly from the heat. He retired to his room and about two hours later went to the cellar saying it was cooler there. He was later found dead by occupants of the house.

Pappasi when overcome was working about 50 feet above the ground and when prostrated fell from the scaffold and received injuries which will result in his death.

From Wednesday night there were no signs that the awful heat would let up. At this hour the mercury was at 74. It gradually went down till the 68 mark was reached at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. In the following five hours the mercury went up in jumps. At 2 o'clock 90 degrees was registered and at 3 o'clock the maximum for the day was recorded. At 7 o'clock last night the mercury dropped to 80 and up to 10 o'clock had only gone down 2 degrees an hour, registering 82 at the latter hour.

The temperature yesterday was 1 degree higher than on Wednesday and the day was the hottest for the date during the past seven years. The hottest day previous to yesterday during this summer was July 4, when 91.5 degrees were registered. The hourly temperatures, furnished by the local weather office, from midnight Wednesday to 10 o'clock last night, follow:

Midnight	74	12 noon	88
1 a. m.	74	1 p. m.	88
2 a. m.	72	2 p. m.	90
3 a. m.	71	3 p. m.	92
4 a. m.	70	4 p. m.	92
5 a. m.	69	5 p. m.	92
6 a. m.	69	6 p. m.	92
7 a. m.	68	7 p. m.	90
8 a. m.	71	8 p. m.	88
9 a. m.	74	9 p. m.	86
10 a. m.	84	10 p. m.	84
11 a. m.	86

While Pittsburghers simmered in the heat yesterday, this city did not suffer so much as a number of others, especially those in the west, where the temperature was reported to the local weather office as being extremely high. Columbus had 94, St. Louis, Mo., 98; Louisville, Ky., 96; Omaha, Neb., 98, and Philadelphia, 96. The forecast for this section is for fair conditions till evening, when showers are predicted. For tomorrow the prediction is for more hot weather.

DOES NOT BELIEVE IN BILLET PRICES CUT

New York Reports Discredited by B. F. Jones, Although Cost Is Admitted Fancy.

"I have no knowledge of a cut in the price of steel billets. I do not believe there is any truth in the New York reports to that effect," said B. F. Jones of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company yesterday in answer to reports which had been current and on which the stock of the United States Steel Corporation had been hammered.

"The prices at present are high. Billets have been selling at $27 and $28 a ton. In small lots the price rose several months ago still higher, but quickly dropped back."

An effort was made to find from officials of the Carnegie Steel Company if such a cut had been made, but the officials in charge of such matters were absent from the city.

It is pointed out that the price of billets equal with that of steel rails is peculiar, as the cost of billets is from $2 to $4 less than that of rails, and a normal price would mark that difference in cost. The output has not been equal to the demand for some time, and this has caused the price to rise. It is said that as high as $34 a ton was secured for small lots for prompt delivery last spring.

WEDS BROTHER'S WIDOW OVER MOTHER'S COFFIN

MARION, O., July 9.—(Special.)—Arthur Hartshorn and Mrs. Alice Hartshorn, the young widow of his brother, were married today over the coffin of Hartshorn's mother, Mrs. Sarah J. Hartshorn. The ceremony was performed at the dying request of the mother. The funeral service followed.

W. & J. Professors Resign.

WASHINGTON, PA., July 9.—(Special.)—Prof. Otto F. H. Bert, for two years in charge of the physics department at Washington and Jefferson academy, and Prof. C. E. Augur, teacher of English in the same institution for the past year, have resigned. Prof. Bert will in the fall take charge of the preparatory department of Geneva college as principal, and Prof. Augur has accepted a position as teacher of English in the McKeesport High school.

Edward C. Hetzel Dead.

Edward C. Hetzel, 49 years old, a former well-known resident of Pittsburgh and a member of a prominent family in this section, died yesterday at San Francisco, Cal. He was a son of John A. and Mrs. Caroline Kopp Hetzel and a brother of John C. Hetzel, former city treasurer of Allegheny.

EIGHT PEOPLE DIED FROM HEAT IN NEW YORK

Hottest Day in the Metropolis in Two Years—Thermometer Reached 104.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 9.—There were eight deaths and a score of prostrations from the heat today. It was the hottest day in two years, or since July 2, 1901, which was the hottest day in the hottest month since the local weather bureau opened in 1871. The official record of that day, two years ago, was 99 degrees. Heat records began to be established at 3 o'clock in the morning, with a temperature, as shown by the Herald square thermometer of 79 degrees. Rapidly the mercury climbed until, at 3 o'clock, it registered 104.

The intense suffering in the crowded tenement districts was evidenced early in the day by the unprecedented rush to the free ice distribution stations. At least 5,000 applications were received. All who could fled from town.

The victims are: Amy Adams, Amelia Santaline, William Rohme, Mary L. Voght, Moses Solomon, Michael Fruth, James Boyle and Thomas Coughlin.

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—The temperature here today rose from 81 at 8 o'clock this morning to 94½ at 2 o'clock. The humidity registered 56 degrees. There were many prostrations and one man, Alexander Gross, was rendered insane from the excessive heat.

BOSTON, July 9.—This was the hottest day of the year thus far. The thermometer registered 90 at noon. There were a number of prostrations.

BALTIMORE, July 9.—Today was one of the warmest of the present summer, the thermometer having reached 94 degrees at 2 o'clock. No serious prostrations were reported.

HANNA BEHIND IT.

Ohio Senator Finances Plant to Compete With Harvester Combine on Larger Scale.

CHICAGO, July 9.—(Special.)—Senator Hanna has entered the field as an active competitor of the International Harvester Company, known as the world combine in harvesting machinery and farm implements. Senator Hanna is the moneyed man in the new Aultman-Miller Buckeye Company of Akron, Ohio, and information was received in Chicago financial circles today that he purposes putting up the best possible fight for harvester business throughout the world, in competition with the big combine which includes the McCormicks, Deerings and all of the big companies that have made American farming machinery world famous.

The Aultman-Miller Company plants, business and good will were sold a few days ago at auction. Ex-Judge William A. Vincent of Chicago was the successful bidder. The price paid was $840,000.

MILLIONAIRE KOHLER BEGINS DIVORCE SUIT

NEW YORK, July 9.—(Special.)—Word was received here today from Erie, Pa., that Jackson Koehler of that city, a wealthy brewer, has begun proceedings on behalf of his daughter to secure a divorce from Nelson Delmage. Delmage's trunks are still at the hotel in Erie. His father-in-law, he says, refuses to communicate with him and his parents think he and his wife are at Newport or Narragansett.

COREY WILL CONTINUE AS CARNEGIE'S PRESIDENT

NEW YORK, July 9.—At the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co. it was officially stated today that W. E. Corey, recently appointed assistant to the president of the United States Steel Corporation, will continue indefinitely as president of the Carnegie Steel Company.

M'KEESPORT WILL PAY THE LIGHT BILL

The water and light committee of McKeesport councils last night recommended that the bill be paid for $13,165, presented the city by the Allegheny County Light Company, which has furnished McKeesport with light. When the five-year contract of the corporation with the city expired, there followed a long squabble about the refusal to renew it. There was a recent court decision that the corporation could not arbitrarily shut off light from McKeesport, as it had threatened to do, but could legally demand payment of the mentioned bill.

Engineer Killed By a Train.

David Matthews, 40 years old, employed as an engineer in the Westinghouse Air-brake works at East Pittsburgh, fell in front of a fast freight on the Pennsylvania railroad at East Pittsburgh early this morning, and was killed. His back was broken. Matthews lived at Oakhill, near East Pittsburgh, with his wife and six children.

Mrs. Sarah Harvey Dead.

Mrs. Sarah Harvey, wife of Ambrose Harvey, Sr., died at her home at Washington, Pa., yesterday, aged 58 years. She was a member of an old family and was connected with the Baptist church. Beside her husband she is survived by these children: William Harvey of Carnegie, Mrs. David Williams of West Washington, Ambrose Harvey, Jr., and Mrs. Abraham Dickson of Washington and John Harvey and Edward Jennings of Indiana Harbor.

Brickworkers Strike.

MARYLAND CAN'T SELL CANAL BED

Control of Chesapeake & Ohio Ditch Vested in Three Trustees.

JOHN K. COWEN IN CONTROL

Interests Antagonistic to Pennsylvania or Baltimore & Ohio Cannot Hope to Acquire Property Said to Be Wanted by the Wabash.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

BALTIMORE, July 9.—Considerable interest was manifested in railroad circles today concerning the story published to the effect that the Wabash interests would push a bill in the next Maryland legislature providing for the sale of the Chesapeake and Ohio canal, which a dispatch from New York stated was wanted as a roadbed from Cumberland to Georgetown, and thus gain access to Washington.

Under a decision of the court of appeals, which gave the canal into the charge of the trustees, John K. Cowen, Hugh L. Bond and Joseph Bryan of Richmond until January, 1906, the state of Maryland, in spite of its $30,000,000, including principal and interest, invested in the canal, has no voice in its control, and cannot secure a sale until the expiration of that period. If the trustees would agree to join with the state and ask a sale, conditions would be changed, but railroad men laugh at such a proposition. In such an event, the Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania interests would be forced to outbid the Gould interests should they wish to keep the property from the Wabash or Western Maryland. It is not looked upon as likely that the Baltimore & Ohio railroad would consent to any such proposition.

The canal is at present operated by the surviving trustees of the bondholders of 1844, who invested at the request of the state of Maryland the sum of $1,-600,500 to complete the canal. The failure of the company to pay interest on this investment, as well as on the repair bonds issued in 1878, put the trustees of the bondholders in possession of the property. These trustees have had possession of the canal for about 12 years.

BAPTISTS IN SESSION

Five Thousand Members of the Young People's Union Meet at Atlanta.

ATLANTA, GA., July 9.—With an attendance estimated at 5,000 and delegates representing almost every section of the United States and Canada, the thirteenth annual convention of the International Baptist Young People's union was called to order in this city today for a four days' session, by President John H. Chapman of Chicago. The opening session of the convention was preceded by a praise service. The delegates of the convention were welcomed by Gov. J. M. Terrell, Mayor C. P. Howell and former Gov. W. J. Northen. Emory Hunt, president of the Denison university, Granville, responded in behalf of the board of managers of the international union.

The morning session was devoted to the appointments of various committees and general routine work, and re-organization of the body. At the afternoon session Spencer B. Messer, D. D., pastor of the Woodward Avenue Baptist church, Detroit, Mich., spoke on "The Call to Service," and an address on "The Motives for Service" was delivered by the Rev. W. T. Stackhouse, superintendent of the Baptist missions, Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Death of George Baird.

George Baird died at his home at Washington, Pa., yesterday after a lingering illness of consumption, aged 41 years. The deceased was a son of the late John Baird and a member of probably the oldest family in Washington. His grandfather, George Baird, was a pioneer resident and a prominent citizen. The Baird family is prominently connected throughout this section. The deceased graduated from Washington and Jefferson college in the class of 1883, and since that time had been connected with the Fort Pitt National bank of Pittsburgh, being a teller for several years. He was unmarried, and besides his mother is survived by these brothers and sisters: Miss Minnie Baird of Leetsdale, Mrs. Sue Johnson of Erie, Mrs. Moses Atwood of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Charles Caldwell, Mrs. Harry B. Duncan, Joseph C. Baird, cashier of the Union Trust Company and former borough treasurer, and William A. Baird of the Washington Trust Company, all of Washington.

WELL-KNOWN BANKERS ARE CHOSEN TO SUCCEED THE LATE A. E. W. PAINTER

Robert Wardrop, Elected President of the Peoples National Bank.

J. Denniston Lyon, Elected Vice President of the Safe Deposit and Trust Company.

Two of Pittsburg's best known bankers were yesterday elected to fill vacancies caused by the death of A. E. W. Painter. Robert Wardrop, vice president and cashier of the Peoples National bank, was chosen president of that bank, and J. Denniston Lyon of N. Holmes & Sons, bankers, was elected vice president of the Safe Deposit and Trust Company.

The election of Mr. Wardrop advances to a presidency one of the most popular bankers of the city. He has been active in the state as local in the national organizations of bankers and has been several times chosen a delegate to conventions of bankers. He has been engaged in financial work here for over 34 years. Mr. Wardrop started as a messenger with the old banking firm of McVay & Co., in Pittsburgh, in January, 1869. In 1873 he went to the Tradesmens National bank, and four years later became treasurer of the Pennsylvania Lead Company. In 1881 he returned to the Tradesmens as vice president and cashier. In July, 1898, he went with the Peoples National bank as vice president and cashier and held that position until yesterday.

Mr. Lyon is also very well known. He has been connected with the banking concern of N. Holmes & Sons and has been active in a number of large and important financial transactions.

DUQUESNE MISSION IS NEW NORTH END CHURCH

Little Congregation in Duquesne Park Organized United Presbyterian Church.

The United Presbyterian mission for almost 10 years known as the Duquesne park mission in the Fifteenth ward, Allegheny, last night organized into a permanent congregation and will hereafter be known as the North End United Presbyterian church.

Since its inception when the few members of the mission met in the old toll house out Perrysville avenue, just within the city limits, the Duquesne mission has flourished and now owns property that is valued at $10,000. The services last night were conducted by the Rev. R. C. Douds and were largely attended. The ruling elders of the church were ordained and installed by the pastor, assisted by the provisional session composed of J. M. Simpson, Samuel McKnight and D. F. Thompson. The elders are: Samuel B. Bricker, Samuel Edgar and Dr. D. W. B. Martin. The trustees are William Mahaffey, John Gailey, Montgomery Cook, Charles McClure and Robert Henderson.

The Rev. D. C. McClenahan of the Western Theological seminary made a short address to the elders and instructed them in their new duties. The Rev. Dr. Thomas Park, pastor of the Fourth United Presbyterian church, spoke briefly to the congregation on their relations to the elders. The Rev. W. W. Lawrence, pastor of the Bellevue United Presbyterian church, preached a brief sermon and the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Dr. D. C. McClenahan. Music was furnished by the church choir.

HELP SENT UP ORINOCO

Interference With American Ships by Venezuelans Will Not Be Tolerated.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The navy department at the instance of the state department has taken steps to prevent further interference with American shipping in the Orinoco by either government or rebel forces.

This action was taken upon the advice of Mr. Russell, United States charge at Caracas, to the effect that the government forces had detained two ships belonging to the Orinoco Steam Navigation Co. at San Fernando, and the insurgents had detained and were likely to destroy three other ships belonging to the same company at Ciudad, Bolivar.

Orders were cabled yesterday to the United States ship Bancroft at Port of Spain to proceed at once up the Orinoco and release the detained vessels. No resistance is anticipated.

SAYS HE OWNS PART OF PERFORMING MONKEY

A. S. Murphy, a one-armed man, giving his home as Worcester, Mass., was locked up yesterday afternoon charged by William Carl, who conducts a stand at the Homewood carnival, of stealing his performing monkey. Murphy took the animal after the Palace Amusement Co. broke up in Allegheny recently. He says he is part owner, and intends to keep the Simian until he is paid his share. The monkey is in charge of Murphy's sister, in Forty-fifth street, Pittsburgh. Magistrate Nogley will decide this morning who owns the monkey.

CASE OF MUMPS BRINGS FORTUNE TO SUFFERER

He Is Reunited to Wealthy Parents and Wins Nurse for His Bride.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

OMAHA, July 9.—Perhaps the strangest story on record of a disease bringing happiness to its victim is that of Frederick Sumner, who, through a bad case of mumps, was restored to his wealthy family from whom he has been separated since babyhood and incidentally won him a bride in the nurse who attended him during his illness.

Sumner was born at Germanville, Neb., and was kidnaped when 5 years old, left by the roadside and adopted by a well-to-do ranchman, who taught the German boy English and also how to use his right hand instead of his left. When he grew up Sumner started out to look for his family, but his quest was fruitless and in Omaha he became seriously ill with the mumps. An abscess developed and the sick man spoke only German until he got well. The doctors gave a scientific explanation of the phenomenon, but Sumner cares little for that. The vital point to him is that he disclosed his real name, while babbling in his mother tongue, and a letter to Germanville brought his delighted father hurrying on the next train. The nurse who attended Sumner will become his bride in a few days.

PE-RU-NA IS OF ESPECIAL BENEFIT TO WOMEN

Says Dr. M. C. Gee of San Francisco.

A CONSTANTLY increasing number of physicians prescribe Peruna in their regular practice.

It has proven its merits so thoroughly that even the doctors have overcome their prejudice against so-called patent medicines and recommend it to their patients.

"I Advise Women to Use Peruna," Says Dr. Gee.

Dr. M. C. Gee is one of the physicians who endorse Peruna. In a letter written from 513 Jones street, San Francisco, Cal., he says:

"There is a general objection on the part of the practicing physician to advocate patent medicines, but when any one medicine cures hundreds of people, it demonstrates its own value and does not need the endorsement of the profession.

"Peruna has performed so many wonderful cures in San Francisco that I am convinced that it is a valuable remedy. I have frequently advised its use for women, as I find it insures regular and painless mensuration, cures leucorrhoea and ovarian troubles, and builds up the entire system. I also consider it one of the finest catarrh remedies I know of. I heartily endorse your medicine."—M. C. Gee, M. D.

Mrs. E. T. Gaddis, Marion, N. C., is one of Dr. Hartman's grateful patients. She consulted him by letter, followed his directions, and is now able to say the following:

"Before I commenced to take Peruna I could not do any hard work without suffering great pain. I took Peruna, and can say with pleasure that it has done more for me than any other medicine I have ever taken. Now I am as well as ever. I do all my own work and it never hurts me at all. I think Peruna is a great medicine for womankind."—Mrs. E. T. Gaddis.

Women are especially liable to pelvic catarrh, female weakness as it is commonly called.

Peruna occupies a unique position in medical science. It is the only internal systemic catarrh remedy known to the medical profession today. Catarrh as every one will admit, is the cause of one-half the diseases which afflict mankind. Catarrh and catarrhal diseases afflict one-half of the people of the United States.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Boys' Summer Clothes Today Half Prices,

And Young Men's Too.

A notice to parents that this is a money-saving day for them here in this store. Big boys' and little boys' Summer Clothes, fine goods in every way, excellent workmanship on every suit, thrown out for half prices. The matter is worth thinking over two or three times. True, your boy may not need a suit just at the present time, but it is an even-handed guess that he will need a suit some time between this and the first of November. At the half prices we name, isn't the investment a good one?

And young men should consider this news well—if they are in line for a top notch suit.

And those other young fellows—the boys that are about stepping over the line into long trousers, news here for them, also. Here are the half prices:

175 Suits for young men at these half prices—

At $5.00 a Suit instead of $10.00.
At $6.00 a Suit instead of $12.00.
At $7.50 a Suit instead of $15.00.
At $ 9.00 a Suit instead of $18.00.
At $10.00 a Suit instead of $20.00.
At $12.50 a Suit instead of $25.00.

As some of these suits are lined, young men who are well supplied now with clothing will be the better for investing in a suit, inasmuch as these suits can be worn up to December—that is, if you have your winter clothing on.

250 boys' single and double-breasted Suits and Norfolk Suits—at these half prices—

At $2.50 a Suit instead of $5.00.
At $3.00 a Suit instead of $6.00.
At $3.75 a Suit instead of $7.50.
At $4.00 a Suit instead of $ 8.00.
At $5.00 a Suit instead of $10.00.
At $6.00 a Suit instead of $12.00.
At $7.50 a Suit instead of $15.

These suits are the jauntiest of knee-trouser suits, and just such suits as the sturdy boy needs for the Summer. Or up to when Winter gives notice he is coming.

250 Sailor and Russian Suits, together with Sailor-Norfolks and little Coat Suits at these half prices—

At $2.50 a Suit instead of $5.00.
At $3.00 a Suit instead of $6.00.
At $3.75 a Suit instead of $7.50.

These little boys' suits will appeal to parents who like something real neat for their boys. They are the perfection of dapper attire for the little fellow.

Friday, July 10, 1903.

The appeal from Penn and Jeannette is urgent. It ought to be heard. Many sufferers from the flood are in dire straits and pestilence threatens. The Jeannette factions having settled their differences there is no longer any bar to the public sending contributions of food, clothing, furniture, household utensils and money. All are needed.

July cannot be charged, as was June, with deficiency in temperature, at least not up to the present. The whole east is sweltering in a hot wave that is making itself felt, particularly in crowded districts. The usual rules for avoiding heat prostration are being put before the public and the ice man is busy. Some of our oldest inhabitants, however, adhere to the simple rule to "just let it heat" without unduly exciting themselves about the hourly phases of the thermometer, or their stomachs by too copious draughts of iced fluid. They prefer a little iced water externally and merely cool water for slacking thirst. Their rule is probably the best that could be given for withstanding the heated atmosphere.

An invitation has been sent to the governor to view the wreck of the flood in the Brush Creek valley with a view to getting the state interested in the cleaning up of the debris. It is probably more in the line of duty of the state board of health than that of the chief executive to have the many carcasses of domestic animals now lying in the valley disposed of. Primarily, however, there is a duty resting upon the residents of the flood district to help themselves. There ought to be official direction; there must be funds; but the main work falls upon those most immediately concerned. The county and state authorities have functions to perform, and so have the citizens, and the state board of health should supervise the sanitary measures. It is a public calamity and it ought to be dealt with in mutual helpfulness. Wrangling ill becomes the situation.

Lord Beresford's cordial toast to the president of the United States and his expression of friendly sentiment for the American nation cannot be mistaken. The vice admiral is known personally in this country and has always been a friend and admirer of Americans and American ways. But if the cable reports him correctly his allusion to President Loubet was not well chosen. His gratification at the cordial reception of the president of France by the British people was natural, but his close following with the opinion that a visit from the president of the United States would arouse the greatest enthusiasm is open to criticism. We prefer, however, to take Lord Charles Beresford as he meant it and not as he said it. He meant nothing uncomplimentary to France.

Allegheny councilmen will be given further opportunity to go on record as repudiating campaign pledges, or else to abolish the office of collector of delinquent taxes. Select council yesterday overturned the action of the finance committee and ordered the ordinance printed for consideration at a special meeting next Wednesday. It is expected enough votes will be found in that branch to suspend the rules and pass the measure finally so it will be before common council at its meeting Thursday evening. Unless the Citizens party members of the common branch are as ready to repudiate the principles on which they gained their election as their fellows of the finance committee, the useless office will be abolished in Allgheny and its functions transferred to the office of the city treasurer. Then the matter will be up to the Citizens party in Pittsburgh to make good the pledges so positively made on this side of the river during the campaign. "By their fruits ye shall know them."

Now that the Boer war has passed into history students of military science are busy in analyzing its results. An officer of the Swedish general staff has recently published a monograph upon the lessons in strategy and tactics afforded by the war, in which he gives the English considerable credit for their ability in devising new methods to meet new conditions. The development of the rifle has profoundly altered the conditions of warfare and any nation that does not correct its military methods accordingly will pay a heavy penalty when engaged in warfare. It is shown that the Boer rifle was not so devastating as has been supposed. The English loss in attacking positions defended by riflemen varied from 5 per cent on the Tugela to 7 per cent at Magersfontein and Spion Kop, whereas the Spanish inflicted a loss of 11 per cent upon the Americans at San Juan. A point in this comparison of particular interest to us is that a loss of from 5 to 7 per cent was sufficient to repulse the British attacks mentioned, while despite a loss of 11 per cent the American troops continued the attack and captured San Juan.

The fact that the public safety department is keeping secret its investigation of the conduct of the Oakland station police permits the supposition that it may be a conference to decide how to smooth over the affair as quietly as possible. The recent revelations of police inefficiency are just what might have been expected, as the lowering of the morale of the police force is plainly apparent to ordinary observation. If there were anything like a proper standard of physique some of the ward workers who have been appearing about the city in policemen's uniforms could never have gotten on the force. One has only to use one's eyes to see that there is a marked lack of the bearing that characterizes a disciplined police force. A slouching carriage and a dawdling manner have become common. Many show by their actions that they owe their positions to some ward pull, and are simply going through the motions of police work. A letter which we publish today calls attention to another piece of negligence on the part of the Oakland police station. A carcass dangerously placed in the way of carriage travel was allowed to lie without a danger signal, although the Oakland station was notified. To hang out a red lantern is not a difficult piece of public service, and in this case it might have saved the city the risk of a damage suit, as an automobile was wrecked in the obstruction. Do the police receive any drill or instruction in their duties? It is difficult to obtain exact information on such subjects, as no police reports are published in this city. Even the department itself has no printed reports later than 1898, so there are no reports accessible to show the work of the police.

Good Night's Work.

At a business session, lasting until after midnight, common council passed the Pennsylvania railroad ordinance affecting Duquesne way and Liberty avenue on second reading as amended. The amendments were many and varied and all in the line of protecting the city. The ordinance as amended will work to the immeasurable relief of the downtown district and promote the welfare of the whole city. It is not possible to discuss the amendments in detail at this time, but in general they follow the lines indicated by The Gazette from the first.

This battle was won in the face of filibustering and unparliamentary motions innumerable. The ignorance of parliamentary law in the chamber was a feature of the proceedings. The leaders of the majority, however, kept to the rules closely, and while they moved the previous question to cut off interminable obstruction, they first gave the opposition ample opportunity to be heard. The final hour was marked by calls for the ayes and noes for dilatory purposes and the sensational exit of two members who allowed their feelings to triumph over their good judgment.

Now that the ordinance has passed second reading another meeting will likely be called for some day next week to put it on third reading and final passage. When it will be taken up by select council cannot be foretold. The membership of that body is too uncertain, and at least some part of it actuated by motives not to be publicly mentioned. But if select council can be induced to take up and pass the measure the people will be satisfied with it. When its provisions are carried out they will be delighted and they will wonder how any man with the public interest at heart could have hesitated about giving this great relief to the city.

South Side Water Supply.

Whoever prepared for the sub-committee on filtration the report it adopted was so intent on inventing pretexts for abandoning the plans for filtered water and substituting an alum water plant that ordinary care was not taken to make the statements agree with known facts of record.

For instance, the report says that "the report of the filtration commission and the general weight of authority sustain the position that covers are necessary at Pittsburgh, and that they would cost approximately $800,000." This is deliberate misrepresentation. The report of the filtration commission itself says nothing about covers, but simply recommends the adoption of "the system of sand filtration upon the plan recommended herewith in the report of our consulting engineer." The accompanying report of the consulting engineer, Allen Hazen, contains a section upon the "Necessity of Covering Filters," in which the effect of frost upon the working of the sand filter is discussed, and it was stated that in the experimental plant, "while the efficiency for the winter months was less than at other times, it did not fall below an average of 97 per cent," with the probability that in the actual plant as provided by the plans "the reduction in efficiency will be less than it was in the experimental plant." Mr. Hazen sums up the discussion by saying that while winter disturbance could be entirely eliminated by covers, "I do not regard this as necessary and I do not recommend it." It may be added that the reduced efficiency of the sand filter during a cold snap is as good as mechanical filtration at any time. While the sand filter at the worst removed 97 per cent of bacteria there were times when the mechanical filters fell to 84 and 85 per cent when there were no cold snaps to interfere.

The sub-committee's report also says that "the plans for the filtration plant do not include or provide for the South Side." On the contrary, the report of the filtration commission sets forth an exhaustive investigation of the South Side water supply and a map of the Monongahela water shed and reports of numerous tests of the water appear in the report of the commission. The conclusion was reached that owing to its greater turbidity and the extent to which the Monongahela river water was contaminated by mine drainage, introducing sulphuric acid, it ought to be abandoned as a source of water supply, and the plans reported contemplate supplying the South Side with filtered water from the Allegheny.

Far from neglecting South Side interests the investigations of the filtration commission showed with great force the unfitness of the Monongahela river as a source of supply for drinking water. The report of the commission's chemist remarks:

> The Monongahela river water contains large proportionate amounts of sulphuric acid, due to the mine waters discharged into it by the Youghiogheny river, Turtle creek and other streams. The fact that the Monongahela river is slack water has a great bearing upon its chemical character. During long dry spells, the flow of water from the mines being practically constant, the water in the pools formed by the dams becomes very acid.

This peculiar acidity of the Monongahela makes the mechanical filtration system altogether inapplicable to it, for the success of that system depends upon the alkalinity of the water. As we have already explained the process depends upon the decomposition of the sulphate of alumina added to the water, sulphuric acid being released to unite with the lime in the water to form sulphate of lime, while the alumina is precipitated, carrying with it the earthy and organic particles suspended in the water. But when the water is already charged with sulphuric acid the chemical reaction cannot take place, unless lime is thrown in as well as alum, in accurately proportional quantities. If all the nice conditions are successfully met, South Siders would have clear water to drink, but it would be the hardest kind of water, heavily charged with sulphate of lime, making the most tenacious kind of boiler scale. No part of the city has such a vital interest in the establishment of sand filtration as the South Side, and public opinion there should insist upon the prompt installation of the plant so that when the city acquires the right to extend its mains to the South Side it will be ready to supply soft, clear, pure water from the Allegheny river.

Protection for Our Ships.

The announcement recently by the British government that it will cease to subsidize steamship lines flying the British flag which are not controlled by citizens of the empire was accompanied by an announcement of an increase in subsidy to the Cunard line, which flies the British flag and is owned by British subjects. The first announcement was not, of course, in the exact language we have used, but that is precisely what was meant by it. The two announcements taken together form a declaration of policy of which the people of the United States ought to take notice for their own good. The question of subsidizing American ships flying the American flag is one that has been long agitated, but a short-sighted view of the matter by congressmen has invariably brought about a defeat of any practical proposition that has appeared in congress. The importance that Great Britain attaches to a mercantile marine flying the national flag and controlled by British capital ought to so illuminate the whole subject for the United States as to make the value of an American merchant marine so clear that further opposition to ship subsidies will cease. If it is worth while for Great Britain to pursue a policy of protection to British shipping, it is worth while for the United States to do the same. In practically every other field the United States has distanced all competitors, and if congressmen can be led by the logic of the latest development of policy of our greatest rival to take a proper view of the situation there is no doubt that in this field of enterprise we can also take the lead. The development and achievement of the American navy points to the success that may crown the fostering of American effort in the ocean carrying trade. Instead of paying tribute to foreigners in the form of charges for carrying goods, we ought to be transporting our freights in our own ships and reaping all the benefits of the transaction.

The Kongo Free State.

It was recently announced that serious complaints against the Kongo Free State had been lodged with the state department by prominent Presbyterians. The nature of these complaints is set forth in an article in the current issue of the Independent, by the Rev. Dr. W. M. Morrison, who has recently returned to this country after a stay of six and a half years in the Kongo Free State as a Presbyterian missionary.

Complaints in regard to the administration of the Kongo Free State have from time to time reached Europe and have been generally discredited as too horrible for belief. Mr. Morrison not only vouches for his facts from his personal knowledge, but he also explains the conditions which naturally generate the abuses described. The Kongo Free State owes its origin to the enterprise and diplomacy of Leopold II., king of the Belgians. He organized an association for the exploration and civilization of Central Africa. Henry M. Stanley was engaged to manage the work, and under his able direction a chain of stations was established from the coast far into the interior. The Hon. Henry S. Sanford, our minister to Belgium, was interested in the work, and it was through him commended to our government, which "recognized the flag of the International African association as the flag of a friendly government."

The philanthropic pretensions of the movement secured for it high moral prestige, and King Leopold shrewdly took advantage of this to secure from the Berlin congress the creation of the Kongo Free State as a great buffer state between the territories of France, England, Germany and Portugal. It was stipulated that there should be freedom of commerce and trade for all nations; that Christian missions of every denomination should be permitted to carry on their work without "any restriction or impediment whatever," and that the slave trade was to be suppressed. This announcement of beneficent purposes concealed from view the fact that a despotism had been deliberately established. King Leopold was sole and absolute ruler, with absolutely no check upon his authority. Belgium has nothing to do with the Kongo Free State, and has no more power to inquire into King Leopold's administration of it than any other country.

The policy pursued since then has been purely one of commercial exploitation. Trading rights are sold to various companies, in whose profits an interest is retained, and they are allowed their own way in making the most of their concessions. Thus slavery and pillage flourish in practice while always disavowed. The system employed is to notify a subordinate official that at a set time he must furnish so many soldiers, so many laborers for company plantations and so much rubber and ivory. He understands that the way in which he collects the supplies is not a matter of any concern. If he can't get them somebody will be put in his place who knows how. So the native tribes are systematically raided until the required number of persons and amount of property are obtained. The demand for forced labor is so constant that a warlike cannibal tribe is kept in regular employment in slave raiding. Their habit of eating people killed in their forays is ignored in view of the business results.

Mr. Morrison circumstantially describes horrible atrocities which have taken place, and can testify to many outrages from his own personal knowledge. The country has become the most horrible abode of human misery in the world, and the unfortunate natives are in the most miserable state of slavery. The great powers who created the Kongo Free State are subject to a responsibility for this situation of affairs which will compel them to correct it.

Announcement that it depends upon the disposition of Mayor Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland toward a railroad franchise asked in the interest of the United States Steel Corporation whether the corporation shall spend $3,000,000 for new mills at Cleveland or make the investment at Lorain, O., is one of the straws pointing to the continuance in business of the prosperity with which we are familiar.

After the present excuses refuse to work the friends of typhoid fever may point out that we are sure to have a Greater Pittsburgh, and that it won't do to provide a system of filtration that will not contemplate a pure water supply for the enlarged city.

It is quite natural that Clark Howell of Georgia should protest against southern negroes traveling north to be abused. Why should they pay the expenses of a journey to get something they can have right at home without asking for it?

The rumorists still have Secretary Hay's resignation under consideration, but are uncertain whether they ought to make it final without consulting the secretary and President Roosevelt.

Mayor Johnson of Cleveland is holding up a franchise for a railroad for the steel corporation and the works will likely go to Lorain. Councils do the holding up in Pittsburgh.

The fact that next year's contest between the builders and the building trades is already on indicates that there continues to be enough prosperity in sight to quarrel about.

ERASMUS WILSON.

There are no boys like the good old boys—
When we were boys together,
When grass was sweet to brown, bare feet,
That dimpled the laughing heather;
When the pewee sang to the summer dawn
Or the bee on the billowy clover,
Or down by the mill the whip-poor-will Echoed his night song over.
—Eugene Field.

There are boys now, the same as then, and there always will be boys. The world can't get along without 'em. And boys will be boys, in spite of all you can do.

All boys are not alike, some better and some worse, accordingly as they are bred and handled, as stockraisers say of colts.

There is a whole lot more in the handling of young animals, including boys, than most people are aware of, or even imagine. A vicious animal may be made docile and tractable by judicious handling, and so may a vicious boy. But, as a rule, parents don't know how to handle boys to get the best results. In fact, it doesn't seem to be results they are after, only to keep them along until they are big enough to strike out on their own hook.

And should a boy go to the bad his parents promptly lay it to the bad company he had fallen into, never once thinking they had all to do with forming the tastes which led him to prefer bad company to good.

The boy gets his gait at home, and his action depends upon the way he is handled by his trainers. This is just as true of boys as it is of colts that are being fitted for the race track.

An untrained, unhandled boy is no more fit to enter the race of life in this fast age than a colt that has not been properly handled and trained is fit to be entered for the Derby.

Now and then a phenomenon, a natural, a come-by-chance, is materialized that may break all records, get new paces, and make new standards all around. But these are mere freaks, and not the regular thing. And it is well enough that they are not the regular thing, for being untrained and unhandled they are, as a rule, vicious and more or less intractable. Besides, they are only good for one thing, and not being educated along any other lines they cannot be expected to know anything else well.

* * * * *

Boys will be boys, but not necessarily bad boys. That they will be frisky and playful and wild is to be expected, for that is their nature.

Were it not for their desire to romp and play and tussle, animals, and children, too, would not get sufficient exercise to insure reasonable good physical development. They do not know the value of exercise, nor even what it is, but nature has given them a desire to play, which is equivalent to a knowledge that it is necessary to exercise in order to grow well.

To curb this natural desire in children is to interfere with their proper development. It may be, and should be controlled, which is very different from curbing. Nor should there be much restraint as to the amount of play, but rather as to the quality.

The one thing, above all others, to be avoided is viciousness. Whatsoever tends to develop vicious instincts should be cut out and kept out, for viciousness, or a fondness for vice, is the bane of usefulness and happiness.

* * * * *

But there are bad boys, more or less, and we have them right here, as you very well know.

By the way, how about your boy? Are you quite sure he is all right? Does he mind what he is told? Is he given to use bad language, get angry and act ugly? Is he impertinent or saucy? Has he such confidence in you that he believes all you tell him, and will accept your judgment as to what is right and proper for him to do, even when it goes square against his grain? Or does he understand you better than you understand him, and work you for whatever suits? Some boys, as well as some animals, too, are quick to detect the weak or soft points in those who have charge of them.

Do you have to coax, or hire your boy to do your bidding?

That is one of the very worst things that can happen to a boy, and there isn't anything else that will more certainly unfit an animal for useful service.

After a boy, or an animal, has done your bidding, and done it well and cheerfully, then it may be rewarded, not for having been obedient, but for doing the service promptly and well.

A boy should do what he is bidden without any promise of reward whatever; but you should so deal with him that he will feel in his heart that you will reward him as he deserves. And more, he should feel that your appreciation of his efforts to please you is in itself a reward.

But this is on the side; we were discussing the why and the wherefore of the bad boy.

It is not the boy's fault that he is bad—not all his fault. He was born a savage, or at best an animal, more or less well bred, but he will take readily to culture and refinement, for he has good in him. The bringing out and developing of the good is education, and the bad in him is reduced in the same ratio that the good is increased.

To educate children means a great deal more than mere schooling. They need to be disciplined and made to understand that they can't always do as they please, but that they must do that which is given them to do, and do it well.

* * * * *

The thousands of foreigners who come to this country means tens of thousands of children. The ignorant class of immigrants don't care a snap whether their children are educated or not. Those that are sent to school are benefited very little, because they live in houses where the atmosphere is such as to stifle the growth of any germs of culture that may be started in their minds while at school.

The importance of educating and training the children of these ignorant and more or less vicious people is clearly apparent to every one. Unless it is done, and done well, the country will be overrun with anarchists. That is a logical sequence of letting things go on as they are.

In districts where these people are most numerous it is very well known that the common school, even with the compulsory law enforced, does not meet the demand, because the home influence nearly, if not quite, neutralizes the educational influence.

What shall be done?

Take the children from such homes and place them in training schools maintained by the state?

This proposition seems to be received with more favor than any other. Some object to the radicalism in it; but radical measures are always required in serious affairs, and this is one of the most serious that has confronted the people for a long time.

* * * * *

Can this be done without violating the sanctity of the home?

Does it violate its sanctity to enter the home and take a thief, a crook or an anarchist out of it after a certain amount of mischief has been done?

You say not, because it is done for the purpose of protecting innocent people from further harm.

That is precisely the object in educating and training these unfortunate children. The chief difference between the two systems is that under the one now in vogue the child is allowed to develop into a bad citizen and no effort is made to improve him until he becomes a law-breaker, while the other method proposes to take him before he becomes a culprit and make a rational, intelligent citizen of him.

The parents of the children will protest against the system, but they will have the alternative of rearing them properly or having them sent to school and fitted to become intelligent loyal and law-abiding citizens.

Some persons object on the ground that it will prove a very expensive operation for the state.

It will be expensive, it is true, but not nearly as expensive as keeping order and punishing crimes. The amount saved by the state in 50 years will more than doubly repay the expense.

This system will apply to all persons in the state, whether native or foreign. Every child, no matter who its parents may be, will be subject to being made a ward of the state, to be educated, trained and fitted for becoming a useful citizen.

A Royal Peacemaker.

King Edward VII. again shows himself as preeminently a man of tact by dropping a hint to the English aristocracy, disposed of course to be cool to the president of the French republic, to unbend and show Loubet and his party their warmest side. Forthwith the French guests have been showered with more invitations to the "stately homes of England" than they can possibly accept. Royal pats of the sterilized kind maintained in Great Britain may go far to justify itself by such practical service as this to the abatement of old international enmities.—New York World.

Talked of in New York

GEORGE C. JENKS

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 9.—How well it is understood what a part is played by "popular clamor" in bringing a political offender to justice has just been exemplified in the case of Mochs Hochstim. Everyone on the East Side knows Mochs. He has a saloon, for one thing, and he carries the vote of his district in his vest pocket, for another. When there was an election, three years ago, and some impudent deputy superintendents of elections dared to say how the vote should be cast and that Moch's heelers must keep away, great was the Hochstim's wrath. He leaped into the breach personally and very soon the deputies realized there was an Achilles in the field whom it would be dangerous to oppose. The election went through, and Mochs, satisfied with the result, called up all hands and congratulated them. He had asserted the majesty of his position and he supposed of course that would be the end of it. But it wasn't. McCullagh, then superintendent of elections, procured a warrant for his arrest and somehow or other a jury convicted him and a judge, without any regard for the fitness of things, from Hochstim's point of view, sent his majesty to state's prison. It was a year before the raucous laughter of his enemies died away sufficiently for the law to hear itself speak. Then it got Mocha out of prison, after reinvesting him of the hateful stripes, and he came back to New York to await whatever fate might have in store for him. The quashing of the indictments against him and three of his associates was the end. It would not have been possible two years ago when Hochstim's enemies were clamoring for his punishment.

Crossing the Water to See the Sights.

Prof. F. J. McKnight, principal of the Baltzhoover school, Pittsburgh, with Mrs. McKnight, sailed today on the Grosser Kurfurst for Plymouth. They will be abroad six weeks, during which time they will visit London, Brussels, portions of Switzerland and Germany, Paris and other places of interest in Europe. They will return home about August 20. Prof. McKnight was a visitor to The Gazette bureau before sailing.

Coney Has Many Patrons Now.

Coney Island and the other shore resorts are doing a tremendous business this week. Every steamboat that goes down the bay is loaded to the guards with passengers, and late at night, when most of them want to come back together, the rush at the Coney Island pier is something terrific.

One Policeman Learns a Lesson.

Policemen have had another warning that they must not take a hand in collecting public cabfares for the driver when there is a dispute. One policeman got into a fight with a cabman and two rich young men last night, and the whole collection was up before Magistrate Pool today. The court held that the policeman was "butting in" where he had no business, and although his uniform had been torn and he had been bruised and pushed about with extreme rudeness, the magistrate would not consider his complaint of assault. The police are beginning to wonder where they are "at," with Capt. Piper, Magistrate Pool and other severe critics watching them perpetually.

Cup Challenger Overhauled.

Sir Thomas Lipton is watching his challenger, Shamrock III., as closely as a mother cares for her favorite daughter. Although the boat did fairly well in the trials yesterday, carrying a lot of sail and behaving as a good yacht should in a general way, her owner was not quite satisfied. So she has been in dry dock today receiving a general overhauling. It may be that Sir Thomas will not be able to "lift" the cup this time but if he does not he is determined the fault shall not be carelessness in preparing the Shamrock.

Compliment to Sir Thomas.

It is noticeable that three-leaved shamrocks are worn a great deal as breast pins by young women and as scarfpins by men. Perhaps this is only to show that the wearers are loyal to Ireland, but the general understanding is that the intention is to compliment Sir Thomas Lipton. While loyal Americans cannot bring themselves to hope the Shamrock III. will beat the Reliance they do not mind letting Sir Thomas know that they are in sympathy with him personally, and that if he should be successful he will be congratulated most heartily by his friend, the enemy.

"Amen Corner" Is Empty Now.

It is pretty warm in "Amen corner" these days. Not that it matters very much, for Senator Platt is at his usual summer home, the Oriental hotel, at Manhattan beach, and Gov. Odell is up the state. There are no conclaves in the famous corner of the Fifth Avenue hotel lobby in such weather as this and the clerk behind the desk yawned slightly as he remarked this afternoon: "Politics indeed; it is trouble enough to get people to sign the register without asking them to sit in a corner and talk politics. All the big men of the Republican party who are to be found here in the fall, winter and spring, are cooling off at the seashore and mountains, and sometimes I wish I were there, too."

Straw Headpieces Going Better Now.

There has been a boom in the straw hat business the last three days, and prices have stiffened slightly. The $1 50 hat of last week will fetch $2 now, and hatters are beginning to hope that they may "break even" on the season, after all.

Too Hot for Shoppers.

This was not a good shopping day. With the mercury at 104 in the shade, which it was in Herald square at 2 o'clock this afternoon, one could hardly expect the housewife in Harlem to leave her breezy flat to walk on the hot flagstones or dig her high heels into the yielding asphalt while making her way from the street car to a store. In the big department stores it has been decidedly a quiet day and when the time came for shutting up at the end of the afternoon a deep sigh of relief went up in unison from the hundreds of young women who had been sweltering behind counters since 8:30 in the morning.

Heat Affects the Speculators.

Things were dull in Wall street today. Although cotton had its flurry early in the week and many securities in the New York stock exchange have been uneasy for several days there was no disposition today to whoop things up. Fat brokers puffed about the floor in shirtwaists, fanning themselves with their hats, and the telephone youths hardly had energy enough to answer the infrequent calls. The hot wave paralyzed the financial district as it did everything else in this seething caldron, as they call Manhattan, and nobody seemed to care.

Good Nights for High-Up Theaters.

If you want to find a friend tonight the most likely place for him to be is a roof garden. These are the big nights for entertainments on top of high theaters, and although the performers may be warm, they only make the audience cooler by contrast. As one well-known Pittsburgher remarked to me as he watched Weyburn's Minstrel Misses at the Crystal garden on the New York theater roof, "What is the use of being cool and comfortable, unless you can see other people sweltering?"

Properties of Radium

"Scientists have been talking a good bit about radium lately," said the Old Stager. "Now the darn fools have begun to discuss it. I read a story the other day which led up to the suggestion that radium would solve the problem of perpetual motion and that it is likely to give us all light without heat and heat without combustion. Fine theory, isn't it. All a fellow needs is about $2,000,000 worth of radium that he can't get painted on his walls and ceilings and he is well lighted. To find the proverbial needle in the haystack it is only necessary to carry the stack into the radium-lit room and there it is.

"Seriously, my boy, these fellows who talk most about radium know least. They never saw it and they have the most misty ideas about what it really is. They know it is a substance and they have heard that it has been extracted from Austrian pitchblende by Madame Curie and her husband, two of the cleverest chemists in Paris. Madame Curie is really said to be a more expert analyzer than her husband. The fellows who talk most glibly about radium as a commercial source of energy have heard about the accomplishments of this lady and that is all they know.

+ + + +

"Before any one can have more than a vague idea of radium he must understand some of the basic principles of physics. This substance is called radium because it has radioactive properties without combustion. Radioactive means the quality of giving off light, heat or other forms of energy. The sun is a radioactive body, but science has not absolutely determined whether its qualities are due to combustion, though that theory was for a long time generally held. An electrical generator or dynamo attains radio-active properties when in motion, but is not propelled by its own energy. Similarly a Leyden jar is radio-active as a result of chemical changes.

"All of these things were known long ago, but science has put in years of hard work to find out why electrical energy is produced by the action of chemicals in the Leyden jar; or by the rotation of the dynamo drum in contact with the copper brush. It has been making progress. The discovery of uranium, radium, polonium, the Roentgen ray and the Hewitt transformer have aided materially in getting science close to the secret.

+ + + +

"The present concept is that matter is composed of electrons, or ions, hundreds of them to the atom. The substances known to chemistry and mineralogy differ from each other simply in the density and arrangement of the ions. Compact substances result from close adhesion of ions when the charges and distribution promote affinity. Gases denote wider diffusion from comparative lack of affinity. Combustion, chemical action and friction are agencies which disturb the arrangement of ions in given substances, so that myriads of them seek other lodgment. They are propelled through the mysterious ether, the air or other substances and their impact produces, under varying conditions, heat waves, light waves, or motive energy.

"Conductors are substances whose ionic arrangement favors the passage of stray ions, or which are in a state to transmit the initial impact from one to another of their own ions until there is a discharge at the end of the series. Every schoolgirl remembers the illustration of the row of spools in contact, wherein a sharp rap at one end discharges the spool at the other without disturbing the remainder of the row. Ions, it must be remembered, however, are so small that there are thousands in the point of a needle.

"Now the radio-active substances, radium and polonium have the property, in high degree, of discharging ions without appreciable loss of weight. They continually bombard their surroundings with these theoretical missiles, setting up heat waves and light waves and creating other unusual conditions. They excite the Roentgen rays in the vacuum tube as readily as the powerful current from a dynamo. They render a powerful current from the dynamo incapable of sparking across a gap in their presence. When placed to bombard a cancer they have the same power to arrest or cure the malignant process as is attributed to the Roentgen rays and recent experiment indicates their equal efficacy in lupus with Finsens ultra violet rays.

"Wonderful properties these, certainly. Almost past belief. If they were not vouched for by such high authorities as Becquerel, Crookes, Thompson and Langley we would hesitate to believe. They may become very useful in scientific research and in the curative art; they may be worth all the thousands of dollars per gram that it costs to extract them from the gross pitchblende, but they are a long way from any application in the commercial world.

+ + + +

"It has recently been determined that newly fallen rain and snow are radio-active in slight degree. Some Yale scientists have found the water of certain deep wells and of a New England reservoir very slightly radio-active. No doubt other substances have the same property and it may be that radium and polonium will some day become more common. But they will not light or heat the world, or furnish power for huge industrial machines. That is a pipe dream. Polonium rather surpasses Aladdin's lamp, but it will not make the wheels go 'round.

"The scientific basis for any assumption that radium will lead to cheaper or more convenient motive power is that its discovery will lead so near to the heart of things as to show us the way to excite electronic discharge from base substances without employing expensive machinery in the process. Electricity would be cheap if it could be made a direct product of combustion of coal without the intervention of engines, boilers, or friction machines. But radium may not lead discovery to that goal. There are limitations to man's ingenuity and even to nature's laws. And it is fortunate there are limits. No sane man would care to risk his anatomy in the presence of enough radium to furnish the radio-activity necessary to move a railroad train."

Police Inefficiency.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

Sir: While the conduct of the force at the Oakland police station is under investigation, I can mention another instance of the negligence of police administration there. About 5 o'clock on the afternoon of July 2 a horse died in Center avenue, just east of the corner of Morewood. The two streets form a much-used carriage route, and the dead horse lay so close to the corner that vehicles turning from Morewood into Center drivers had hardly time to pull up before they were on the carcass. The Oakland station was telephoned to and notified of the danger, but nothing was done, and vehicles kept running into the carcass. Finally an automobile, turning from Morewood into Center, was knocked out by the collision. The driver miraculously escaped injury, but the automobile was wrecked. If the police had been willing to take the trouble to put up the usual red lantern as a danger signal all this trouble and injury could have been avoided.

CANNON WILL DROP DALZELL

Rumor That Pittsburgher Will Lose Place on Rules Committee.

VERY RADICAL ACTION

Brilliant Pennsylvanian Said Not to Be in Sympathy With New Speaker.

HIS FRIENDS WILL OBJECT

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU.
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 9.

It has been rumored here recently that Joseph G. Cannon, who will be the next speaker of the house of representatives, intends to make a change in the committee on rules by substituting Representative Hemenway of Indiana for Representative John Dalzell. The reason given for this proposed change is that Speaker Cannon wishes to make up the rules committee so that there will be perfect harmony between himself and the other two Republicans who control it. Representative Grosvenor of Ohio is the other Republican and Mr. Cannon is said to be satisfied with him.

Mr. Dalzell's friends are slow to believe that the new speaker will attempt such radical action as rumored. If Mr. Dalzell is omitted from the membership of the committee it will be a notable change in procedure. Mr. Dalzell went on the committee in the fifty-fourth congress and has been a wheelhorse of the party, bringing in many important rules and fighting them through the house, his knowledge of parliamentary law and ability as a debater serving him successfully.

The circulators of the report that the prospective speaker is contemplating a change add that no fault is to be found with Mr. Dalzell's ability, but that Mr. Cannon does not number him among the men who are in close sympathy with his own ideas and policies, but rather as distinguished among the Republicans who have opposed Mr. Cannon's views.

Mr. Dalzell's friends are certain to resist the suggestion to displace him from the rules committee. They contend that he served two Republican speakers faithfully and that there is no reason to believe he will not be as loyal to Mr. Cannon. An attempt to drop him from the committee on rules will arouse a storm of protest that will make the situation very interesting for the new speaker.

It is said that beyond making the rules committee air tight Mr. Cannon does not have in view any startling changes in committee assignments. It is stated that he will not disturb Mr. Payne in his capacity as chairman of ways and means and floor leader. It has been reported that he intended to displace Mr. Foss as chairman of naval affairs, substituting Mr. Dayton, but that report is denied by Mr. Foss' friends.

The Democrats have two places on the rules committee and one of them will go to Mr. Underwood of Alabama. The other will be given to the man whom the minority select as its leader; that is, who will get the minority complimentary nomination for speaker, and Mr. Williams of Mississippi is thought to be in the lead.

HIGHEST SPEED COULD NOT BE REACHED BY P. R. R.

Officials Disappointed in Their Effort to Travel 110 Miles an Hour.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—The attempts by the Pennsylvania railroad to get a speed of 100 to 110 miles an hour on test runs on the West Jersey & Seashore line have not been successful. The tests were made several months ago and were prosecuted for nearly six weeks. The reports, which have just been made, show that such a tremendous speed cannot be attained even in the most favorable circumstances.

The official report shows that the tests were conducted on a 25-mile stretch of perfect track, with a slight down grade. At the foot of the 25-mile stretch is a mile of level track, which was equipped with electric circuit breakers connected with a recording apparatus and spaced by steel tape measurements. A train of eight coaches was hauled by one of the Atlantic locomotives fitted with a high-speed brake apparatus.

All the tests were under the supervision of engineers from the Altoona shops, assisted by employes of the Westinghouse Airbrake Company. It was hoped that on this last mile of track a rate of 100 miles, and perhaps 110, would be attained, but 90 was the highest recorded. One coach after another was dropped, and finally, with the locomotive alone, the rate of 95.1 miles an hour was the best that could be done on several runs.

M'KENZIE COMPELLED TO SELL HIS BUSINESS

Washington Tax Appraiser Cannot Retain Outside Interest and Hold His Place.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The commissioners of the District of Columbia today took action concerning the proposed exchange of places between Auditor Petty and Alexander McKenzie, a member of the board of personal tax appraisers. The fact having been discovered that Mr. McKenzie, while holding the position of deputy auditor, approved vouchers for the payment of large amounts of money to the Asphalt Block and Tile Company, of which he was secretary, the commissioners concluded not to appoint him to the office of auditor. Mr. McKenzie was given the alternative of severing his connection with the company or resigning from the district service. He chose the former. Mr. McKenzie while deputy auditor transacted the business of his company and of the district on the same desk used by him in the district government building. Unless some official can be found who will exchange places with Auditor Petty the latter officer, it is stated, will be requested to resign.

REPUBLICANS TO HOLD AN IMPORTANT MEETING

Will Gather Tomorrow Afternoon—No Fusion Committee Named.

Some important business will be transacted at the meeting tomorrow afternoon of the Seventh legislative district Republican committee in the Republican headquarters. Some conditions have recently arisen in politics in this district that call for consideration. The matter of perfecting the organization will also come up.

James A. Clark, who is to name the Democratic fusion committee that will meet with the Citizens party committee and arrange a ticket for the fall campaign, has not named his choice, and will not do so until he returns home. He intends to go away next Wednesday, and thinks that if he names his selections when he gets back it will be time enough.

The Republican committee named to draft new rules for the Republican organization in Allegheny county completed its work yesterday, but the changes decided on will not be given out until after the new rules have been printed, which will be about next Tuesday. A number of changes have been made, but none of them is of a radical nature.

POPE'S RECOVERY WAS EXPECTED

Remarkable Rally of the Pontiff Gave New Hope to the Cardinals.

DECLARED IT A MIRACLE

Vatican Circles Were Much Elated Over the Early Morning Improvement of His Holiness, but Gloom Came Later in the Day.

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]
(Copyright, 1903, by New York Herald Co.)

ROME, July 9.—During the whole morning the general exclamation in vatican circles was:

"It is a miracle; it is a miracle."

From one cardinal to another, from prelates to abbots; from the Swiss guards to all who came to the vatican to make inquiries, the news spread that the pope would recover.

The pope was much better this morning. On rising he summoned Mgr. Piffers, to whom he made his confession, then he asked for Centra, his valet, whom he ordered to shave him. Cardinal Rampolla afterwards had a long conference with his holiness and became extremely hopeful of the sovereign pontiff's recovery.

The pope questioned Cardinal Rampolla on current ecclesiastical questions, just as was his custom during the usual daily conferences before his illness, and instructed him to telegraph to all the sovereigns who had made inquiries about him that he is now much better. He also informed Cardinal Rampolla of his intention to receive the cardinals at 6 o'clock this evening. His holiness also asked to see Mgr. Volpini, who had succumbed before daybreak to an attack of apoplexy.

The strain of the crisis is telling on other prelates. Cardinal Mocenni and Mgr. Imgherini, the pope's private chaplain, are dying and Cardinal Oreglia fell ill yesterday and is confined to his bed.

There were some affecting passages in the audience Cardinal Rampolla had with the holy father, whom the secretary of state had not seen for two days. The pope has certainly very great liking for Cardinal Rampolla, who loves his holiness like a father. When Cardinal Rampolla entered his presence the pope said.

"I am going to leave you, my beloved Rampolla. I am a little better today, and wanted to se you alone in order to bid you a last farewell."

Cardinal Rampolla wept like a child and the pope shared his emotion. This incident was succeeded by a sudden and grave relapse in the pope's condition. Since noon he has been in a semi-comatose state.

It has again become extremely difficult to prevail upon the pope to take nourishment, which alone can sustain his strength. Since this morning he has taken nothing and has spoken not a word, though hitherto he had endeavored to converse, even in the most critical moments. At the vatican the catastrophe is awaited at any minute.

Special editions of the Rome newspapers tonight publish most pessimistic reports and rumors of the pope's death were repeatedly circulated during the evening. The pope's extraordinary vitality is, however, still struggling with death.

Prof. Mazzoni again visited the vatican at 10 o'clock this evening. When he left he was forcibly stopped outside by an enormous crowd of anxious Roman Catholics, who were awaiting news of the pope's condition. Mazzoni would say nothing beyond the following:

"The pope's condition is grave, but his vitality has caused us so many surprises that it authorizes us to hope for still another."

TALKED ON THE NEW WAGE SCALE

Pittsburgh Manager Before the Glass Workers National Convention.

WANTS COMMITTEE TO ACT

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CINCINNATI, July 9.—The executive committee of the National Glass Manufacturers' association today made its call on the glass workers' national convention in session here. The members were introduced by President T. W. Rowe. Their object in coming before the convention was to secure some modification of the arrangements for agreeing on wage scales. General Superintendent David Carle of the National Glass Company, Pittsburgh, addressed the delegates in favor of the plan to allow all differences and wage arrangements to be settled by the national conference committee. The plan he would outline would require the men to remain at work, pending a decision of disputes, and in that way would avoid strikes and leave differences to arbitration. Mr. Dalzell of Moundsville, W. Va., and Edward Kaye, both prominent manufacturers, also addressed the convention in support of the plan. The matter was referred to a special committee for consideration, and the convention will act on it later.

The reports of the manufacturers are to have further hearings before the convention on the subject of increases in wages, which are asked for by the men. The latter are adhering to their demand for raises, ranging from four to 15 per cent.

The convention called off the ban which had been put on local union, No. 19, of Philadelphia, the latter had been refused representation in the convention because it had not paid its per capita tax, amounting to a few hundred dollars. The officers of the union telegraphed a check for the entire amount to President Rowe today. Thereupon Delegate McCarthy, who had been barred out, was recalled.

MRS. BLOOD REGISTERS HER NAME IN RED INK

CHICAGO, July 9.—(Special.)—A well-dressed woman walked up to the desk of the Victoria hotel this afternoon and asked for accommodations, when the clerk dipped a pen in the ink and offered to her. The visitor smilingly declined it, drew from a pocket a fountain pen, and proceeded to write her name. The clerk turned the book around to assign the guest to a room and he was surprised to find that she had written her name in red ink and it was "Mrs. Henry R. Blood, New York city."

W. J. BRYAN WILL STUDY SOCIOLOGY IN EUROPE

LINCOLN, NEB., July 9.—(Special.)—William Jennings Bryan has announced his intention of going to Europe this fall to study sociology under monarchical forms of government. It is the intention of Mr. Bryan to sail early in September and remain until the end of the year. He will be accompanied by his daughter. Great Britain and Ireland, France and Germany and perhaps Italy will be touched by Mr. Bryan, who will pay particular attention to the condition of the working classes.

lucid, understood, but received the news with calmness and serenity, saying he would be glad to see Dr. Rossini. The latter on entering the bedroom bowed to the pontiff, saying he was highly honored to visit him and tried to encourage the sick man. The pope answered him, but in a weak voice.

Whatever may be the outcome, the vatican world has fully made up its mind that the demise of the pope is only a question of days at the most, and probably only of hours. With this being the prevalent view, every detail for conducting the affairs of the church during the interregnum and for carrying out the election of Pope Leo's successor, is being systematically arranged.

Preparing for Conclave.

Following advices from the vatican, the cardinals throughout the world are hurrying Romeward, anticipating the holding of a conclave for the choice of a pope. These preparations are being undertaken in a spirit of profound grief and as the performance of a sacred duty.

Throughout today the court of the vatican leading to the pope's apartments has been thronged with distinguished visitors seeking information as to the pope's condition. Practically the entire diplomatic corps accredited to the vatican was among the inquirers and many cardinals were also among the groups. The popular solicitude for the pope's condition has led to an amelioration of the rigid rules closing the entrances. High and low, coming to ask about the pope's condition, were equally admitted to the inner court, where the bulletins signed by the doctors were conspicuously exhibited.

One of the most remarkable features of the sick room is the absolute simplicity and the entire absence of the usual elaborate equipment found in the sick rooms of distinguished patients. There are no trained nurses, the only attendants besides the doctors being the pope's valets. The doctors are without a corps of assistants and there are none of the modern appliances for refrigeration and other means of ameliorating the condition of patients.

POPE LEO DISCUSSES HIS PLACE OF BURIAL

His Holiness Gives Attention to Details of His Tomb and His Funeral.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ROME, July 9.—That the pope fully realizes that his end cannot long be deferred is shown by the attention he has given during the last few days to the details of his final resting place. It is well known that he has discussed his testamentary dispositions and expressed his wishes as to the place and manner of his funeral.

Shortly before he was taken ill the pontiff repeated to Cardinal Satolli his desire to be buried in the church of St. John Lateran. The spot he designated is on the left of the Apse above the entrance to the sacristy, corresponding to the opposite niche in which is the monument erected by himself in 1891 to Pope Innocent III.

It is said that a statue of Pope Leo, forming part of the monument, has already been made. In other respects the tomb will resemble that of Innocent III, consisting of a sarcophagus with a basrelief, two niches, two statues and two medallions.

MONSIGNOR VOLPINI PASSES AWAY IN ROME

Secretary of the Consistorial Congregation Dies After Brief Illness.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ROME, July 9.—Monsignor Volpini, who was stricken with syncope yesterday, died early this morning, shortly after the doctors in attendance had announced that all hope of saving his life had been abandoned.

Although the condition of the pope is still the center of interest the case of Monsignor Volpini has attracted much attention, not only because of his office of secretary of the consistorial congregation, to which he had just been appointed by Pope Leo, but also on account of the manner in which he was seized by his fatal illness; and it is hardly possible to describe the sensation and emotion which prevailed at the vatican when his death was announced.

From the moment he was stricken and fell to the floor, Monsignor Volpini lost entirely the power of speech and the use of entire right side of his body, and he was apparently unconscious when he died. It has been ascertained that the cause of death was cerebral congestion.

It is impossible to keep the death of Monsignor Volpini from the pope as the office of secretary of the consistorial congregation, to which Pope Leo appointed the deceased prelate July 5—the last appointment made by his holiness—must be filled without delay in view of the possibility of a papal interregnum, as it is known that at the moment a pope dies the secretary of state ceases to exercise his functions, which pass to the hands of the secretary of the consistorial congregation, whose career from that time is assured, as, according to custom, he is the first cardinal to be appointed by the new pope.

Sarcastic humor of the Romans reveals itself even at this solemn and sad moment. The remark has been heard that Pope Leo, not satisfied with having killed all the cardinals created by his predecessor, except Cardinal Oreglia, and over 100 of those created by himself, now begins to kill those to be created by his successor.

PONTIFF'S PHYSICIANS ANNOYED BY MESSAGES

Many Offers Are Received of Infallible Remedies for the Pope.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ROME, July 9.—If there are real martyrs at the vatican they are Professors Lapponi and Mazzoni, who are inundated with letters and telegrams from the four quarters of the earth, imploring them to save their illustrious patient, who is so necessary to the church and the world. Unknown names rub elbows with those of world-wide celebrity, some of the senders asking for telegraphic news two or three times a day. A private secretary and large fortune would be required to answer them all, which the eminent professors certainly have no intention of doing.

It does not even end there, for admirers and worshipers of Pope Leo are sending infallible remedies which they say if only employed are sure to save the pontiff's life. An American has sent what he describes as an extraordinary nutritive liquid which would restore the dying to health. A South American has sent an hemorrhoidal ungent in a very rich flask.

Besides these, there are prescriptions from druggists and offers already to embalm the pontiff. Others offer to make a death mask; some want to paint a picture of Pope Leo and one writer even offers to impart the secret of petrifying the body into an everlasting statue to be offered to the pope's nephews.

A new phase of the historic strife between the noble families of Colonna and Orsini has been developed by the illness of the pope. Hoping to reconcile this ancient family hostility, it has been the practice to designate the head of each house as a prince assistant to the pontifical throne, these two positions being the highest lay honors in the gift of the pope. In the case of the coronation of a new pontiff the two princes stand on either side of his holiness.

The head of the Colonna family, Don Marco Antonio Colonna, was among the visitors at the vatican today, but the Orsini family is temporarily unrepresented in this high dignity, Don Filippo Orsini having resigned in favor of his son, Don Domenico, prince of Solefra, and the latter's nomination not having been confirmed by Pope Leo. The Orsinis are thus without representation and this circumstance constitutes an interesting historical curiosity.

CONCLAVE WILL NOT AWAIT ALL CARDINALS

It Is Probable That Election of Pope May Not Be Postponed Because of Delays.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ROME, July 9.—The vatican has received dispatches from all parts of the world from the cardinals abroad stating that they were leaving for Rome. Some authorities hold that each cardinal has a right to demand the postponement of the conclave to permit him to reach Rome, but it is doubtful if the selection of a pope will be deferred on account of any one cardinal.

It is recalled that the American cardinal, McCloskey, arrived too late to participate in the conclave which selected Pope Leo. It is an interesting fact that Archbishop Farley, then secretary to Cardinal McCloskey, was also too late to participate as a secretary in the conclave, but Archbishop Farley took part in the ceremony of Pope Leo's coronation, and through a singular coincidence his nomination as archbishop of New York occurred at what was probably the pontiff's last consistory.

Gratification was expressed by the American prelates here upon learning that Cardinal Gibbons sailed today for Rome. As the conclave will not take place until at least 10 days after the demise of the pope, his eminence will arrive in ample time to participate. Outside of Americans, Cardinal Gibbons' coming excites widespread interest, as he is regarded as the representative of the modern progressive spirit of the United States. It is recognized that one of the chief issues at the conclave will be between the advocates of modern progress and the supporters of conservative traditions.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Cardinal Gibbons sailed today on the steamship La Touraine. He was accompanied by his secretary, Father P. C. Garvin. The cardinal pointed out before sailing that he was not summoned officially to Rome to take part in the conclave. Such a summons, he said, would come only after the death of the pope. When the illness of the holy father took a serious turn a few days ago he received a cable dispatch from Cardinal Rampolla, the papal secretary of state, suggesting that it would be advisable for the cardinal to come over.

"There is nothing for me to say," said the cardinal. "I have been advised to go over, and in the event of the death of the pope I shall proceed directly to Rome. If he is still alive, which may God grant, I shall spend the time quietly resting. I expect to be gone about two or three months."

CARDINAL GIBBONS A POWER IN CONCLAVE

He Might Become Pope Were It Not for Opposition of the Spanish.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ROME, July 9.—The Tribuna, which, since the grave condition of the health of the pope became generally known, has been publishing sketches of the cardinals who are considered likely to become head of the church, tonight devoted an article to Cardinal Gibbons, which ends as follows:

"The partisans of Americanization have often spoken of Cardinal Gibbons as a possible successor to Pope Leo. The idea was for many reasons too daring to become a reality, but it would not have appeared altogether impossible without the Spanish-American war, which rendered Cardinal Gibbons' position excessively delicate with the Catholics and the remainder of the world.

"He would not be a pope of the two American continents, or even an Americanist, but pope of the United States, against whom rise the Spanish cardinals with all the prestige of their indisputable loyalty to the apostolic see, and who would have on their side the greater part of the Latin cardinals. This does not mean that in case a conclave is held Cardinal Gibbons will be without influence. On the contrary he will have power which will be exercised by him with wisdom in favor of the candidate who will agree with the state of modern civilization."

DEPUTATION AT VATICAN FROM LEO'S NATIVE TOWN

News of Pontiff's Illness Reaches Obscure Village in the Hills.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ROME, July 9.—A deputation arrived at the vatican today from Carpineto, the birthplace of Pope Leo, the news of the pontiff's alarming condition having even penetrated to that obscure place. Carpineto is a little town among the Vosclan hills with streets so narrow that two donkeys cannot pass each other, and an hour distant from any railway, but with a water supply and electric light, the former the gift of Pope Leo.

The village nourishes a species of worship for the deputation penetrated as far as the ante-chamber of the sick pontiff, who immediately said he would receive them, but for once gave way to the appeals of those around him, and sent instead his kindest wishes and benediction.

The Neapolitans are showing great emotion over the approaching end of Pope Leo, praying in the churches and doing all that religion prescribes in appealing to the Almighty to delay the catastrophe. Cardinal Prisco telegraphs that recourse has even been had to the extreme measures of bringing out the blood of Saint Gennaro.

The blood of the saint is collected in a vial in a petrified form which turns into liquid and boils when the saint condescends to intervene. The miracle is very dear to the heart of the Neapolitans, who firmly believe in its power to cure all ills. The cardinal reports that the petrified blood took a liquid form today in the presence of a large concourse.

POPE GETS MESSAGE FROM LAYMAN IN ERIE

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ROME, July 9.—As the pope is much touched by the evidences of sympathy coming to his church from all parts of the world, Dr. Lapponi showed him some of the telegrams which had reached him as the pope's physician, including the following message from Erie, Pa:

"Before he dies I wish to see the world at peace. God bless him. Do not give him up. The world needs him."

The pope was much satisfied. He said: "The Americans have always showed me more affection than any other people. I love them."

When this incident became known to the prelates in the ante chamber, one of them exclaimed:

"If the pope lives here is an American priest who will not be forgotten. He will be made a bishop."

ERIE, PA., July 9.—Cleary, the man who sent a dispatch to the pope's household, which deeply affected his holiness, is a layman instead of a priest. At the bishop's residence it was stated that the contents of the cablegram were entirely unknown to the bishop or his household. When told of the remark or a dignitary within the papal circle to the effect that the sender of the dispatch which so affected the pope might be made a bishop, the news elicited a smile, followed by the remark that Mr. Cleary was a long way off from having such honors tendered him as he was but a layman within the church.

CARDINAL GIBBONS SAILS.

NEW YORK, July 9.—(Special.)—Cardinal Gibbons sailed on the Touraine at 10 o'clock today. He was accompanied only by Father Gavin, his private secretary.

"I am not going directly to Rome," said the cardinal. "I shall run down to Paris when I reach Havre, if the pope is still alive. In the event of the recovery of the holy father, I shall spend my vacation in the continent. But if the pope dies I shall go directly to Rome."

Cardinal Gibbons would not discuss the probable successor to the dying pope.

"It is a sacred subject," said the cardinal, "and cannot be discussed at a time like this."

In speaking of the pope, Cardinal Gibbons said: "Pope Leo has been a friend and father to me. I have known him for 20 years and have loved him more the longer I have known him. He is a man of broad iews. He has an eye open for all the world in his churchmanship."

ENDEAVORERS CROWD DENVER

Ten Thousand Attended the Opening Meeting There Yesterday Morning.

OLD OFFICERS ARE RE-ELECTED

Plenty of Enthusiasm at This Year's Convention—President Clark Outlines Plans for Increasing the Membership of the Organization.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

DENVER, COL., July 9.—Ten thousand people attended the opening mass meeting this morning of the Christian Endeavor convention. From all sections of the United States and Canada are delegates, each enthusiasic in the mammoth work the organization is carrying on.

A rousing song service led by the Rev. G. H. Jacobs of New York preceded the mass meeting. After devotional exercises a welcoming hymn was sung by a chorus of 600 voices, conducted by Prof. W. J. Whiteman. Gov. James Peabody then delivered an address of welcome for the state, the Rev. Dr. Robert Coyle for the churches and Chairman William E. Sweet for the committee of 1902. A hearty greeting was also extended by Dr. George A. Libbet of Colorado Springs, who joined the first society in Maine 22 years ago.

At the annual business meeting of the society all the old officers were re-elected as follows: President, the Rev. Francis E. Clark; treasurer, William A. Shaw; clerk, George B. Graff; auditor, Fred Rukidder. The retiring trustees also were re-elected and presidents were named for the various states, territorial and provincial societies.

A definite increase campaign to double the number and efficiency of Christian Endeavor societies in a single decade was the theme of Dr. Clark's address. He based his address on the fundamental idea that Christianity is a religion of expansive forces, that "you can no more confine the religion of Christ to its old limits than you can grow an oak in a flowerpot," and that "to cease to grow is to begin to die."

The marked growth of the society during the past year in this country, and its larger expansion throughout the world, made such an increase seem not only possible, but well-nigh certain within the next decade.

Treasurer Shaw's annual report showed receipts for the year ended June 1 to have been $9,593; cash on hand June 1, $85. The publishing department's expenditures the past year were $92,510; cash on hand June 1, $3,042. Its total assets are $44,165; liabilities, $7,413.

ERRATIC RUBE WADDELL AGAIN LEAVES GAME

Quarrels With Captain Cross and Leaves the Champion Athletics—Playing With the Atlantic City Team.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—George Edward Waddell, the star twirler of the champion Athletics, has quit the American league team. The erratic pitcher quarreled with Capt. Lave Cross at the grounds this morning, left the clubhouse, carrying his uniform and personal belongings and this afternoon played center field for the Atlantic City team against Camden.

The action of Waddell is not surprising to those who have followed his career since he first joined the major league baseball ranks. He has been with the Athletics for two seasons, and since he joined them has been their principal support, being mainly responsible for their splendid form and pitched winning ball. Before leaving for the west on the recent trip he had won 10 straight games. On the trip he pitched four games and lost them all, and it was this that started the trouble which ended in his quitting the team today.

He was seen at the Atlantic City-Camden game today, and when asked if he had left the Athletics he said he had and would never go back again so long as Lave Cross was captain. He is also credited with saying that Schreckengost and Hoffman were going to leave the team, but these players denied any intention of doing so. Cross was asked regarding the trouble with Waddell after yesterday's game, and admitted that he had quarreled with the big pitcher, and also that Waddell had quit the team.

Cross said he was a man nobody could handle, and that he did not care whether he ever played with the team again. Cross denied that there was trouble with any of the other players, and said that it was Waddell's conduct and the inability of anyone on the team to manage him that caused the friction.

FLOOD VICTIM'S BODY RECOVERED

Remains of Little Girl Found Embedded in Mud Near Manor.

MAY COST ANOTHER LIFE

Lineman Probably Fatally Injured While Repairing Wires in Devastated District. Farmer Offers to Marry One of the Homeless Survivors.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GREENSBURG, PA., July 9.—Almost a mile from the home in which she was torn from the arms of her mother by the rush of waters that swept down the Brush creek valley on Sunday afternoon, the remains of Rosa Niega, the 9-year-old daughter of William Niega of Penn were found this afternoon imbedded in the mud in the culvert beneath the Pennsylvania railroad tracks near Manor. The discovery of the body was made by a gang of section men. The remains were in a decomposed condition and were taken to Irwin, where they were viewed by Coroner C. A. Wynn. Burial will be made tomorrow morning.

Only the father and the baby of the family are left to follow the remains of the girl to her last resting place, the mother and another daughter having been carried away in the flood and drowned. Their remains were among the first found at Penn.

The finding of the body of Rosa Niega so far from her home has led many to believe that some of the missing were carried down the valley and into Turtle creek, and that they ultimately found watery graves in the Monongahela river.

Another death may result from the disaster in the serious injury that befell Charles Gruver of Jeannette near Penn this afternoon. Cruver is a lineman in the employ of the plant of the Irwin Heat, Light & Power Company. He left the plant at Manor today to repair the wires that had been swept down in the flood. While at work near Penn he grasped a live wire. He was badly shocked and fell to the ground from the crossarms of a 40-foot pole. His right thigh was fractured and his face badly lacerated.

Searching for Bodies.

He is suffering severely from coming in contact with the heavily charged wire and it is feared that he has sustained internal injuries of a dangerous character.

The work of searching for the dead is being continued earnestly at Penn, and tonight a score of piles of burning debris light up the heavens. A great part of the wreckage has been cleared away and disinfectants have been spread throughout the entire town. Subscriptions to the amount of over $350 have been received by George Weitz, chairman of the relief committee, and the people of Greensburg have subscribed over $900 for the needy.

The smallest contribution received, but one which caused as much self-sacrifice on the part of the giver as the largest on the list, was made this afternoon when a ragged tramp added 25 cents to the fund. He was immediately put to work on one of the gangs clearing away the debris and he proved an excellent worker.

Mr. Weitz received an uncommon offer of assistance from a Buffalo run farmer. The letter stated that the writer was 39 years old and in his younger days was considered a handsome fellow. He explained that he had a good home which he was willing to throw open to the woman who would consent to be his wife. He wrote that he had read in the papers that a great many people in Penn were homeless and that he was prepared to give at least one girl, if between 25 and 35 years old, a home. His offer of assistance has been filed for the present.

Work Stopped at Jeannette.

No work was done at Jeannette today and it is not known when the clearing up of the debris will begin. The fish is becoming noxious and the board of health has been appealed to. Great concern is being felt over the big fill just east of the passenger station. Employes of the Pennsylvania railroad who attempted to float heavy timbers through the culvert found the walls were badly cracked. A heavy landslide occurred on the south side of the big fill this afternoon and the railroad company is still seriously handicapped in the operation of trains between Greensburg and Jeannette. The Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Greensburg Street Railway Company began the operation of cars over the entire length of its line this evening.

IRWIN, PA., July 9.—(Special.)—The Pennsylvania railroad began operations on its Yough branch this morning in order to restore the line after the flood of Sunday night. Monday morning the construction department heads discovered about 1,000 feet of roadbed washed away and tracks hanging twisted in the air, as many feet on the side along the old tracks and near the creek washed away, three bridges in the water and six coal cars lying alongside.

To make repairs 200 men were brought here and they worked day and night until this morning. To build up the tracks it required 50 cars of cinders and sand. Five carloads of ties were used for making foundations. While this work was being done bridge builders put up a temporary structure on the Yough branch and one at the foot of Main street, while the wrecking crew was fishing out the steel bridges washed away.

Sad Home-Coming from Porto Rico.

The return of Miss Ida Daft to her home in McKeesport after an absence in Porto Rico of three years, during which time she has been teaching school there, is a sad one. Her aged father, Thomas Daft, one of the city assessors, is lying near death's door and his physicians yesterday found it necessary to administer nitro-glycerin to maintain the heart action. Mr. Daft is a civil war veteran and his age makes his recovery uncertain.

New Cases of Smallpox.

The following cases of smallpox were reported yesterday: Edward Wolf, No. 417 Seventh avenue; George Ihrig, No. 1704 Fifth avenue; William Yates, No. 2433 Webster avenue; Bessie Taylor, No. 554 Morgan street; William Wonderly, No. 2312 Homewood avenue; Samuel Solomon, rear No. 64 Wylie avenue; Mathilda Reese and Palmer Pennywell, No. 2520 Wylie avenue; Sarah Griffith, No. 75 Ruch street; Lattie Joyce, No. 2317 Ridge street.

Fined for Beating an Old Man.

J. R. Werley, C. J. Scott and A. C. Scott were fined $25 and costs or 50 days to the workhouse, yesterday, by Police Magistrate Stewart for assaulting Philip Cailahan, 66 years old, in Diamond street Wednesday night. The men said they were drinking and were unable to give any account of the affair. J. Brown, also arrested in connection with the case, was fined $10 and costs.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LIKELY TO GIVE RELIEF

Representatives Will Look Over Jeannette and Stricken Towns Today and Wrangling Among Relief Committees Is Over.

An invitation has been extended to the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce to investigate conditions at Jeannette and Penn with a view to raising the necessary relief fund. Representatives of the chamber will visit the towns today and no doubt will report favorably upon subscribing a fund.

Conditions in the lower part of Jeannette and at Penn are pitiable. The men of Penn are doing their best, but they need aid and need it badly. The quarrel that stopped the raising of a fund at Jeannette has been compromised, and the rival committees have reached an agreement that will insure a proper use of the money subscribed, no matter to which committee it is given. There has also been indignation because some residents of Jeannette have refused to assist in the work of cleaning up the wreck. That indignation is fully justified, but it is pointed out that women and children and other innocent people should not be made to suffer because a few lazy men refuse to work.

There is urgent need for outside assistance to prevent the development of an epidemic of disease and to ward off starvation from a large number of persons. Food, clothing, furniture and household utensils will be gratefully received by the flood victims and ought to be speedily provided. Leading citizens of the two towns endorse this view and appeal to the generous people of Pennsylvania to help as they have always helped the unfortunate of other states and countries, as well as of their own. They aver that no quarrels or wrangling will longer interfere with the work demanded by humanity.

WILL BE OBJECTIONS TO THE REPORT PRESENTED

Some Members of Filtration Committee Do Not Favor Garbled Opinion.

When the general committee on filtration meets in city hall at 4 p. m. today there will be plenty of members who will take issue with the sub-committee on filtration, which yesterday made a report containing inaccurate interpretations of the report of the commission on filtration, the commission which was composed of prominent citizens, who studied the subject for months and issued a comprehensive report that wound up in favor of the sand filtration process.

So those who understand the influences that are at work it is not surprising that some members of the sub-committee should be in favor of the mechanical alum-water process, but it was not supposed that those persons would deliberately misrepresent the attitude of the old filtration commission, while that commission's report is printed and is accessible to the public. All the Republican members of the general committee will probably be present today, and they will fight the adoption of the report of the sub-committee. It is probable that a special session of common council will be called for next week to take up the filtration question. As the situation is at present the blame for delay is resting upon the Citizens party's members of councils.

In its report the sub-committee said that the filtration commission had reported that covers were necessary for sand filtration and that to provide covers would cost about $800,000. Those who have read the report of the commission know very well that the commission, or at least the filtration expert whom it employed, reported that covers were not necessary and that the system could be established to work satisfactorily without them.

An attempt is also made to rouse the jealousy of the South Side by pretending that the filtration commissioner's report did not provide for filtered water in that district of the city, yet the fact is that the commission did report that to supply the South Side with filtered water from the Allegheny river was perfectly feasible. It said that the Monongahela water was not fit to drink, on account of the amount of sulphuric acid in it, and recommended the same kind of water that Pittsburgh gets. Of course, the city cannot lay any water mains on the South Side until the contract with the Monongahela Water Company, which has the exclusive right to supply water on the South Side, has expired, but when that time has come filtered water can be furnished to the South Side from the city system, if that system has been established.

NEW TRACTION LINE TO HOMESTEAD PARK

A new street railway has been projected at Homestead, which will be rival to the Homestead & Mifflin line, now the only line running to Homestead park. The new line will pass up McClure street and out Mifflin street to the Homestead cemetery where one branch will pass to Whittaker and another to Thompsons run, where it will connect with a branch of Duquesne, making a connecting link between the two towns. Pittsburgh capitalists allied with the Mellon interests are financing the proposed road.

No Date Set for a Meeting.

W. H. Stevenson, chairman of the sub-committee of the councilmanic committee on health, appointed to conduct the investigation into the workings of the bureau of health suggested by Controller Larkin, said yesterday that no date had been set for a meeting of the sub-committee. Mr. Stevenson stated, however, that he would consult with members of the sub-committee and if agreeable to them, he would call a meeting for Tuesday night, July 14.

Second Mysterious Fire.

The Bellevue fire department yesterday extinguished a fire in the residence of J. S. Byers, Munroe and Meade streets, and the police are investigating the cause of the blaze. This is the second time this week the house has been on fire, the department putting out a blaze late Monday afternoon. It is the opinion of Mrs. Byers that some enemy is trying to destroy her home.

Struck by Flobert Bullet.

Bechtold Yeager of Schenley avenue had been shot in the side with a flobert rifle while standing in front of his home Wednesday night. Yeager was on the front lawn when a bullet fired by some boys who were shooting birds, struck him in the right side. The bullet struck a rib and glanced to one side, embedding itself in the flesh, but was extracted.

Coming Wedding at Cumberland.

CUMBERLAND, MD., July 9.—(Special.)—The Rev. M. L. Young, Ph. D., pastor of St. Stephen's Lutheran church, this city, and Miss Carrie Mann of South Cumberland, daughter of the Rev. Dr. L. A. Mann, will be married next Tuesday at 12:30 p. m., in the groom's church by the bride's father, who is pastor of St. John's Lutheran church, this city.

PENNSY FAVORS NEW ELECTRIC CAR LINES

Officers of Lines West Said to Be Interested in Sewickley Valley Projects.

"The opposition of the Pennsylvania company to the construction of electric lines in the Sewickley valley has been withdrawn. The company will not oppose lines built in such a way as to develop the valley and not hurt the operating of the steam railroad," said E. B. Taylor, fourth vice president of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburgh yesterday.

It is said that a number of the principal officials of the Pennsylvania lines west of Pittsburgh and P. R. Quay are interested in the new traction companies which have been incorporated recently to build lines in the Ohio valley from Pittsburgh to Baden. The influence of officials of the steam railroad is being used to secure the passage of the franchises through the councils of the various boroughs and the construction of the lines is a practical certainty.

It is promised that the new electric railroads will be the best that can be built. An excellent track and fine equipment are both assured by the representatives of the companies.

"The electric lines have their own place in passenger transportation," said Mr. Taylor yesterday. "They are not for through use. That is the steam railroad's work. But for inter-station traffic they can give a more convenient service than the steam lines. This is realized and if these companies, which are sure to come are friendly to the railroad and are built in such a way as not to interfere with the railroad, as for instance in asking grade crossings, it is better that the railroad should not oppose them."

SLAYER OF FATHER HAS DEVELOPED SMALLPOX

CANAL DOVER, O., July 9.—(Special.)—Bert Dickson, the insane man who shot to death his father, Dr. James A. Dickson, ex-county coroner, has developed a case of smallpox. Dr. Dickson was suffering from smallpox at the time of the murder. His son was considered mentally unbalanced but was at liberty until a quarantine was placed around the house on account of the father's affliction. He has been chained to the floor since that time. The house was thoroughly fumigated and disinfected.

PERSONALS

Robert E. Munson of Philadelphia spent a few hours in Pittsburgh last night on his way to St. Louis. He traveled over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. He is engaged in the tobacco business. Speaking of that industry he said: "Havana and Porto Rico goods will be in less demand next year than at any time since tobacco from those countries was imported into the United States. This will be because of the heavy crops of fine leaf now growing in Connecticut and Pennsylvania. The Ohio crops are doing fairly well, but the grade of tobacco is not so fine as in either of the two other states mentioned. The imported goods have a flavor which cannot be secured on American soil, but the average smoker uses the home-grown grades. The stogie, which is practically a Pittsburgh brand, will draw its supply from at least six different states, while in former years not more than three states succeeded in growing the long leaf. The market for fillers is almost inexhaustible."

Humphries Miller, George L. McFarlane, John W. Crawford, Philip S. Flinn, Edward J. Martin, formerly city clerk; Dr. Charles Schlidecker and William A. Flinn left last night for New York. They will sail tomorrow on the steamship Minnehaha for Southampton, where they will separate and make a tour of Europe. S. J. Wainwright, Jr., had arranged to go with the party, but owing to business is compelled to remain at home.

Fred Winston of St. Paul went east last night over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad after spending two days in Pittsburgh. He is engaged in the wholesale cutlery business. He said: "Since prosperity manifested itself in this country there has been put on the market more of the middle grade cutlery than will be disposed of for several years. There has been little imported from England and Germany the last year, and the indications are little will be brought to this country. The best American grades are equal in endurance to those made abroad."

SAFE-CRACKERS ARE AT WORK IN ALLEGHENY

With Nitro-Glycerin the Gang Blew the Doors Off Two Safes on the North Side Yesterday Morning---No Arrests.

A gang of expert safe robbers is working in Allegheny, and the entire detective force of the North Side department is at work trying to run down the burglars. Two safes were cracked and robbed early yesterday morning by the gang, and last night the police had discovered several clues that they think will lead to the arrest of the guilty ones.

The office of Herman Issy, a junk dealer of No. 803 Pennsylvania avenue, was broken into some time between midnight and 4 o'clock yesterday morning and with the aid of nitro-glycerin the doors of the safe were blown off and $40 and a number of papers belonging to Issy were taken. An examination of the premises showed that the front door had been "jimmied" by the robbers and that piles of rags and old carpet had been heaped around the safe to deaden the sound of the explosion.

From the scene of the first robbery the thieves went to the office of the John Dippel Coal Company at the flat at the foot of Locust street, where they forced open the door of the office and blew off the doors of the safe. Last night Capt. Dippel was unable to estimate his loss, as he did not know how much was in the safe at the time the robbery occurred. It is thought the robbers did not get more than $100 in money and a small amount in stamps.

The robberies were discovered yesterday morning and the police were notified at once. Detectives Thomas C. Johnson, Charles England and Leon Einstein were put to work on the cases yesterday morning. The entire force was put to work to run down the thieves last night.

COMMON BRANCH CANNOT DODGE

Allegheny Select Council Insists Upon Action on Delinquent Tax Collector Ordinance.

FINANCE COMMITTEE SNUBBED

Report Negatived, Measure Revived and Ordered Printed for Passage—Councilmen Will Have to Go on Record. Davidson's Friends Chagrined.

Allegheny common council, dominated by Mayor Wyman, is to be forced to take action on the ordinance providing for the abolition of the delinquent tax office, despite the effort of the Citizens majority in the finance committee to kill the measure there.

Under a suspension of the rules yesterday the select branch constituted itself a committee of the whole and refused to concur in the action of the finance committee in negatively reporting the ordinance back to councils. As a committee, select passed a resolution offered by Councilman Lee C. Beatty that it would not concur in the action of the finance committee, but would order the measure printed for the use of councils. It will be put into the select branch at the regular meeting next Wednesday, passed finally under a suspension of rules, and will be put up to common council at its regular meeting on Thursday night.

Eleven of the 15 members were present yesterday. Of this number only one, George C. Lecky of the First ward, voted against having the ordinance printed. Lecky was elected last February on the ticket with Wyman.

A large crowd was in select council chamber, and when, on the call of wards, no mention was made of the ordinance in the responses from each member there there was some disappointment manifested by those outside the rail.

After the call of wards Mr. Kirschler of the Fifth ward, chairman of the finance committee, read the report of that committee, in which was contained the clause reporting negatively Mr. Beatty's ordinance, which was considered last Monday night.

At the conclusion of the reading of the report Mr. Beatty put the motion that council constitute itself a committee of the whole. This was carried, and Mr. Beatty offered the resolution that as a committee the body refuse to concur with the finance committee and that the ordinance asking for the abolition of the delinquent tax office be ordered printed for councils. This carried with only Mr. Lecky of the First ward dissenting. Mr. Beatty was in the chair when this action was taken. President Torrance stepping down until action on the measure was finished.

In the crowd watching the proceedings were a large number of friends of Delinquent Tax Collector Harry M. Davidson, who were evidently very much chagrined. Since Monday night, when the ordinance got such a setback in the finance committee, Davidson and his friends have declared with confidence that the measure was dead and that no future effort would be made to abolish the office.

Select council meets in regular session next Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Beatty said yesterday that he would introduce the ordinance then, and with the majority of Republicans in select it will undoubtedly be passed finally under a suspension of the rules and be presented to common council on Thursday night by Councilman Thomas McHenry of the Fifth ward. It will then be up to the Wyman councilmen to show their hands, and it is being predicted by politicians on the North Side that Wyman cannot control enough votes to stop the passage of the ordinance.

HOW NEVIN'S MUSIC MADE AUDIENCE KIN

A touch of melody makes all Pittsburghers kin, and when that music is some familiar composition by a local composer and is heard hundreds of miles away from home, the patriotic feeling is made still more manifest. Not long ago a party of visitors from the Smoky City were sitting around the band stand at a resort in the Catalina islands. Suddenly the sweet notes of Ethelbert Nevin's "Rosary" was carried out on the evening breeze. Several Pittsburgh people in the party recognized the music and applauded vigorously. At the close of the number it was noticed that several others in the audience seemed unusually demonstrative.

"Hurrah for Nevin and Pittsburgh!" shouted one patriot.

"Hip, hip! Hooray!" rang out from tier after tier of seats.

The Pittsburgh colony immediately gathered around the leader of the orchestra, and while the majority had been strangers before, the lamented composer's favorite melody had united one and all and before the concert was finished an entire repertoire of Nevin's works was played.

COMPLAINTS OF MINERS HEARD BY COMMISSION

Grievances of Men from Two Districts Were Considered Yesterday.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WILKESBARRE, PA., July 9.—The miners' conciliation board met at Glen Summit at 10 o'clock this morning, all members being present. The grievances heard and discussed were from the Lehigh and Schuylkill regions. The employes in these districts complain that some of the companies will not allow them to name a checkweighman from among their number although the award made by the strike commission calls for the appointment of such an official, who is supposed to look after the interest of the miners.

The question of yardage was another problem discussed. Some of the companies are paying a satisfactory rate, while others refuse to pay the amount conforming with the commission's award. The miners in the Schuylkill region complained that some of the companies refused to pay them for overtime. In some cases this issue is a matter of opinion solely, the companies making the claim that they should not be asked to pay for time not actually put in.

BUNTING OF CHESWICK AGAIN BADLY WANTED

Not at Home When Constable Calls to Serve Warrant on a Second Charge.

M. M. Bunting, the Cheswick florist, is wanted again. He is under $2,000 bail for a hearing tomorrow before Alderman James V. McMasters on a charge of attempting to secure a loan of $1,920 from the Mortgage Banking Company upon $2,000 worth of Harmar township school bonds, alleged to be forged.

A second information was made yesterday before Alderman McMasters by the officials of another local bank charging Bunting with having secured $1,800 by the same method as attempted on the Mortgage Banking Company.

C. P. Fraser of Perrysville avenue, Allegheny, made a similar charge against Bunting before Alderman T. J. Toole. Fraser alleged that Bunting secured $1,600 on $2,000 worth of the forged bonds.

When a constable went to Cheswick yesterday to rearrest Bunting he could not be found. The florist's parents told the officer that he had not been home since Monday, and they do not know where he is.

Machinists Decided to Accept 7½ Per Cent Increase.

At the mass meeting held last night by the machinists it was agreed to accept a minimum of 30 cents an hour and an increase in wages of 7½ per cent. This is virtually the proposition made by the manufacturers at the last joint conference. The machinists originally demanded a minimum of 33 1-3 cents an hour and 15 per cent advance.

When the last conference resulted in a failure the manufacturers gave it out that it withdrew its proposition of more than 7½ per cent increase, leaving their offer at 5 per cent. It is thought the manufacturers will grant the 7½ in order to avoid more trouble and delay in the settlement of the scale.

WERE BURIED SIDE BY SIDE

Alex B. Young and His Murdered Wife Laid to Rest in Village Churchyard.

HIS FAMILY IS PROSTRATED

Comrades of the Philippines Acted as Pallbearers—Curious Throng Filled the Town — Mystery About Mrs. Young Solved by Dead Man's Sister.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, PA., July 9.—The last scene in the tragedy of Tuesday morning, When Alexander B. Young of Pittsburgh killed his wife and himself at the Siegel hotel, was enacted at the village of Prosperity, 10 miles south of here, this afternoon, when the two bodies were buried. The remains were laid to rest side by side in the old Presbyterian cemetery.

Owing to the condition of the Rev. Dr. Young and his wife, the parents of the suicide, the funeral was private, scarcely more than a dozen of the immediate relatives of the family being in attendance, all others being shut out. The funeral was conducted by the Rev. Frank Fish, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Claysville, assisted by the Rev. Dr. John A. Nealy, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Waynesburg, both lifelong friends of the bereaved family. The services were short but impressive, and no mention was made of the awful deed of Tuesday. The music was rendered by the choir of the Prosperity Presbyterian church, of which the Rev. Young is pastor, and of which his dead son was formerly a member.

Shortly after 2 o'clock the funeral cortege started to the cemetery. Behind the two hearses were but three carriages. Short services were conducted at the burying ground and then the caskets were lowered into the graves. Owing to the condition of the parents, a squad of Company H, Tenth regiment veterans, sent out as a firing squad, did not fire a volley over the grave, but these members of the company, who served with Young in the Philippines, acted as pallbearers for both corpses: Lieut. George Barr, George McKeag, John Seaman, Wray Zelt, W. D. E. McCaskey, Robert Wilson, Charles Manon and Hiram Conger. Col. James E. Barnett of Pittsburgh and Adjt. Clarence Rehn, Capt. Blaine Aiken and Capt. James P. Braden of Washington, all officers of the Tenth regiment, attended the funeral.

Hundreds of country people thronged the town for the purpose of attending the funeral. All over the town horses and [illegible] of every description were hitched. The owners were greatly disappointed [illegible] informed they would not be permitted to view the corpses. They [illegible]ed the main street of the town as the funeral passed by and the men stood with uncovered heads until all had passed. The family is prostrated over the terrible affair. Last night physicians were in attendance upon the aged father, his condition being very serious. He is affected with heart trouble and it was feared for a time that he would not survive the strain.

The mystery surrounding the woman whom young killed is clearing somewhat. Late last night Mrs. William Elby of Allegheny, a sister of the dead man, identified the woman as her brother's wife, Young and his wife had been visiting at her home in Allegheny about two weeks ago. Mrs. Young's maiden name was Gross and her home was in Yankton, North Dakota. According to Mrs. Elby's statement her brother and Mrs. Young left the Elby residence in Allegheny on Tuesday, June 30, stating that they were going to the home of Mrs. Young in the west, with the purpose of helping her parents to move to some other point in North Dakota. Nothing was seen or heard of them until the Elbys were apprised of the tragic death of the pair at the Siegel hotel.

It is believed here that there was not another woman in the case and that Young became a murderer and suicide while insane. Members of the Tenth regiment here say that after being injured in action in the Philippines Young showed signs of mental aberration and the majority of them are convinced that he was insane. The Washington county coroner will conclude his inquest into the double tragedy on Saturday.

FORTUNE'S REALM

MORE PITTSBURGH CAPITAL INVESTED IN ARIZONA COPPER MINES.

The Warren Mining District, Cochise County, Still the Center of Attraction.

The magic names "Bisbee" and "Warren District" of Cochise county seem to hold the investing public as by a spell. One day of this week it is reported, Pittsburghers invested $50,000 in a new copper mining company's stock in Cochise county, and as reported in these columns about two weeks ago, Messrs. Darley, Gardener, Temple and others of this city invested $150,000 in copper properties in the same county. While there is a depression generally all over the county in mining stocks, it does not slacken in the least, investments in that wonderful district, as those posted in the minerals of Warren District know that whatever may be the future prices of copper, the prevalence of gold and silver in large quantities in all copper ores in that locality gives the miners of Cochise county an absolute guarantee of good dividends.

It is an utter impossibility for copper to decline sufficiently to make the business of mining in the Warren District unsatisfactory, as many of the mines in Arizona, and this district in particular, carry values in gold and silver greater than in copper.

The Standard Oil Company has recently obtained possession of all the copper lands in this district they could corner.

It is not long since people looked askance at mining propositions; the fault lay not with all mining, but in the minds of men. A mist of prejudice and a cloud of ignorance befogged the commercial brain. Real mining was confounded with stock jobbing. But there were those who distinguished the genuine from the counterfeit. Men of such keen discernment as the Rothschilds, the Rockefellers, Morgans, Clarks, DeLaMars, Heinzes, who studied the enormous possibilities of legitimate mining when sound business methods are applied thereto. These are men of keen judgment, skilled in unveiling the future, as they foresaw the future of railroads, of iron, steel, oil, they now foresee the future of mining, particularly copper mining, and as they forestalled the world in the other epoch-making industries they are now preparing for the age of copper. Where their experts go and where they invest the public will eventually follow. Those who act quickly will participate in the enormous profits sure to be realized, as evidenced by some of the great mines of Cochise county, Arizona, while the dilatory, the prejudiced and uninformed public holds aloof and continues its investments in channels already over-developed.

A mining company whose stock possesses all the elements of safety and sure profits, and whose properties are located in the very heart of the Warren mining district of Cochise county, Arizona, has been placed before the investing public, and after the most rigid examination of its property, its officers and directors many Pittsburghers have availed themselves of its stocks, and the sales are increasing daily. This, the Brisbee-Arizona Gold and Copper Mining Company, is now selling its stocks as 50 cents per share, and it is expected that in a few days the allotment at this price will be subscribed, when the price will be advanced 50 or 100 per cent.

The company's property is directly on the largest copper zone in the world. Its ores carry exceptional values in gold and silver with the copper. The mineral is found from the grass roots down, increasing in value with depth. At 40 feet it assays upwards of $40 per ton. There is about 350 feet of shafts and tunnels on the property, and work is being pushed day and night in a permanent double compartment shaft. Ores changing to carbonates and copper glance at 60 feet in depth shows permanency and the unmistakable nearness of large deposits.

No investment could be safer. None offers such great returns on small investments.

Stocks in neighboring properties have advanced 1,800 per cent in 12 months. This promises to do as well. Don't delay. Buy this stock today at 50 cents. It may be $1 in a week. Don't neglect your best interests but call on F. W. Howard, 907-8 Keystone building, Pittsburgh, Pa., for full particulars and certificates.

PITTSBURGH FIRM BIDS LOWEST ON COURT HOUSE

Contract for Greensburg Structure May Go to Millar & Sons.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GREENSBURG, PA., July 9.—For the fourth time, and it is believed the last, the county commissioners of Westmoreland county this afternoon opened bids for the completion of the new court house. Wood & Co., Greensburg.

The lowest bids for a structure of granite were received from William Miller & Sons of Pittsburgh, and it is generally believed here tonight that the firm will be given the contract. PITTSBURGHER OBJECTS TO BEQUEST FOR COLLEGE

R. S. Robb Takes Exception to the Will of His Uncle, John H. Wallace.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, PA., July 9.—James D. Moffatt, president of Washington and Jefferson college, and Judge J. A. McIlvaine, a trustee of that institution, have returned from New York, where they went to look after the estate of the late John H. Wallace, under the terms of whose will the college is made the residuary legatee and is expected to receive about $150,000. They found that R. S. Robb of Pittsburgh, a nephew, has filed objections to the probate of the will.

It is understood that Mr. Robb does not question the capacity of Mr. Wallace to make a will, but may contest under a New York statute which forbids a man to give to charitable objects more than one-half of his estate when he has a wife or children. The college will not claim under the will, but under the deed of trust made long before the death of Mr. Wallace.

VICTIM OF ROBBERS DIES OF HIS WOUNDS

IRWIN, PA., July 9.—(Special.)—William Donovan, one of the two men attacked and robbed near Stewarts station last Friday evening, died from the effects of his wounds. He leaves a widow and several children. The three men who robbed Thomas Briney and afterward shot and stabbed him and also stabbed Donovan, got $335 from the former. They also robbed an Italian railroad laborer of $200. According to the railroad detectives the men came to Irwin that evening and went to a saloon to divide the money. Afterward they took a train west, got off at Wilmerding and made their way across the country.

His wife and children were also saved. He went to Granite City from Niles, O., several months ago. He lost his home in the flood, but he and family were rescued in skiffs after much hardship.

NEW CASTLE, PA.—Thomas Fye, 21 years old, bank clerk at Wampum, is perhaps fatally wounded by an accidental shot there last night. He was struck in the abdomen by a bullet from a revolver in the hands of 15-year-old William Wilson, who, he explained, the revolver, which he was examining was not loaded.

BEAMSVILLE, W. VA.—The charred remains of Samuel Ready and his wife were found in the ashes of their home at Charleston today by the authorities that the occupants of the home were murdered and the building burned to cover up the crime. Ready was a miner. Arrests will probably follow.

NEW CASTLE, PA.—Conrad Daly and wife were arrested on charges of criminal neglect of 5-year-old Edna Davis, Daly's stepdaughter. The child had scarlet fever and her parents, it is alleged, refused to purchase medicine for her after it had been prescribed by a physician. The child is in a critical condition.

NEW CASTLE, PA.—Over $1,000 an acre has just been paid by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad for land needed for completing the construction of its yards at New Castle Junction, which will have a capacity of 4,000 cars. A seven-acre tract of land in Taylor township has been purchased from a company from A. D. Newell of Mahoningtown, for $8,000.

ALLIANCE, O.—The contract was let for the construction of the new Carnegie library building. Not long ago bids were received, but all were too high. The school board wrote Mr. Carnegie and he consented to furnish $5,000 more making the total $25,000. The contract was let to N. Joliet for $19,827. The building will be of brick, with Redford limestone.

PLAYED THE WRONG TUNE.

"Hail Conquering Hero" Greets Condemned Man in Columbus Jail.

COLUMBUS, O., July 9.—(Special.)—Ben Wade, three times convicted of the murder of Miss Kate Sullivan of Toledo, and thrice sentenced to the death chair, returned today from attendance at his latest trial and entered the penitentiary to the tune of "Hail, the Conquering Hero Comes."

A brass band happened to be entertaining the prisoners and when Wade entered under guard played lively airs as he marched to the death cell and long after. Wade asserts that he is innocent and is bitter in his language against the courts.

FIGHT OVER TOWN LOTS.

Monessen Council's Attempted Grant to Y. M. C. A. Develops Opposition.

MONESSEN, PA., July 9.—(Special.)—An effort to railroad a resolution through council here granting the Young Men's Christian association a quit-claim deed to a lot which has always been considered public property, has started a fight that may go to the highest court in the state.

When that part of the borough owned by the East Side Land Company was laid out the land in question appeared on the plans as vacant, presumably worth nothing. When the borough was incorporated the plan filed at Greensburg showed these same plots to be public parks, and many of the property holders who paid fancy prices for property abutting on this supposed public ground did so with the understanding that those plots were never to be cut up into lots. The citizens are not hostile to granting the Young Men's Christian association a deed to the property, but contend that it would establish a bad precedent.

TAKING our preparations as the basis of calculation, today's Hour Sale will be the greatest of the year. Market conditions never played more fortunately into our hands; manufacturers and importers whose working capital has been tied up by overproduction and surplus stocks have turned instinctively to us for relief. Then, too, labor troubles, the fretful condition of the money market, and cancellation of orders due to unseasonable weather—all these have given us chances to buy goods under more favorable conditions and at lower figures than ever before. The spirit of economy will permeate the entire store from 8 a. m. till 5 p. m. and we will prove to all those who enter our doors that today's hour sale will be the most advantageous, from a money-saving standpoint, of the present year. Remember the store closes 5 p. m. every day, except Saturdays, when we remain open until 10 p. m.

PIRATES MADE GIFT OF GAME

Ritter and Doyle Handed the Champions Enough Runs to Chalk Up a Victory.

WAS FINE PITCHERS' BATTLE

The Pittsburgh club was made the recipient of a very handsome present, over at Exposition park yesterday afternoon. The affair took the shape of a donation party and there were present 2,440 people who paid generous tribute in the way of applause to the donors. The gift distributors were Catcher Ritter and Capt. Doyle of the Brooklyn team, and their donation was a nice, neat baseball victory which was labeled 3 to 1.

Of course the Brooklynites did not go over to the park carrying with them any idea of doing the elegant toward the pennant speeding Pirates, but during the progress of the afternoon's entertainment the streak of generosity attacked them and the champions, being in a receptive mood, took full advantage of the visitors' generosity. Had it not been for this gift business the Pirates would have been compelled to accept a dose of the medicine they have been distributing so generously and which partakes of a shutout mixture.

The game had gone along as a pitchers' battle until the Pirates' half of the sixth inning was reached, and there was where Ritter and Doyle were attacked with the giving away business. Up to that time the visitors had been traveling over a hard baseball road, with one, Virgil Garvin, doing all he could to block their progress. The efforts of Mr. Garvin had been unusually successful, and with Beaumont Wagner and his cohorts had plunked off four hits, there was nothing to show for them in the run line.

"Stilts" Weaver, who is subbing for "Kitty" Bransfield, opened the sixth inning by poking a bum fly into the air, which Mr. Ritter quickly settled under and made a mess of by dropping the ball. Leever sacrificed and Weaver reached second. Beaumont put a Texas leaguer in center and "Stilts" reached third. Wagner filed out and it was a case of the double steal, Bean taking second. Sebring drove one at Doyle and his throw to the plate was too high, allowing Weaver to score and Beaumont to reach third.

Having started a good thing going the duo of Brooklyn players were loth to give up. Sebring and Beaumont essayed the double steal and the first-named got away with his end of the affair and Bean stuck to third. Why Ritter ever took it into his head to try and catch the Pirate on first, no one but Ritter will ever know, as he hadn't a chance in a thousand, but he made the throw and it was a wild one, allowing Beaumont to scamper home and Sebring to reach third. Both runs brought the third run home when Leach drove one down at Strang which was too warm for the latter to handle, and that's the history of the Pirates' runs.

Sam Lesvar pitched a remarkably pretty game for the Pirates, but he came pretty close to upsetting his clever pitching by a bad display of fielding, and the one of his mistakes that allowed the visitors to score was made regarding the first one, the only one run. In the fourth inning, after two hands were out, the schoolmaster played tag with a dinky grounder sent at him by Dahlen, allowing the Brooklynite to reach first, from which point he scored on Gessler's fine drive into deep right field. The Pirates accorded Samuel the finest kind of support, and play of that kind was needed to keep the visitors from getting runs. The score:

NOTES OF THE GAME.

After the umpire had called Dobbs out at first, the spectators in the west wing of the grand stand set up a howl and the decision was hissed. From the scorers' box it looked as though the runner was safe, but the umpire was close to the scene of action and was in a better position than the spectators to judge the play.

Umpire Johnstone has it in for the boys who sneak into the playing field and loaf about the players' bench. It would be all right if these boys would only behave themselves, but they won't, and the umpire is right in chasing them off the field. He stopped the game in the first inning long enough to allow him to make the boys scoot.

The hit made by "Brownie" Gessler in the fourth inning was a beauty all right, and would have been good for three bases had Gessler not neglected the formality of touching first. He lost time in returning to the bag after his attention had been called to the oversight by the Brooklyn coacher. The ball went to the deepest part of right field.

In the first inning Hans Wagner by fast sprinting beat out an infield hit, and while cavorting about first he grew careless and Garvin, who was watching for him, shot the ball over to Doyle and Hans was nabbed before he could get back. Of course the Carnegie boy made a kick on being called out, but the umpire was right and the crowd gave Hans the laugh.

Tim Flood, the Brooklyn team's regular second baseman, was not in yesterday's game, and the reason therefor was that he drew a three days' suspension from Harry Pulliam for having a run in with Umpire Moran over at Cincinnati on Sunday last. The absence of Flood made room on the team for Otto Jordon, the South Side boy, who put up a pretty game, both in the field and at bat.

Tommy Leach, the clever third baseman of the Pirates, is the owner of a handsome new automobile which he keeps at the ball park, having built a shed near the players' club house. It is reported that President Dreyfuss has taken out a new life insurance on the little fellow, whose first effort in the chauffeur line have not been a howling success. "Kitty" Bransfield reports that on the occasion of Tommy's first try he ran into a lamp post and had a close call both for the machine and himself.

The fifth inning contained some star plays on the part of Leach and Sebring that called forth loud cheers from the spectators. Jordon, who was first up, drove the ball on a line to right center, and it looked like a safe line hit, but Sebring by a great sprint got under the ball and gathered it in. The next batter, Garvin, drove a liner towards left and Leach put out his left hand and secured the ball, and a minute later Tommy chased over to the grandstand and nailed Sheckard a foul fly. The three plays were most sensational and as the players walked in from the field they were forced to doff their caps in response to the cheers of the spectators.

SHAMROCK'S NEW MAST.

It Takes Old One's Place and Will Increase Speed.

NEW YORK, July 9.—The big steel mast of the Shamrock III. was lifted out of her as she lay in Erie basin today and the mate to it, but three feet and a half taller, was stepped in its place. The new spar was one she had used in her early trials at Weymouth, Eng., and will give her an opportunity for greater sail spread, which Designer Fife evidently desires after watching the new boat's trials in the calm weather that has prevailed off Sandy Hook most of the time for the last 10 days.

Tomorrow both Shamrocks will be taken into dry dock and cleaned and the underbody of the challenger repainted. The sailing trials will be resumed on Monday and will involve daily trials between the Shamrock I. and the Shamrock III. until Sir Thomas and Mr. Fife are satisfied that the challenger cannot be improved.

OLDFIELD ESTABLISHES WORLD'S AUTO RECORD

MARION, IND., July 9.—Barney Oldfield today established a new world's record by driving an automobile a mile on a half-mile track in 1:10 2-5. The previous record for a mile on a half-mile track was 1:26, made by Winton. Oldfield went five miles in 5:46½. Tom Cooper was unable to race on account of sickness.

ROBERT LINCOLN LOWE QUITS BASEBALL GAME FOR GOOD.

NEW CASTLE, PA., July 9.—(Special.)—Capt. Robert Lincoln Lowe of the Chicago baseball team, whose baseball career has now probably come to an end through an injury to his knee, is one of several major league stars produced by this city. He was reared and received his baseball training here and the people of this place have always followed his brilliant career with unusual interest.

"LINC" LOWE.

"Linc," as he is familiarly known, first played with the "Archie Reed" team of this city. He covered left field in such a remarkable manner as to attract the attention of the veteran Anson, who over 15 years ago signed him for the Chicago team. Lowe was given little opportunity at first to show what he could do, and was finally sold to the Milwaukee team of the Western league. There he played brilliantly and Manager Selee of the Boston National league team signed him in 1898, and he was for 12 years one of the principal dependences of the Bostons. He at first played left field, but was once placed on second base temporarily.

In 1902 he left Boston and went to Chicago, of which he has since been the captain. The injury to his knee has now become so serious that he does not expect to appear on the diamond again. He recently consulted Bonesetter Rees of Youngstown, but the latter could do nothing for him. Lowe is well fixed financially and not only owns several valuable properties here, but is financially interested with his brother-in-law, Fred Hughes, in the Seventh Avenue hotel of Beaver Falls, which they own jointly.

ED DELEHANTY'S BODY FOUND AND IDENTFIED

Famous Ball Player Fell Through Bridge Into the Niagara. May Cause Trouble.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

BUFFALO, July 9.—The body found in the river below the falls today was identified at Drummondville this afternoon as that of Ed Delehanty, the famous outfielder of the Washington American league team.

The body was mangled. One leg was torn off, presumably by the propellers of the Maid of the Mist, near whose landing the body was found. M. A. Green, a stockholder in the Washington team, identified the body by the teeth, two crippled fingers and the clothing. The body will be shipped to Washington tonight.

Mr. Green this morning identified the luggage left by Delehanty on the night of the bridge last Thursday night, when he was put off. In it was a pass to the Washington grounds made out to Mrs. Delehanty. Delehanty's effects have been sent to his wife by the Pullman people.

Frank Delehanty of the Syracuse team and E. J. McGuire, a brother-in-law from Cleveland, arrived here from Detroit this morning. They do not believe that Delehanty committed suicide or that he had been on a spree in Detroit. In the sleeper on the Michigan Central train, according to a constable, as the Canadian police say he should have done. He first put him off the train.

After the body had disappeared across the bridge Delehanty started to walk across, which is against the rules. The night watchman attempted to stop him, but Delehanty pushed the night watchman aside and crazy the bridge had been opened for a boat and the player plunged into the dark waters of the Niagara.

Delehanty's relatives hint at foul play, but there is nothing in the case, apparently, to bear out such a theory.

THE DIAMOND SCULLS REMAIN IN ENGLAND

Won Again by Kelly, Who Beat Beresford Easily—Challenge Cup Race a Fine One.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

HENLEY, ENGLAND, July 9.—Delightful weather prevailed during this, the final day of the Henley regatta. There was not sufficient wind to affect the choice of stations. A very large crowd of people was present to witness the finals of all the events which were reserved for today and which resulted as follows:

Grand challenge cup—Leander beat Third Trinity, Cambridge, last year's winners, by 6 feet, after an exciting race. Time, 7 minutes 9 seconds.

Ladies' challenge plates—Magdalen college, Oxford, beat Eton by a length. Time, 7 minutes 33 seconds.

Thames challenge cup—Trinity college, Dublin, beat Kingston Rowing club by a length. Time, 7 minutes 57 seconds.

The Silver goblet and Nickalls challenge cup—Victoria Rowing club of Berlin, beat Kingston Rowing club by 12 lengths. Time, 8 minutes 46 seconds.

Special interest was taken in the final of the grand challenge cup because of Third Trinity's misfortune in losing the services of H. D. Goldie, who was indisposed and who had as a substitute an untrained man. But for this Trinity would have undoubtedly retained the trophy. As it was the race was a great one, Leander from the start tried cutting down Lagtee, but Third Trinity held the lead until Fawley Court. Amid a roar of cheering the two boats passed the Grosvenor club enclosure rowing level; but a little later Leander struggled forward and after a great tussle won by six feet.

The race for the ladies' challenge plate was another stirring contest. Magdalen led by a length when a furlong from home. Eton made a magnificent spurt and placed the boats almost level. Eton was unable, however, to sustain the effort and was defeated by a length.

The visitors' challenge cup—University college, Oxford, beat Magdalen college, Oxford, by a length and a quarter. Time, 5 minutes 25 seconds.

Wyfold challenge cup—Kingston Rowing club beat the London Rowing club by a length. Time, 8 minutes 28 seconds.

The other events did not furnish exciting finishes and no great interest was taken in them with the exception of the final for the diamonds. Vowing men were anxious to see how Beresford, the victor over Juvenal, of the Vesper Boat club, Philadelphia, would acquit himself against the holder of the trophy. For a second Beresford led, but Kelly quickly cut him down and won as he liked.

CLAIMED A JOB.

Last Race at Salem Did Not Please the Experts.

SALEM, O., July 9.—(Special.)—The third day of the races at the Salem Driving park brought out a crowd of local and visiting people and was productive of only one special feature, that being an apparent job in the last race of the day, the 2:25 trot. In the fifth heat Cervantes had two firsts to her credit and apparently to most spectators won at the wire, though closely nosed by Fred, to whom the judges gave the heat. There were no open charges that this was simply a play into the hands of the Nellie Vincent people and the decision was disputed. The race was unfinished and promises to be interesting tomorrow. LIFEGUARD BUSY AT THE SEASHORE

Venturesome Swimmers at Atlantic City Give Them Plenty of Work.

EVENING PARADE ON WALK

Long Deferred Hopes of Pair of Lovers Are Realized Through Estate Bequeathed to the Man—Aunt Dies and Leaves Him $9,500.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
YOUNG'S Ocean Pier,
ATLANTIC CITY, July 9.

The sweltering heat of today has turned into one of the most beautiful evenings that have ever graced this resort. It seems as if all the world were bent upon getting out into the breezy air after the heat of the day. The boardwalk was thronged with a crowd that would do justice to an evening late in August. Such toilets as the women wore are seldom seen outside a ballroom, yet they did not look out of place by any means. The busy day of the life guards was this one. The heat drove everyone into the water in an effort to keep cool, and the glassy surface of the ocean tempted many to go farther out than they would have otherwise. As a consequence, the guards were kept pretty busy dragging these "good" swimmers from their plight and when 6 o'clock came they were about as tired as they could well be.

Preparing for the Horseshow.

Secretary Bliss of the Horse Show association, which opens on Monday next, is probably the busiest man in Atlantic City with his efforts to make the show a success. Many social lights from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington will be here, and, in fact, many of them have already put in an appearance to be in readiness for the big event. The boxes have all been taken long ago and the list includes some of the best known names in the sporting and social world.

A Pretty Seashore Romance.

These summer days the tender passion seems to have taken a firm hold on all the people in Atlantic City. Even the staid old married people are falling in love with one another all over again. A pretty little romance that has been delayed over long in the estimation of the high contracting parties culminated yesterday afternoon in the office of Mayor Stoy after a weary wait of over 15 years.

Years ago in the little town of Butler Charles Hogan became enamored of pretty little Mary McShane, and then came troublous times. The young man could never get together enough money to marry, but the girl was hopeful and encouraged him. He finally took a position aboard a cattle boat sailing from New York to Liverpool, and she heard nothing of him for some years. Not long ago she secured a position in Atlantic City and soon after her arrival met again her old sweetheart. They talked the matter over and agreed that they had waited over long, but that as both were now making money, she in her position and he as a rolling-chair pusher, it might be well to wait a little longer and get sufficient together for them to start housekeeping.

On Monday last Hogan received a letter from a lawyer in Philadelphia that informed him of the death of an aunt by whose will he was entitled to the sum of $9,000. The imagination of the pair for a time refused to grasp the news, and then they decided that all the weary waiting was over and done with for good. They were married and are now but waiting for the arrival of the draft to fill their cup of happiness.

Rival Bands on the Pier.

One of the funniest things on the pier near The Gazette bureau is the rivalry between various musical organizations here. They compete wildly for the honors. The Hungarian Boys' band at this time holds all the winning cards. The patrons of the pier are hearing music they never dreamed of and they are getting it in plentiful quantities.

ZOO ELEPHANT PULLS NAIL FROM HER FOOT

Displays Almost Human Intelligence in Completing Task Keepers Undertook.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, July 9.—Jewel, the big elephant in the Central park menagerie, materially assisted in a surgical operation at the elephant house. Besides being assistant surgeon, Jewel was the patient. The elephant has been limping for several days and the keepers decided she had a corn. Another examination developed the fact that Jewel had a wire nail in her foot. Keeper Snyder dug around the nail until he was able to get a hold on it with a pair of pincers, then pulled it out about an inch. There the nail stuck, as it was bent in the middle. Then Jewel got in her fine work. She jerked away from the keepers. Then, standing on three feet, reached around with her trunk, and before the men knew what she was doing entwined the finger of her trunk around the nail and with a sudden movement pulled it out and dropped it on the floor. It was three inches long.

Jewel was apparently much relieved, but the head keeper feared lockjaw, so he ordered the wound in the foot enlarged and cleaned out with spirits of turpentine and germicide. Jewel now moves about her stall with her foot encased in bandages and she looks as though she might be suffering from gout.

Former Pittsburgh Police Officers May Receive Appointments Next Week.

The county commissioners will appoint officers for the county detective bureau next week. A number of former city detectives who were dismissed when the present administration took office are to be named. Among them will probably be Edward Barry, Jesse Pavey, George Waggoner and Robert Denniston.

County Detective Robert G. Robinson is to have charge of the bureau under the direction of District Attorney John C. Haymaker. The latter is making special effort to have Jesse Pavey placed on the force. Pavey also has the indorsement of Maj. G. Leslie, chairman of the city Republican committee.

Denniston is now in the bureau of police as a plain clothes man in the downtown district.

Naval Committee at Norfolk.

NEWPORT NEWS, VA., July 9.—(Special.)—The house naval committee arrived in Hampton Roads late last night on the Dolphin. Congressman Ketcham, who was unable to leave Washington, arrived today by train and joined the other congressmen. The committee today visited the navy yard.

SOCIETY

THE Country clubs are favorite places during the warm summer days. Every evening small and informal dinners are given following a drive through the parks or a tour of the golf links.

Last evening Mrs. Robert Carson, Jr., gave a dinner at the Country club in the Beechwood boulevard in honor of Miss Louise Patterson of Philadelphia, who leaves Pittsburgh today for her home in the Quaker City. The dinner last evening was very informal, the guests including a few personal friends of the hostess and several of the friends Miss Patterson has made during her visit in this city. Mrs. Carson will leave in a couple of weeks for Tate Springs, Tenn., where she will spend a portion of the summer.

Mrs. Robert McKay also gave a very small and informal dinner at the Country club last evening. The Robert McKays still keep open house in Center avenue, Shadyside. Mr. and Mrs. James McKay have been established at their summer home in Beaumaris, Canada, for several weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Rowland B. Irving of Colonial place leave today for the Muskoka lake region, Canada, where they have a cottage on one of the numberless islands which afford such delightful summer retreats for city people.

Plea for Flowers.

Today will be the first flower day this season in the summer playgrounds and vacation schools. The dry weather of the past week has done much to lessen the supply which the members of the flower committee of the joint committee of women's clubs hoped to have ready for flower day, and they make an urgent plea to anyone who will come to their aid. Three thousand five hundred children are in the playgrounds and vacation schools in Pittsburgh and Allegheny, and the committee is anxious to have a flower for everyone. It does not ask for rare and expensive flowers, but flowers of any kind, those which must be picked before they fade, and the daisies which are so plentiful in the fields and waste places on the outskirts of the city. Many of them will be given to children who at no other time see flowers and know nothing of them. Miss Eliza D. Armstrong is chairman of the flower committee, which is a large one, and with her assistants will be at the Central Young Woman's Christian association building in Fifth street, opposite Horne's store, this morning to receive any flowers which may be brought to her. It is desired that they be sent in not later than 9 o'clock as they must be arranged in small bouquets and distributed even to the most distant playgrounds by 11 o'clock so that the children may receive them before being dismissed just before noon. Hereafter Tuesday and Friday of each week will be observed as flower days, some of the schools receiving flowers on one day and the remainder on the other.

Allegheny, on Monday morning, will have five playgrounds in full operation. The delay in receiving an appropriation prevented earlier arrangements being made. On Monday morning playgrounds will be opened at the Irwin avenue and the Sherman avenue schools in the Second ward and at the Eighth ward school. The Fifth ward playground which was opened on Wednesday with an enrollment of 250 increased to 300 yesterday. The attendance at the playground in the Twelfth Ward school on Wednesday was 363. Mrs. Andrew Easton is chairman of the committee having charge of this playground, which was opened on Monday with the Pittsburgh playgrounds and vacation schools. Those that were opened in Allegheny this week will have a term of six weeks, but the three which will be opened next Monday will continue only five weeks.

Going to Europe.

They will be abroad for three months, spending their time principally on the continent and chiefly in Switzerland and France.

Hopper of Anderson street, Herron Hill, and her two bridesmaids were Miss Catherine Hopper and Miss Alice Dunnegan of Connellsville. Youkey is employed at the Pressed Steel car works. Miss Mosel lives at Leetsdale. The couple met at a wedding two weeks ago and decided to get married. When the ceremony was halted Miss Mosel handed Youkey $5, which he had given her to prepare for the wedding, and then left the alderman's office with a friend. She refused to explain her reason for refusing to marry Youkey.

VARIETY IN DRINK.

In hot weather the capriciousness of the appetite seems to extend to every line of food and demands variety as well as quantity in beverages to quench the thirst and bring a sense of refreshing coolness to the body.

It is well to vary the drinks served with the meals as much as possible, serving fruit juices whenever they seem a fitting accompaniment of certain articles of food in the bill of fare. Lemonade will go well with a fish dinner, cherry cordial with chicken, blackberry or raspberry with mutton and veal and grape with beef. Several fruit juices blend nicely and may be made up as a refreshing beverage more grateful than the everlasting iced tea, coffee and cocoa, which will taste all the better if served less frequently.

A Refreshing Drink.

Put two cups of water and one of sugar in a saucepan with a little of the thin yellow rind of a lemon. Boil five minutes, then cool; add the juice of the lemon and a pint of bottled grape juice. Pour into glasses with a cube of ice, and to each glass add a thin slice of orange and a cherry or strawberry.

Royal Spruce Beer.

Three-quarters of a pound of sugar, one gallon of water, quarter of an ounce of ginger, grated rind of two lemons and a teacupful of essence of spruce. Dissolve half a cake of compressed yeast in half a cup of lukewarm water and add to the mixture; let stand until it ferments, then strain and bottle, corking tightly.

Mulberry Shrub.

Extract the juice from ripe mulberries and let it stand, ten days until it ceases to ferment, then carefully remove the scum and pour off into a fresh vessel and let stand for 24 hours. Again pour off. To 15 ounces of the juice allow a pound of best white sugar, heat to boiling, then strain through a jelly bag, bottle and seal. Serve in a glass half full of cracked ice.

Gingerade.

Dissolve one and one-half pounds of loaf sugar in one gallon of water, add the well beaten whites of two eggs, an ounce of ground Jamaica ginger moistened to a smooth paste with a little water. Place over the fire in a porcelain-lined kettle and bring gradually to boiling point, skim and set to one side to settle. When lukewarm add the juice of a small lemon and quarter of a yeast cake dissolved in a little lukewarm water, mix thoroughly and then strain; pour into bottles, cork tightly—wiring the corks down—and set in a cool place for two days, when it will be ready for use.

Lemon Syrup.

This is nice to have on hand in hot weather. Squeeze the juice from twelve lemons, grate the rind of six and add to it and let stand over night; then take six pounds of loaf sugar and make a thick syrup; when this is cool strain in the juice, pressing the oil from the grated rind, put into bottles and cork tightly. Add a tablespoonful to a glass of ice water.

Blackberry Cordial.

This is more of a remedy than a drink, but belongs to the list of summer beverages. Put the berries in a large stone jar and set this inside a larger vessel of water and let them cook until soft; then strain through a cheesecloth bag. To every quart of the juice allow two tablespoonfuls each of ground cloves, mace and allspice, and four of ground cinnamon. Tie the spices in muslin bags so they can be removed when cordial is done. Add a pound of granulated sugar and boil all together for 15 minutes, skimming well; then add a pint of best brandy. Set aside to cool. When cold, strain out the spices, bottle and seal.

Lemon Shrub.

Take a pint of lemon juice, strained, and add a pound of granulated sugar. Strip off the thin yellow rind of the lemon and put to soak in French brandy, allowing three tablespoonfuls to every pint of juice. Let it stand for 24 hours stirring the syrup frequently and the lemon chips occasionally. Then pour off the syrup into the brandy and lemon chips; pour into bottles, cork and seal and keep in a cool place.

Pineapple Vinegar.

Cover shredded pineapple with best cider vinegar and let stand four days, then squeeze through cheese-cloth as long as it runs clear. Measure the juice and to every three quarts add five pounds of sugar. Boil all together for ten minutes, skimming as long as any refuse rises to the surface. Then take from the fire, cool and bottle, cork tightly and keep in a cool place.

Raspberry Vinegar.

Put fine ripe red raspberries into a bowl and pour over them pure cider vinegar, allowing a quart to the same measure of fruit. Let stand 24 hours, then strain this quantity over another quart of berries and let stand for another day. Do this for four days, then strain, make very sweet with best white sugar, bottle and seal.

INQUIRIES ANSWERED.

Mrs. B. L. C. writes: I know there is a way to cook bacon so it will be crisp and dainty, but I do not seem to discover it. Will you help me with a suggestion or two?

Cooking Breakfast Bacon.

The secret of cooking breakfast bacon so that it will be a light brown, dainty and crisp, is as follows: First the bacon must be more fat than lean to cook in this manner. Have the slices cut thin as possible, pare off rind and edges. Have the pan quite hot when the bacon is put in. Shake the pan frequently and quickly while the bacon is cooking, turning the bacon once or twice. In three or four minutes it will be ready to serve.

Blackberry Bread.

Mrs. C. H. C. writes: Will you give me a recipe for making a desert called blackberry bread?

Stew a quart of blackberries with half a cup of sugar. Have ready some thinly sliced baker's bread, buttered and crusts trimmed off. Pack in alternate layers with a plate on top, and serve ice cold.

Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit is a perfect food and complete in itself for the proper nourishment of the whole body.

Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit is made in the only hygienic and scientific Food Laboratory in the world.

Sun-flooded through 30,000 lights of glass, finished in white enamel, marble and mosaic, and ventilated with filtered and tempered air, this Laboratory is the veritable home of purity—a place where contamination cannot occur.

Only the most luxuriant kernels of the finest wheat are used in the making of Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit. The wheat is first thoroughly cleaned and all the light kernels are removed, then it is washed in sterilized water and thoroughly cooked, after which it is spun into thousands of little shreds, each shred containing thousands of little pores which make it light and porous without the use of yeast, baking powders or chemicals of any kind, and naturally short without the use of fats. The shreds are then cut into biscuit and twice cooked, making them deliciously crisp, which compels thorough mastication and insures perfect digestion.

The above facts make Shredded Whole Wheat Biscuit the most perfect food known to man.

VICTOR HERBERT HAS NEW OPERA

Writing Most Ambitious Work for Fritzi Scheff the Grand Opera Soprano.

PRODUCTION IN THE FALL

Pittsburgh Composer's "Babes in Toyland" Scoring Big Success—Plans for Arranging Mendelssohn's Music—Orchestra's Big Spring Tour Completed.

Victor Herbert, the Pittsburgh composer, is at his home, No. 519 Aiken avenue, East End, busily engaged in writing a new comic opera for Fritzi Scheff, the well-known grand opera soprano, who has been here with the Metropolitan Opera Company this season and last. This opera is to be Herbert's most ambitious work, and Miss Scheff is to be surrounded by a number of prominent singers, among whom will be Eugene Cowles, the great basso.

Mr. Herbert closed his spring tour with the Pittsburgh orchestra at Willow Grove, Philadelphia, last Saturday night, and on Tuesday night of this week he conducted a performance of his new opera "Babes in Toyland," at Hamlin's grand opera house, Chicago. The success of this opera is miraculous. It has been crowding the theater ever since its first production nearly a month ago. The composer is greatly pleased over the reception he received at Chicago on Tuesday night.

Arriving in Chicago unexpectedly he was requested to conduct the performance at the last minute. No announcement was made, but no sooner had Mr. Herbert lifted the leader's baton when he was recognized by the audience and tumultuous applause followed. The composer then made a short speech. The success of "Babes in Toyland" assures it a run of the entire summer in Chicago, and it will be taken to New York about the middle of September.

Harry Smith Writing Libretto.

The libretto of Herbert's new opera is being written by Harry B. Smith, who has written the book for many of Herbert's successes. Fritzi Scheff will be the central figure, and much music of great brilliancy will be written for her. Her well-known ability as a singer and actress and Mr. Herbert's successes with his music assure this piece a great success.

It will be produced at the Knickerbocker theater, New York, some time this fall by Klaw & Erlanger. The staging is to be elaborate, and the principals will be some of America's foremost singers. In Eugene Cowles, Klaw & Erlanger have secured the great light opera basso in this country for Miss Scheff's support. The other principals will be equally renowned.

Miss Scheff is no new figure to Pittsburgh music lovers. Last year she sang at the Duquesne garden with Maurice Grau's stars in Puccini's "La Boheme," and this year she sang in Leoncavallo's "I Pallacchi." In both of these operas she made a lasting impression and a profound success. She also sang at one of the Pittsburgh orchestra concerts this year, and made a tremendous success.

When Klaw & Erlanger secured Miss Scheff for a star they scoured the entire old world for a composer who could write music of sufficient character to fit the new star. They were unable to find one who could write brilliant numbers for her, and at the same time intersperse music of a popular kind throughout the opera. Then they secured Victor Herbert to furnish the music.

Herbert is Kept Busy.

Besides this new opera Mr. Herbert is arranging, selecting and orchestrating Mendelssohn's music for a magnificent revival of Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream," planned by Klaw & Erlanger with Nat C. Goodwin as "Bottom." Mendelssohn wrote over a score of the music for the play, but not sufficient for the big production planned. This performance will be in strict accord with all the traditions of the piece, and much more music is required.

Mr. Herbert was asked to write this new music, but this he refused to do, preferring to select from Mendelssohn's voluminous works music of a character to fit scenes and solos in the new production. This play will be produced with a big chorus and many good singers will be engaged for the solo parts. It will receive its initial performance about September 1.

The composer is greatly elated over the success of the Pittsburgh orchestra's spring tour just completed. In all the cities visited the players were enthusiastically received. In Philadelphia last week Mr. Herbert gave a "Babes in Toyland" matinee, at which many selections from the new opera were played. This proved very successful.

In speaking of the plans of the Pittsburgh orchestra for the coming season, Mr. Herbert stated yesterday that so far but one great feature has been arranged. That is the visit of Richard Strauss to conduct a concert. This celebrated composer is to visit America this fall and will conduct concerts in all cities having permanent orchestras, and Pittsburgh will be visited early in the season.

ELEVATOR OVERLOADED.

Coroner's Jury Gives That As the Cause of the Fatal Accident in the Donnelly Building.

"Overloading and insufficient capacity of the elevator," was the finding of the coroner's jury in the inquest yesterday into the death of the four persons killed in the elevator accident in the Donnelly building at No. 1026 Fifth avenue, on May 22.

W. E. Graham of No. 2411 Wylie avenue, an elevator constructor, said the accident was caused by the fuse burning out while the elevator was up in the shaft. Being overloaded, the weight in the cage overbalanced the elevator weights, and the cage started downward. Graham said that when the fuse burned out the brakes would not work properly.

Prof. L. N. Gillis, who was arrested in connection with the accident, was released by the jury. Witness Graham said Prof. Gillis was not responsible for the condition of the elevator, and was perfectly competent to run it. Graham said the weights were broken from their ropes by striking beams at the roof, and snapping off, fell down the shaft.

FOURTH EXAMINATION.

Physicians Puzzled by the Mental Condition of Multi-Murderer Cawley.

The fourth examination into the mental condition of Charles Cawley, who is in jail charged with having killed four members of his family last October, in Homestead, was made yesterday by Physicians T. [illegible] McKennan, J. I. Walker and [illegible] Chesrown. They were in conference for almost three hours in the private office of Warden Edward Lewis.

To the attendants of the jail young Cawley seems to be in full possession of his mental faculties, but District Attorney John C. Haymaker and Dr. Chesrown, the jail physician, are of a different opinion. Cawley's case was to have come before the grand jury last Monday, but it adjourned without taking action. Cawley is said to be in perfect health and still interested in his patents.

PITTSBURGH BOOTBLACKS ADOPT CODE OF ETHICS

"No bootblack is worthy of the profession unless he charges the union price of 10 cents for a shine and 5 cents for a polish," is the decision reached by the local union of the "shiners" at a meeting just held. Accordingly yesterday saw the inauguration of 10-cent prices in places where a nickel had heretofore secured the best to be had.

The distinction between a shine and a polish is that the shine is made by the use of paste, whereas, in a polish only the liquid blacking is used.

The shoe-shine business here had become very generally a 10-cent business until the advent of the Greek shoe-shiners a few years ago. A number of these places, equipped well for the work, were established and a regular charge of 5 cents made. The places have worked havoc with the less convenient street shining establishments.

QUAINT OLD LAW BASIS OF SUITS

Plaintiff Quotes an Act Passed in 1849 for the Protection of Lumbermen.

DR. KOUNTZ REFUSED BAIL

Witness in Illegal Liquor Selling Cases Arrested on a Charge of Perjury. Judge Marshall Brown Holds a Session of the Juvenile Court.

A quaint, old salvage law was revived in two suits brought yesterday by A. W. Holthouse against Alfred Masenheimer and John Dippel. The act was passed in 1849 for the protection of lumbermen.

Holthouse claims that he had some lumber piled on the wharf in Allegheny; it was washed away by the flood on March 11, 1903, and was caught by the defendants, who stored it on the wharf. Holthouse says that he tendered the defendants the charges allowed by law for the recovery of the lumber, but they refused to accept it, and he asks that the court allow him three times the value of the lumber.

The law quoted refers to the Ohio, Monongahela and Allegheny rivers, and provides that persons taking up lumber from these rivers in the state shall within five days make a list and description of it and post them in at least three conspicuous places in the town, township, ward or borough in which it is picked up, and if the owner does not call for it within three months the lumber becomes the property of the finder.

The act also provides that the owner shall pay to the finder six cents for every log, one cent for every shingle bolt, six cents for a bunch of shingles, 15 cents for each 1,000 feet of lumber and $4 for every flatboat. If the finder refuses to give up the lumber the owner has a right to recover "treble" the value of the lumber lost.

Application for the release of Dr. Walter P. Kountz on bail was refused yesterday by Judge James R. Macfarlane. The defendant's counsel asked the court to permit the release and Judge Macfarlane announced that the present was not a proper time for such a proceeding. He, however, mentioned that in the event of a new trial being refused and the case being carried to the supreme court, it would then be proper to consider the question of bail.

Bridget McDermott was found guilty of two charges of illegal liquor selling and in each case recommended to the mercy of the court. During the trial Assistant District Attorney John S. Robb, Jr., directed County Detective R. G. Robinson to make an information against P. F. O'Malley, a witness for the defense, charging him with perjury. The county detective went before Alderman S. J. Toole and made the information a couple of hours later. O'Malley was arrested and gave bail for a hearing. It is alleged his testimony to the effect that the defendant was not present when the officers purchased liquor was false.

Judge Marshall Brown held a session of juvenile court yesterday. With one exception the boy defendants were returned to their homes under the direction of the probation officers. Edward Wilson was sent to the institution at Oakdale. The boys were charged with stealing a quantity of pop from a railroad car.

OFFER MORE BOUNTIES.

Canadian Government Devising New Plan to Encourage Manufacture of Steel.

OTTAWA, ONT., July 9.—(Special.)—The measure which the government proposes for the relief of the languishing steel industry of Canada is in the nature of additional bounties when made from not less than 50 per cent of native pig iron on wire rods when sold to Canadian manufacturers. The bounty is to be $5 per ton on beams and other structural steel also on large steel plants for consumption in Canada, $3 per ton. The bounty on pig iron and steel billets totaling $5 70 per ton, is continued.

The Dominion Steel Company of Sydney expects to have a plant in operation shortly to earn the bonuses on rods, structural steel and plates, none of which are made as yet in Canada.

MAY MOVE TO M'KEESPORT.

American Shovel and Stamping Company Likely to Leave Lorain.

Mayor Falkenstein of McKeesport yesterday received a letter from the American Shovel and Stamping Company of Lorain, O., asking for information with regard to manufacturing facilities and sites in McKeesport. The letter stated that a site at McKeesport is preferred by the company when it relocates its plant, which it is desirous of doing. The plant, it is said, does a business of about $300,000 a year and employs about 500 hands.

The letter was turned over to members of the board of trade, who will endeavor to interest the Lorain concern in the advantages of McKeesport as a manufacturing center. A representative of the company is expected to visit McKeesport.

ARRANGING FOR A PICNIC.

Pythian Reunion Association of Western Pennsylvania Hears Reports.

The Pythian Reunion association of Western Pennsylvania, representing 50 lodges of the Knights of Pythias, held a meetings last night in Moorhead's hall, Second avenue and Grant street, at which reports of the various committees on the annual picnic were read. The picnic is to be held at Aliquippa park July 29 and is expected to be a great affair.

The meeting last night was presided over by S. W. Hale, the vice president of the association, and the reports of the chairmen of the committees were adopted as presented. D. J. McCloskey, president of the association, is general chairman of the entire affair. Last year's picnic was held at Kennywood park and about 8,000 persons were present. The day was a poor one and if the picnic day this year is clear about 15,000 are expected to be present.

ENDLESS BATTLE AGAINST THE DIRT

Chautauqua Lecturer Points Out Dangers Lurking in Dust.

CARPETS HARBOR DISEASES

With Good Clean City Government, Mrs. Norton Says, There Should Be No Difficulty About the Dust—Macclintock Lectures on Literature.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 9.—Mrs. Alice P. Norton's lecture on "The New Ethics of the Dust" was full of practical suggestions to housekeepers, with one little dab at the men for good government. After a description of dust as seen under the microscope and pointing out the dangers of stirring up dust, she said:

"It is the dust that flies that does the harm; that which remains is rather beneficial than otherwise. It is better to leave a top shelf dusty than to scatter the particles in the room."

She made a strong plea for less and lighter furniture in the homes, and to do away entirely with carpets and heavy draperies, which she designates as disease breeders. To follow this rule, she declared, would make our homes more beautiful and healthful, and yet Mrs. Norton says: "We must not worry over the dust, for if we spend all our time fighting it we will accomplish nothing in this world. A sereno hearty and healthy body will do more to keep down dust than any other agency. Then we can handle street car strips and goods on the counters with impunity. At the same time there is a responsibility resting upon all of us, and we should see to it that our streets are kept clean. When we have good, clean city government there will be no complaint about the dust."

Mrs. Josephine Phipps gave a travel talk this afternoon on Mexico which she thinks is a country of great opportunities. The talk was illustrated with curios which the speaker had collected in travels. Prof. MacClintock gave the third lecture on literature, his particular subject being the organization of a story. Mme. Bertha Kinzie Baker appears tonight for the first time this season. She will read "L'Aiglon."

EASTERN STOCKS ACTIVE AND WEAK

New York Central Sold at the Lowest Price for Five Years—Steel Stocks Lower—More Gold Taken for Export.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The stagnation in the eastern stock market was broken yesterday, but it was at the expense of values. London sent slightly higher prices, accompanied by buying orders for about 8,000 shares, and during the morning session there was an increase in the volume of trading, the sales for the two hours reaching 160,000 shares, which was equal to the total for the five hours of the day before. A feature which attracted attention was the weakness in New York Central, and the resumption of the selling movement in United States Steel. This feature became more pronounced during the afternoon, and on increasing activity the market became decidedly weak. The leader in the decline was New York Central, which lost four points, selling down to 121¾, the lowest quoted since 1898. The street was full of rumors to account for the weakness. The disparity between New York Central and Pennsylvania has frequently been referred to in this column, and there has been ample reason why the former should decline if the latter would not advance. Pennsylvania has declined because of the addition of $75,000,000 new stock on which dividends must be earned, and yesterday New York Central declined because of the feeling that the company must follow the example of Pennsylvania and issue new securities to obtain the means for making improvements. New York Central has an authorized capital of $150,000,000, of which $132,509,000 is outstanding, and it was current talk in Wall street that the company was marketing a portion of the $17,500,000 treasury stock. The weakness had a depressing effect upon the general railroad list. Pennsylvania declined 1¾ per cent to 124¾, or within 1¾ per cent of the lowest touched last month. St. Paul declined 2⅝ per cent to 149¾, which is within 2 per cent of the low price of the year. The granger stocks declined 1⅝ per cent, the latter Atchison, which sold down to 68¾. While these declines were in progress United States Steel developed considerable weakness, the common selling off to 28¾ and the preferred to 79¾. Colorado Fuel & Iron broke 3½ per cent to 59½ and Tennessee Coal & Iron 2¼ per cent to 49¾. Amalgamated Copper declined to 52¾. In the late dealings the coal stocks were quite weak, Reading and Norfolk & Western declining 2 per cent and the Eries 1¼ per cent. The close was at or near the lowest of the day. The total sales were 440,300 shares.

◉ ◉ ◉

A prominent Pittsburgh house wired one of the oldest bankers and brokers in New York as to the cause of the weakness in the market. The reply was that there was no news, but that liquidation had been resumed and that there were rumors of something hanging over it that would develop later. The [illegible] the grangers was no doubt influenced by the weakness in the [illegible] and by the strength of the [illegible]et, which was thought to be [illegible] the government crop report. [illegible]ess in the steel stocks was [illegible]ely upon a report that a cut of [illegible]r a ton had been made in the [illegible]of steel billets, and that renewed [illegible]and had appeared in the market for [illegible] iron.

◉ ◉ ◉

Late in the afternoon the announcement was made of the engagement of $2,500,000 gold for export by tomorrow's steamer. This makes $6,250,000 for the week, and $28,250,000 since the movement began last April. The call money market did not reflect either the outward movement of gold or the firmer tendency of the market for time loans. One of the things which has been at variance with the apparent ease in the call money market has been the borrowing by large corporations at 5 and 6 per cent for long periods. It was reported yesterday that two New York interests have recently been borrowers of large sums at 6 per cent for periods running fom two to three years. It was also reported that country banks were making applications in the east for loans, and that a movement of currency to the interior was likely to begin earlier than usual this season. In fact, the incidents of the day had the effect of again turning Wall street to the "bear" side of the market, and of leading to the opinion that the money market will be firmer rather than easier during the remainder of the year. Perhaps today's government crop report may change sentiment; but it has frequently been pointed out that with Europe drawing from New York on quite a big scale, and big crops and industrial activity drawing upon the other side, there will remain little for the speculator in the stock market upon which to build hopes of improvement in security values. The market does not long remain stationary. It nearly reached that condition on Wednesday, when the movement in values was insignificant and the total sales footed up the smallest for three years. Yesterday the stagnation was broken, but values suffered as a consequence, and the declines were more disturbing than at any time since the 10th of last month, when the lowest level for years was established. When prices yield as easily as they did yesterday, "bears" will be emboldened to attack, and professional traders will act upon the theory that if the public will not come in at this level, the public will try for a lower level and see if that will prove attractive.

◉ ◉ ◉

There was more activity in local stocks yesterday, but the market was narrow, the transactions being restricted to a comparatively small number of stocks. The largest dealings were in Crucible Steel, 1,540 shares of the common changing hands at 14⅝ down to 13¾, the last closing at the decline. The preferred also sold off to 79½ and closed at the lowest. The weakness appeared in Crucible before the decline in United States Steel in the east, and could not, therefore, be attributed to the latter. The selling was confined mainly to two houses. United States Steel common sold off to 29 and the preferred to 79¾, the market here not touching the extreme decline quoted in the east. Pittsburgh Coal common was moderately active and weak, declining to 27¾, and closing at 27⅞ bid. The preferred remained unchanged at 87. Natural gas stocks were dull and heavy. The Westinghouse stocks were lower, Airbrake selling at 155 and Electric at 93½, the latter closing at 92 the best bid. There were no sales of Union Switch & Signal, but the rights were active and declined to 25 cents, closing without bid. The first installment on the stock is payable today. The remainder of the industrial group was dull and heavy. In the banking group a sharp reaction occurred in Real Estate Trust, which opened lower at 307, sold down to 300, and was offered at 290 at the close, a net decline of 18 per cent from the highest price of the previous day. A small lot of American Trust sold at 490, and 490 was the best bid at the close for outside loans. Colonial Trust was quoted at 550 bid. There was no change in the rest of the list, and the market closed rather heavy.

PITTSBURGH STOCKS.

Transactions on the Pittsburgh stock exchange yesterday aggregated 5,183 shares stock, 1,730 rights and $1,000 bond. Sales:

All Eyes on the Crops.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock the government will issue its crop report, estimating the average condition of wheat, corn and oats on the 1st inst. It will be the first report of the season on corn, and inasmuch as there is widespread interest in the subject—not alone in Wall street, but throughout the business community—some figures are given herewith that will be useful for comparison with the report to be given out this afternoon. The June report showed the average condition of winter wheat to be 82.2 and spring wheat 88.8, including both, 87.1, which was followed by 168,000,000 bushels winter wheat and 288,000,000 spring wheat, or a total crop of 181,000,000. Unofficial but expert reporters, in anticipating the government figures, have estimated the present indicated yield at 740,000,000, or within 8,000,000 of the largest crop ever harvested, which was two years ago. For the first government report will be the first estimate on the present corn crop today. At the corresponding date a year ago the average condition of corn was reported at 91.5 and the crop harvested was 2,927,000,000 bushels, the largest ever raised. At the corresponding date two years ago the average condition was 91.3, and the crop harvested was the smallest since the partial failure of 1894, amounting to only 1,522,000,000 bushels. State reports have been made this week by Texas, Kansas, Ohio, Missouri, Indiana and Illinois, a decrease in acreage and reduction in condition in these great corn states, and unofficial estimates have placed the probable yield this year at 2,700,000,000 bushels.

The lowest average July condition of corn in the past six years was 81.3 in 1901, and if the government figures today are no worse than that, they will be considered fairly satisfactory. The greatest damage to corn in 1901 occurred during the month of July, the average condition for the month being 72 per cent in that year. This was due to the scorching temperatures of that month, which were unprecedentedly high, and the previous rainfall had not been sufficient to carry the crop over the critical month. This year the cause of the delay in planting was cold, wet weather, and it is the opinion of authorities that the ground could not be heated during June that it will be able to withstand high temperatures this month.

The condition of oats on June 1 was 85.5, indicating a yield of 862,000,000 bushels. To-day's figures are likely to show some deterioration. At the corresponding date last year the condition was 90.6, which was followed by an average for five years, and the crop harvested in 1902 was 916,000,000 bushels. The importance of these three crops in a monetary sense becomes apparent when it is stated that the farm values at the close of each harvest, as estimated by the government, were as follows:

	1902.	1901.
Wheat	$ 472,000,000	$ 467,000,000
Corn	1,047,000,000	921,000,000
Oats	308,000,000	225,000,000
	$1,742,000,000	$1,613,000,000

The value of the hay crop for 1902 was $542,000,000, which, added to the figures for the three principal cereal crops, would bring the value up to $2,284,000,000.

Bad Bank Statement Foreshadowed.

The announcement just before the close of the market of the engagement of $2,000,000 in gold for export on Saturday helped the late weakness. With the movement of currency from the interior arrested, and with a loss indicated already to the sub-treasury of $2,488,000 including payments for gold exported, and a surplus reserve last Saturday of less than $2,000,000 in the banks, the influence of the further gold outgo reported may be understood. These figures foreshadow an unfavorable bank statement tomorrow. The continued drain upon New York banks is in strong contrast to the prompt and enormous recuperation shown by the Bank of England and the Bank of France in their weekly statements today, following the semi-annual settlements.

Rumored N. Y. Central Loan.

There was no definite news to account for the marked weakness of New York Central, but the rate was regarded as giving ground for ominous conjecture. These took form in various surmises as to measures to be adopted by the corporation to secure the capital which will be required to carry on the vast terminal and other improvements which have been undertaken. The extent of this capital requirement is well known and the variation in the days' rumors had to do simply with the manner of raising it. There were rumors of a projected issue of new stock, of a bond issue and of a temporary loan on the security of notes. The recent experience of the Pennsylvania in floating its new stock does not offer encouragement for a similar undertaking by other railroad corporations.

It is to be borne in mind that the New York Central stockholders have authorized nearly $18,000,000 of stock which it lies with the directors to issue. This is also a fact that of the general refunding mortgage for $100,000,000 authorized in 1897, $55,000,000 was for refunding underlying bonds, while $15,000,000 was reserved for new construction after 1903. The market price of this bond is therefore likely to be low 101 until last week, when they sold at par, and yesterday they sold at 96, without large blocks being marketed in the interval. To infer an attempt to put out a new issue of these bonds at present, therefore, seems unwarranted.

These conditions gave color to the day's rumor of the negotiation of a loan of some thing like $18,000,000, the rumor as circulated including the further detail of an interest rate to be paid at 6 per cent.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

Nearly all the selling of Crucible Steel common and preferred yesterday was by Marlin and Robinson Bros. The buying was well distributed. The common stocks has been a favorite speculation [illegible] is probably more widely held than any other industrial. The preferred stock is also widely held as an investment, it being recommended by brokers to their customers as much from the fact of the clean and able management of the corporation as from the belief that it had underlying [illegible] earning power. The preferred stock has held remarkably well, considering that its market is practically restricted. The decline in the common stock has declined almost continuously for a year. This decline has amounted to about $10 a share, but it has been so gradual as to excite little [illegible]. Buying on the decline has been largely for the purpose of exchanging holdings that cost more money, the feeling being strong that with the Clairton plant in operation and contributing to the net earnings of Crucible, the latter would ultimately improve. Yesterday's decline carried the price to practically the lowest ever quoted, and attracted attention for the reason that there was no special cause for the weakness.

Real Estate Trust did not long retain its advance, and closed offered at 299, a net decline of 8 per cent, compared with the close of the day before. The impression prevails in the street that the deal with the Standard Security Trust does not conclude its contemplated acquisitions.

The selling of rights on Union Switch & Signal was by persons who did not wish to exercise the privilege of subscribing for new stock at $70 a share, the first payment on which is due today. The price declined to 25 cents, as compared with $1 earlier in the week, and the buying was credited to insiders. The subscriptions occur at a rather unfortunate period in the money market, and the price of 40 per cent premium over par does not look so attractive as it would have appeared a few months ago before the Pennsylvania railroad subscription absorbed $70,000,000 of investment funds. The impression prevails that the dividend rate on Switch will be increased when the new stock is full paid.

The only transaction in National Fire Proofing yesterday was 50 shares of the preferred at 36½, which was unchanged from the last previous sale. After the close of the market the directors announced the declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent on the preferred stock, payable July 25 to stock of record July 15. At the current market price the stock pays about 9⅞ per cent on the investment.

A small lot of Manufacturers Light & Heat sold at 53¼ ex-dividend. Ohio Fuel Supply sold at 41, the close of the day. There were no transactions in Philadelphia Company, which was offered at 42½.

On light sales Pittsburgh Brewing preferred declined to 47. There were no sales of the common.

River Coal common sold unchanged at 10¾. The preferred was ½ lower at 38½.

German American Savings & Trust sold at 615, and closed at that price bid. Colonial Trust closed at 550 bid, and American Trust at 480 bid. There were no quotations on Farmers Deposit National bank.

The Central District & Printing Telegraph Company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent, payable July 31.

OODLAND ROAD RESIDENCE SOLD

Mrs. Cyrus B. King Secured a Fine Squirrel Hill Property for $70,500.

A SALE IN BARTLETT STREET

South Side Property Bought for $16,000. Building and Loan Association Wants Perpetual Charter—Good Houses Assured for Two New Lot Plans.

The H. C. Bushman residence in Woodland road, Squirrel Hill, has been sold through George Bros., to Mrs. Cyrus B. King of Allegheny, for $70,500. The property is a choice one, combining the advantages of a country place with the conveniences of a home in the heart of the residence district. It has a frontage of 215 feet on the west side of the road about 250 feet south of Fifth avenue, and runs back 230 feet. Adjoining it on the north are the properties of S. Jarvis Adams and M. Bughman. On the south is the property of the Pennsylvania Female college. Directly across Woodland road is the large tract known as the Thomas Howe property and across Fifth avenue, a short distance away, is the handsome new residence of Mrs. John R. McCune. The Bughman residence is a three-story brick house containing 16 rooms. It is finished throughout in hardwood, has four bath rooms and was built only seven years ago. The grounds are beautifully set with trees and shrubbery, making the place one of the choicest homes in the road. Two squares south of this property are the seven properties containing 1,000 feet frontage on Woodland road, which George Bros. sold last year. Three of these are now being improved with houses costing from $20,000 to $60,000, and the other owners expect to build next year.

Only Three Left Unsold.

Another house in the Squirrel Hill district was sold yesterday for $18,500 to W. A. Warren, formerly of Buffalo. It belonged to Harry M. Gross and the deal was made through the W. H. Silvington Company. The residence is a 12-room center hall pressed brick house with hardwood finish and stands on a lot 80x150 feet, at No. 5813 Bartlett street, near Murray avenue. This is the 12th house which Mr. Gross has sold out of the 15 he built in Bartlett street last year.

Through Joseph G. Rahm, a good South Side purchase was made yesterday. The property is that at No. 2518 Carson street, and was owned by W. C. Duncan, who sold it to Mr. Rahm for $18,000. The lot is 24x120 feet. On the front is a three-story brick and steel store building, and a frame dwelling stands on the rear of the lot. The total rental is $120 a month, which pays about 7 per cent net on the investment.

David T. Torrance has sold to Joshua C. Duncan of Johnstown, Pa., a good residence property in the east side of Craig street near Center avenue, Fourteenth ward. The house contains 12 rooms and stands on a lot 50x132 feet. It adjoins the property of R. G. Carlisle and William Mazet.

B. & L. Association With Good Record.

The Pittsburgh Central Building & Loan association, which was chartered in 1883, has applied for a perpetual charter, its first charter expiring next month. The company is a small one, but always has been prosperous and has the enviable record of having owned only one piece of real estate in the 20 years' existence and this was sold within six months. The assets amount to about $50,000, and the profits for 1902 were 9.8 per cent. Following are the officers: Mathias Schmidt, president; A. L. Mamaux, vice president; H. F. Morris, treasurer; F. A. Kimball, secretary; Thomas Leggate, attorney.

At a meeting Monday the Mt. Lebanon Land & Trust Company voted to build six houses on its plan at Clearview. The houses will be ten room reception hall brick dwellings, and will be built on Washington street and Acadamy avenue at a cost of $5,500 each. Besides this bunch Justus Miller, president of the company, will build two $6,000 brick houses and six other houses costing from $4,000 to $6,000 each will be started in a few weeks.

Fine Houses for Walker Place.

George T. McDonald has awarded the contract to John Hallsch for building six reception hall brick houses of ten rooms each in Marlboro avenue, Walker place, Allegheny, for $6,000 each, and to Fred Thubron, the contractor, for building three $4,000 brick houses in Verner avenue. The plans were drawn by Architect T. H. Scott, who is now preparing plans for six center hall houses to be built for the Walker Place Land Company in Marlboro street and Mansion avenue at a cost of $8,000 each.

Plans are being prepared by Architects Neal & Rowland for extensive alterations and improvements to the factory shop of Dauler, Close & Johns in Strawberry alley. The changes will cost $15,000.

Architects Milligan & Miller are taking bids on plans which they have drawn, which will build in Hampton avenue, Wilkinsburg, at a cost of $8,500 each, and for two houses to be built in Harrison avenue, Wilkinsburg, at a cost of $6,250 each. They have let the contract to Jack Bros. for the parsonage of the Mifflin Avenue Methodist Episcopal church to cost $6,000, and are drawing plans for a brick and shingle cottage in East End avenue for J. Bigen to cost $4,000.

New Contract to Be Awarded.

The controversy between Architect Sidney F. Hockert and Alderman-Contractor William F. Walsh has resulted in the former advertising for new bids to complete the excavation for the Bedford public building, Bedford street. Mr. Walsh tried to secure a force of men again yesterday and proceed with the work, but owing to the fact that Architect Hockert had failed to get the city's consent to this success. It is expected that a new contract for the excavation will be awarded in a few days, when it is likely Mr. Walsh will take the job on his own terms.

Hartje Bros. were granted a permit yesterday for their eight-story warehouse to be built in Second avenue just above Wood street. Plans were drawn by Architect Charles Bickel and the estimated cost is $50,000.

Other permits were granted to A. Morrison for a brick house in East End avenue, Twenty-second ward, to cost $8,000, and to Dennis P. Kost for a brick apartment house in Locust street, Sixth ward, to cost $6,000.

Vine Street Houses Bring $14,250.

The Aronson Realty Co. sold for M. Perrin to Attorney L. L. Aronson four 8-room brick houses, lot 80x100 feet, in Vine street, for $14,250.

42d End: T. T. Cross sold for the B. Kost estate to Nicholas Farmichelle a 5-room frame house, lot 33x100 feet, in Luna street near Larimer avenue, for $2,650. For William E. Murray to T. A. Downey, a lot 25x140 feet in Lincoln avenue near Lemington avenue, for $1,000; for W. E. Murray to T. A. Downey, a lot 25x120 feet in Woodstock avenue, Swissvale, for $1,000.

Coffee and Sugar.

NEW YORK, July 9.—The market for coffee futures opened steady at unchanged prices, to decline 5@10 points, notwithstanding the heavy receipts and disappointing German cables turned very much firmer under higher French cables and support by the old time bull clique. Closing steady at a net advance of 10@20 points. Sales were 275,000 bags, including July, 3.80c; September, 4.00c; October, 4.00@4.05c; November, 4.00@4.05c; December, 4.40c; January, 4.40c; March, 4.45@4.55c; May, 4.60@4.70c. CROPS BENEFITED BY RECENT RAINS

Much Better Outlook for Eastern Hay — String Beans Are Weak.

Rains throughout the eastern states during the last few weeks have greatly benefited crops of all kinds, and this is noticeable particularly in hay. Grass which only three weeks ago was reported killed has been revived, and late estimates are that crops in the eastern section of the country will amount to about two-thirds of an average. This is surprising, for experience in the past has been that grass which was as far gone as was that of this spring, to all outward appearance, could not be expected to revive. A much easier tone has prevailed in the market recently as a result of the improved crop conditions, and hay has been arriving of good grade, but buyers have been inclined to hold off, evidently expecting lower prices. Demand has been limited. Low grades are hard to move at any figure the situation for this character of stock being dull. Oats are firmer than other wares, and corn is doing better. Quotations remain unchanged, but there is a much stronger feeling pervading the market.

Cereal foods maintain quotations at which they opened the week, and are firmly held by reason of the low stocks of spot grain, but favorable crop outlook indicates that there will be weaker prices than have been asked for new and grain supplies are better. Flour is steady as quoted, with prices maintained without concessions. Sugar is still unexcitedly quiet, and refiners are buying only in limited quantities. Coffee is firmly on hold, but the market is devoid of special features. Canned corn is strong and advancing, while tomatoes are slow, and weak. Dried and evaporated fruits are quiet but steady.

There was little doing in the fruit and produce market yesterday, the warm weather interfering with trade to some extent, while the absence from the city of so many people who are away for their summer outings is now quite noticeable. Prices remained without change, the weakest article on the list being string beans, which are in great plenty, and are selling for almost any price that can be secured. Potatoes are steady. Berries of all kinds have been coming in slowly for a day or two, except huckleberries, which were in liberal supply yesterday. Cantaloupes are holding at the range which has been recognized all week, and watermelons are steady.

No change is noticeable in butter, cheese or eggs, the market for all three just about holding its own with demand and supply about ample for all requirements. Poultry continues at prices last quoted, with chickens coming in freely.

WHEAT CORN AND OATS HIGHER IN CHICAGO PITS

Market Was Fairly Active and Strong During Yesterday's Session.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, July 9.—Opening sales on wheat were made at slightly lower prices due to lower cables and favorable weather. Septembers being unchanged to ⅛c lower at 77@77¼c; but in spite of these bearish conditions there was a bullish sentiment prevailing among traders, and prices were firm. The market advanced quickly on the strength at St. Louis and New York and on continued reports of a poor yield and shorts covered freely. There was also good buying by the Northwest and prices for September had sold up to 78¾c there was a reaction on liquidation, but the market at no time showed weakness. One of the bullish factors was the report from Russia to the effect that the crop was badly damaged by heat. The close was strong. Primary receipts were 287,100 bushels against 432,500 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis and Duluth reported receipts of 190 cars, which with local receipts of 22 cars, two of contract grade, made total receipts for the three points of 182 cars against 282 last week and 267 a year ago.

Unfavorable news from Illinois and Nebraska, together with the strength in wheat caused a strong tone in the market. There was considerable buying by local traders on the notion that the government crop report would be bullish. Local receipts were 270 cars with 27 of contract grade.

Oats were extremely quiet but prices were firm and closed ½@¾c higher than in other grains. Receipts were small and the cash demand slow. The close was firm. Local receipts were 131 cars.

Provisions ruled dull and featureless and with selling for foreign account with little support, the market showed weakness. September pork closing 45c lower at $15 00, September lard 2½@2½c at $7 99, and ribs 1½c lower at $8 07½.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 15 cars; corn, 415 cars; oats, 120 cars, hogs, 18,000 head.

The leading futures reported by John D. Armstrong & Co., members of the Chicago board of trade, Farmers Bank building, are as follows:

CELEBRATION ON THE RIVER.

Opening of Herrs Island Dam Is to Be Marked by a Gala Day.

Preparations are being made to celebrate the completion of Herrs Island dam and the entering wedge for a slack water system on the Allegheny river. A grand celebration was held at the opening of the Davis Island dam and as great a one will be given this time. The date set is July 28. Invitations have been sent to Secretary of War Elihu Root, his first assistant, William C. Sanger, member of the rivers and harbors committee, and many others interested in river improvements.

These improvements mean much to the commercial prosperity of the Allegheny and Ohio Valleys, and a large attendance is expected from all river points. All the boats of the Packet line will be gaily decorated and at a specified time there will be a general blowing of whistles for a stated period. An entertaining program is in course of preparation. There will probably be a parade of the steamers on the harbor and several bands of music. It is hoped to make it a gala day for local rivermen, such as has never been equalled here before. During the afternoon the Allegheny River Improvement society will hold a meeting on board one of the steamers.

Herrs Island dam is the first of a series of dams in process of construction for slack waterning the Allegheny river. It cost about $60,000, and its lock ranks as the largest in the world. The dam was opened for the first time but a few weeks ago. The celebration is under the auspices of the Allegheny River Improvement society.

The stage of water at the Davis Island dam at 2 o'clock last night was 5.4 feet, and the river was falling.

The Lorena from Zanesville and the Greenwood from Charleston were due to arrive during the night.

The water is falling so fast in the local harbor that it will be necessary to raise the wickets of Davis Island dam soon.

The steamer Virginia will not be in tonight from Cincinnati, as she will be in the excursion trade at Cincinnati until July 12. She will resume her regular trips next week if the water holds good.

The Stella Moren, Rover, Voyager, Charlie Clark and several other steamers are returning with tows of coal from Monongahela. A large number of tows are already in the harbor, and there will be enough to keep the mines going all summer. If the water keeps falling it will be a long time before towboat navigation will be tied up again.

The rivermen are protesting against the alleged delay of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in complying with the order of the secretary of war to remove the channel pier in the company's bridge which is in course of erection at Steubenville. The pilots say it is dangerous and a difficult matter for down-river steamers with tows to pass this point safely if the water is at all low.

The monthly report of the tonnage of the Monongahela river shows that 18,382,850 bushels of coal passed Davis Island dam during the month. The total tonnage of the river was 769,272 tons. The month was a busy one after the first rise, and most of the tonnage passed down the river the latter part of the month.

Evans Jenkins of Cleveland, O., vice president of the Marine Engineers' Beneficial association, will visit Pittsburgh next week in the interest of the organization. The books of the local association, No. 20, and the cases which will be brought before the United States inspectors, will be investigated. Capt. Jones, after visiting here a few days, will make the annual tour of the associations along the river. The Pittsburgh association will be organized at Point Pleasant or Gallipolis.

The Drygoods Market.

NEW YORK, July 9.—The drygoods market is in a quiet and waiting attitude. Buyers are not operating with signs of interest in the situation except in the case of spot goods which may be wanted for immediate requirements. The continued scarcity of cotton at the mills is causing a maintenance of the independent spirit that has characterized manufacturers dealings for some time.

The Cotton Market.

NEW YORK, July 9.—Cotton—Spot closed quiet, 60 points higher; middlings, $12 20; middling gulf, $12 45; sales, 175 bales. Unlimited receipts at the ports today, 3,000 bales; against 2,867 bales last year; and 5,000 bales last week. For the week 15,000 bales, against 18,651 bales last week and 10,658 bales last year. Today's receipts at New Orleans were seven bales; against 136 bales last year; at Houston 16 bales

BRITISH ADMIRE MR. ROOSEVELT

Lord Charles Beresford Says President Will Bring English Nations Together.

ENTERTAIN NAVY OFFICERS

Visitors in England from the American European Squadron Are Given an Elaborate Luncheon at the Pilgrims Club in London.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, July 9.—At the Pilgrims' club luncheon to the visiting American naval officers at the Carlton club today Vice Admiral Lord Charles Beresford read the following message from the prince of Wales:

"I very much regret that an engagement will prevent me from being present. Please assure the American naval officers how sorry I am that I am unable to have the pleasure of meeting them on this occasion."

The luncheon was given in the main restaurant of the club. Two hundred persons were seated at small tables, which were decorated with American and British flags and roses. At the center table Lord Beresford presided. On his right was seated Rear Admiral Cotton and on his left Capt. Lampton, naval aide-de-camp to King Edward. Ambassador Choate, Senator Gorman, Senator Depew, Gen. Lord Grenfell, the archdeacon of London, Dr. Sinclair, and Admiral Sir John Dalrymple Hay sat at the same table.

The scene was picturesque and novel. All the American and a number of British officers were in uniform. The palm room was crowded with spectators.

In proposing the toast of "The King," Lord Beresford said it was particularly easy to do so, owing to recent events in which the king had been a messenger of peace and good will toward all nations. The interest of the whole world favored peace. He believed the day was coming when King Edward would be known as "Edward the Peacemaker." The toast was drunk with enthusiasm and then Lord Beresford toasted "President Roosevelt," and asked why the president was liked in England. He added:

"We like the man. We like the strong, generous man, what I may call the real human man. The president will do his level best to bring the two great English speaking nations together in one harmonious whole, which is the same idea King Edward had on the occasion of his visit to the president of France. If President Roosevelt were to come here I believe the enthusiasm would be far greater than in the case of any reception ever accorded to any visitor from any country."

In proposing "The American Navy," Lord Beresford said that whenever there was anything disagreeable abroad Great Britain and America generally drifted together. If these two nations got together to maintain their common interests and commerce it would make for the peace of the world. Neither Great Britain nor America wanted alliance, "but," the speaker added, "we want an understanding."

"Both Great Britain and America are increasing their fleets, but that is no more a threat to the other nations than increasing the police force of their cities in order to maintain order."

Admiral Cotton in replying testified to the warm feeling existing between the two nations and their navies and recalled instances where British and Americans had served together. He thanked the king and the people of Great Britain for the welcome given to the Americans and proposed the health of Lord Beresford amidst great enthusiasm.

After the luncheon Ambassador Choate held a reception at his house in honor of the American officers.

STOLE BLANKET TO BUY MEDICINE FOR SICK WIFE

Former Officer in German Army Reduced to Pitiful Straits in New York.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, July 9.—His money all gone, Kurt Friedberg, once an officer in the Kaiser's army, stole a blanket and pawned it to get medicine for his sick wife, and tonight he lies in jail, though good friends are trying to secure his release, and if successful will send him back to the Fatherland. Friedberg admits the theft and pleads in extenuation the fact that his wife would have died had he not secured the medicine.

A little over a year ago, when Friedberg was a lieutenant in the German army, he was sent to Brazil on an important commission for Emperor William. There he met the girl who is now his wife. He then went back to Germany and was married again according to the German army rules. The couple then came to this country. While his money lasted Friedberg and his wife lived in various hotels in the city, but at last their funds having become low, they went to board with Mrs. Julia Engel. The young man's wife was taken seriously ill, and for a time was near death. One day the medicine prescribed for her gave out. Becoming desperate Friedberg took a blanket from his bedroom and pawned it for 15 cents, the price of the medicine. Mrs. Engel missed the blanket and Friedberg unhesitatingly told her what had become of it.

It is believed work will be started today by the Connellsville company to rebuild the line.

ANOTHER RECORD TO BE SHATTERED

Steel Corporation Expects This Year to Exceed Production of 1902.

DEMAND ABATES BUT LITTLE

Output of Bessemer Steel Ingots and Castings Is Expected to Be About 9,300,000 Tons—Many Orders Still Sent Abroad.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, July 9.

Officials of the United States Steel Corporation point to the fact that the third quarter of this year is likely to be a record breaker in production. They assert that the corporation is now making gains over the same period last year. This is evidenced by the showing for the month of June, 1903, when the net earnings exceeded by $600,000 the net earnings for June, 1902.

On the basis of earnings for the first half of the year, the net earnings for the year will aggregate $123,136,470, while the undivided surplus for the 12 months ending December 31, will be not less than $34,074,004. This will compare with the undivided surplus of 1902 of $34,253,656. The corporation has made provision for the payment of preferred dividends independent of the bond conversion, so that when the conversion is completed it will make no difference in the funds provided, except to decrease the amount heretofore paid for dividends on the preferred.

For the current half year the corporation must set apart $7,385,299 for sinking funds on bonds or subsidiary companies and depreciation, and reserve funds of $9,120,000, for the interest on the 50-year bonds and for the sinking fund on these; $28,025,889 will be required for dividends on the preferred and common stocks. These are all the charges aside from the expenditures for ordinary repairs, renewals and maintenance of plants, which are deducted each month from the net earnings of each subsidiary company.

If the corporation and its competitors in the iron and steel trade continue production of Bessemer ingots and castings during the second half of the year at the rate of the first half, the total production for the year will probably exceed that of 1902, which was a record breaker. The demand for ingots is shown in the orders given foreign steel makers and the continued imports, while all the mills of this country are trying to keep up with orders. The total output in 1902, the banner season, aggregated 9,138,363 tons, as compared with 5,475,315 tons in 1897 and 6,684,770 tons in 1900. This year the output may be in excess of 9,900,000 tons, which would be the record production.

Since 1890 the yearly output of Bessemer steel ingots and castings by years has been:

Years.	Tons.	Years.	Tons.
1890	7,586,354	1901	8,718,392
1900	6,684,770	1902	9,138,363

The extraordinary demands for all kinds of iron and steel products the last few years have kept so far ahead of production that imports were the only relief. Among steel men the opinion obtains that this demand will continue strong enough for exports to be profitable for at least another half year.
